TAFT AND HUGHES SURE OF VICTORY.

Raymond Says New York State Now Has Swung Back to the Straight Republican Ticket.

PLURALITY TO BE 100,000.

Many Who Were Foes of Governor Have Lined Up for Him; Campaign Fund Is Growing.

BY RAYMOND.

Copyright: 1908: By Tribune Company, Chicago.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—"This is the last time a man will run for the presidency on his windpipe alone," said Senator Dolliver as he stood at the entrance of the republican national committee rooms, talking to Charles P. Taft and THE TRIBUNE correspondent. "Never again will any man try to talk himself into the presidency. The people always will insist upon a candidate who is able to show some good reason why he should be elected president. The tide has set in strongly for Mr. Taft and he will be elected by an overwhelming majority."

This epigrammatic interview expresses clearly the changed atmosphere which is so apparent in New York as compared with that which was observable when I was last here more than a month ago. Almost every one now admits New York state is absolutely certain for Taft and that it is almost equally sure for Hughes.

The tide has turned strongly in favor of the governor of late and men who were loud in their denunciation of him a month ago or six weeks ago now say they will cast their ballots for the straight republican ticket.

Expect 100,000 for Taft.

People who are posted are looking for a majority of over 100,000 for Taft in the Empire state. They expect less for Hughes, but are confident of his victory. The democratic leaders, in fact, now admit that New York is gone beyond hope of recovery. They thought for awhile that they could elect Chanler, but even that hope has disappeared.

Gov. Hughes has made a splendid campaigning tour, and he has won votes up the state in most remarkable fashion. It is now conceded, therefore, that he will come down to the Bronx with such a swinging majority that even the utmost efforts of Tammany hall, supplemented by the work of Pat McCarren over in Brooklyn, will not come anywhere near beating him. It is now nothing more nor less in New York state but a question of majority.

All this may seem extravagant to those who are not acquainted with the extraordinary revulsion of public sentiment which has taken place in this city and state within the last two or three weeks. Only this week word was received from the White house that President Roosevelt expected New York to give Taft almost as much of a plurality as it gave to the president himself four years ago, which was 175,000 in round numbers.

Hughes Close Behind Taft.

The reports sent by the local leaders in every county, and conveyed direct to the president, are to the effect that Hughes will run closer to Taft than most people have imagined, and the president, who is admitted to be the best politician in the country, asserts that the governor will come down to the Bronx with a record breaking majority.

For a long time it looked as if Chanler might win. The racetrack issue was used against the governor with great effect among the sporting element. A large fund was subscribed by the professional horsemen, the gamblers, and the liquor interests. At first they made a good deal of noise, and it really seemed as if Hughes would be beaten. Then the reaction came. The activity of the liquor interests in the cities and of the betting men everywhere was resented by the farmers up the state and by the substantial business men in the cities. The result is that the opinion is expressed in some quarters now that the racing issue has done Hughes more good than harm.

The governor unquestionably has made a spectacular campaign. He has crossed over the state again and again, and has hammered Chanler and Bryan alike to the evident relish of his audiences.

Hughes Learns Game Quickly.

When he ran against Hearst in 1906 Gov. Hughes was green at the political game. He had been a successful lawyer and a patient investigator, but he was not a practiced stump speaker. At first he did not know how to get at his audiences, but toward the end of the campaign he had learned the game thoroughly. Today he is possibly the best campaigner in America. Mr. Bryan himself not excepted, because Gov. Hughes has an analytical turn of mind and drives home his points with simple logic devoid of all oratorical effort.

They are making a whirlwind finish in New York this week. Both candidates for president are in the state at the same time, and, in fact, have been in and about New York City all day. The governor spoke in Gloversville, Johnstown, and Amsterdam, and Lieut. Gov. Chanler, who wants to fill his place, was heard in Kingston.

Mr. Bryan demonstrated his capacity as a campaigner by making something like fifteen speeches today, beginning at Paterson, N. J., early in the morning, taking a flying trip into Connecticut, and winding up at the big rally at the Madison Square Garden tonight. In the meantime, Mr. Taft went over to New Haven, where he spent so many happy days as a college student, worked his way back to the city through Bridgeport and other places on the sound, and wound up with five rattling speeches in Brooklyn tonight.

Two More Days' Fighting.

The two candidates have crossed each other's trail frequently during the day and they will continue to do so tomorrow and Wednesday. Mr. Taft comes back to New York for his big rally Wednesday night and will stay in the state until the end of the week, winding up his campaign at Cleveland and Youngstown, O., the day before election.

The presence of the presidential candidate, the return of Chairman Hitchcock from Chicago, and the continued reception of favorable reports from up the state put the republican managers and spellbinders in extremely good humor today. They see nothing but victory up the state, and in New York and Brooklyn the conditions have improved materially and are expected to continue on the up grade during the rest of the week.

It is just beginning to dawn upon the democratic managers that they have been making their estimates on New York state entirely on a false basis. In the first place, they

SCHOOL PAY SCALE NOT HIGH ENOUGH

Supt. Cooley Makes Sharp Attack on the Prevailing Schedule for Higher Teachers.

MACHINISTS GET MORE.

Caustic criticism of the prevailing salary schedule for Chicago high school teachers is contained in two reports presented to the school management committee yesterday by Supt. E. G. Cooley. As a result of the reports action was taken which may result in radical changes in the schedules for teachers of special subjects.

In a joint report on the requirements for high school teachers' certificates the superintendent and the committee of high school principals said:

"Blacksmiths, foundrymen, and machinists have frequently been appointed at salaries ranging from $1,200 to $1,400, while teacher after teacher of academic subjects has refused to come to Chicago after he has passed our examination, because we are unable to offer him more than $1,200."

Dearth of Men Teachers.

In a second report, presented by himself alone, Mr. Cooley said:

"The dearth of men teachers, not alone in the special departments, but in English, science, mathematics, and the other subjects of the regular high school course, is one of the most alarming consequences of our present insufficient salary schedules."

The entire problem of teacher's salaries is in the hands of the school finance committee, to be readjusted, if possible, by Jan. 1, 1909. To meet the difficulty presented by Mr. Cooley, however, the committee adopted a recommendation of the principals' committee providing that a special grade of certificates be granted to teachers of commercial subjects, manual training, sewing, cooking, music, drawing, and physical culture, and that "teachers holding these certificates be placed on a salary schedule with a lower maximum than obtains for teachers holding a regular certificate."

School Athletics Criticised.

The meeting, which was held behind closed doors, was called to settle a disagreement between Supt. Cooley and Henry Suder, supervisor of physical culture, on the question of lowering the examination requirements for teachers of physical culture. In his report, which opposed any further reduction in the requirements, Mr. Cooley said:

"In the Chicago high schools the work in physical culture has been for many years unsatisfactory to most of the principals. The teachers of physical culture have had neither the interest nor the information necessary to make them real leaders of the boys and girls in sports and games, which are now regarded as an essential part of young people's education.

"The teacher of physical culture teaches classes in the gymnasium, but when the boys wish to play football or baseball or tennis or any other outdoor sport they have to look for leadership to the teachers of academic subjects in the high schools. This division of interest in physical training has not been a good thing for the high schools. So marked has this condition become that only recently a prominent downtown athletic club started a movement to take hold of high school athletics and relieve the academic teachers of this work. We have long since ceased to look to the teachers of physical culture for any help in this matter."

For Increase of Requirements.

The superintendent believes the schools should not have illiterate teachers of physical culture, sewing, kindergarten work, or any other department of the school system.

After a discussion that lasted two hours the committee voted to adopt the recommendations of the superintendent and the committee of high school principals. These provide that the general requirements for teachers of special subjects shall be not reduced but "increased as fast as conditions permit"; that the employment of women teachers of physical culture in elementary schools shall not be discouraged; that women teachers shall be employed in the high schools for girls; that the Normal school shall have a gymnasium as soon as possible, and that any high school teacher holding a general high school certificate shall be eligible for appointment as a teacher of physical culture.

Tolerant of Prof. Moore.

The socialistic tendencies of Prof. J. Howard Moore of the Crane manual training high school are not taken seriously at the boardrooms. In an address delivered on Sunday evening before the Young People's Socialist league Mr. Moore announced that universities are fertile fields for the propagating of socialism and that all founders of universities are in reality crooks.

"Prof. Moore has something of a reputation," said Assistant Superintendent W. M. Roberts. "He has written a book of some kind, and recently a western congressman who read it wrote Moore that he considered him in the same category as Confucius, Buddha, and Jesus Christ. No, I don't think he'll get into any trouble up here. He can say what he likes outside the schools."

"This is a free country," said District Superintendent Rossiter. "I don't think the school administration will interfere with Mr. Moore."

BALDHEADS ARE IN PERIL: VENTILATION THE MENACE.

Health Department Is Asked How Pure Air May Be Secured Without a Draft.

Bald headed men as obstructionists against all ventilating systems thus far devised appeared yesterday to vex the department of health. According to information received by Secretary E. R. Pritchard, ordinary systems of drafts and air currents, which work well enough when applied to roomfuls of stenographers wearing exaggerated coiffures, fail when they run up against the sleek pates of credit men and complaint adjusters.

Architects and real estate owners never seem to have taken the situation into account, and even the health department seemed baffled, preferring to regard the situation as within the province of those hopeful concerns which guarantee a new growth of hair in from thirty to sixty days.

The specific complaint which started trouble came to Mr. Pritchard from M. S. Green, office manager of Armour & Co.'s glue works, follows:

"Can you suggest some good authority on the ventilation of offices?" wrote Mr. Green. "We have a large office, in which there are some 125 employés, and when the windows are closed the air is pretty bad.

"Suction fans withdrew the foul air, but the fresh air coming in creates a draft along the floor. It also hits the bald heads of those so afflicted, and it seems quite impossible to supply fresh air without drafts, which affect them or without an elaborate ventilating system.

"If you can offer any suggestions they will be received thankfully."

"I wrote him that the problem seemed to be one for his engineers and that this department did not go beyond general recommendations for the preservation of health. As to drafts, however, people generally are needlessly worried about them."

A "fool proof" ventilating system for street cars, on which the department has been experimenting since last summer, probably will be ready for installation within a few weeks, according to Dr. J. F. Biehn, who has the matter in charge. The requisites for a successful system, according to Dr. Biehn, are that it must be beyond the reach of passengers or crews, and not affected by wind or by the speed of the cars.

THREE NEGROES ARE SHOT; ONE OF THEM A POLICEMAN.

Patrolman James Hatcher and His Partner Interrupt Quarrel of Colored Pair and Trouble Follows.

Three negroes, one of them a policeman, were wounded in a revolver battle at Twenty-eighth street and Wabash avenue last night. Those injured are:

HATCHER, JAMES, patrolman of, the Cottage Grove avenue station; shot twice in the head. It is thought he cannot recover.

MASON, MOLLY, 2138 Armour avenue; shot in the right arm.

WILLIAMS, CARL, Fifty-eighth street and Prairie avenue; shot in the left leg and right arm.

All the wounded are at the Provident hospital.

Policeman Hatcher and his partner, John Fletcher, also colored, found Williams and the Mason woman after midnight quarreling over money. The couple were arrested and on the way to a patrol box, when Williams drew a revolver and shot Hatcher, who fell unconscious. Fletcher, using the woman as a shield, fired upon Williams. The latter in trying to kill Officer Fletcher, shot the woman.

FOAM FOR BEER IS ILLEGAL.

Supreme Court of Illinois Rules on Law Regulating Sale of Five Gallon Quantities.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—The Supreme court holds that foam is not beer and cannot be measured as such. This point was made in a decision tonight in a case from Mercer county involving the wholesaling law prohibiting the sale of liquor in quantities under five gallons.

Ola Nylin, proprietor of a roadhouse, was heavily fined for selling beer in so-called five gallon cases. He gave tickets calling for the number of bottles, permitting customers to take a bottle or two at a time, punching the number of the tickets accordingly. This the court declared was violation of law and sustained the lower court which assessed heavy fines.

The contents of the bottles of a case of beer were poured out. It was shown there were but four and one-half gallons in the case. Nylin insisted the foam should be measured to make the five gallons. The supreme court decides to the contrary.

FAMILY STARVING AS IN WILDERNESS

Four People Found in Leaky Shack at Hidden Spot on Banks of the Old "Tadpole" Canal.

SEEKING WORK; FELL ILL

Huddled together in a water soaked hut of straw and sticks in the desolate region on the banks of the old Illinois and Michigan canal a family of four was discovered last night suffering from hunger and exposure. The hut is situated three miles north of Lemont between the tracks of the Santa Fé road and the pile of broken rock which skirts the canal.

Every member of the family was clothed in rags. The older of the two children—a girl of 3 years—was practically naked. She moved restlessly on the wet pile of straw upon which she tried to sleep. Her body was covered only by the rags of what once was an overcoat. From beneath the edges of the rag her poor emaciated limbs protruded and splashed into the water that stood on the rocky surface of the ground.

The mother clasped a baby to the breast which gave no nourishment. Hungry as she was and cold, the mother asked only for milk that she might feed the baby, which cried pitifully and shivered in the damp air.

Hut Without Furniture.

The dark hut was innocent of a single article that might be called furniture.

Just how long it had been there nobody knows—possibly several weeks. Because of its location in a sunken bit of ground it is not visible from the tracks and it is far from any traveled road or path. The location probably was selected by the unfortunate man for this reason, fearing that, if discovered, the pitifully few comforts which his family had might be taken from them.

Just who first found the hut is not known. Early yesterday morning some one telephoned to the Chicago bureau of charities and reported that a family was living—or starving, to be exact—at the point mentioned. The case at once was reported to Charles Kruck, supervisor of Stickney township, in which the place is located.

Discovered Late at Night.

It was late at night when the town officials, a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, and some sympathetic farmers scrambled over the rocks about the track and viewed the tumbledown shack through a drizzling rain. The only illumination was furnished by a little fire which struggled against the steady downpour of rain and threw a sickly light upon the scene.

"Had anything to eat tonight?" somebody asked the man.

He shook his head in a disinterested manner as if he had passed the stage of acute hunger.

"What is your name?"

"Jake Brunsky," replied the man.

Brunsky said that he was Polish and that, with his family, he had been in this country but four years. In broken English he told of intermittent employment among other countrymen at the steel mills in South Chicago. Then, some weeks ago—he couldn't remember how long it had been—he was discharged.

Starts to Walk to Joliet.

Look where he would, he said he could find no work. Then somebody said that he could get a job at the mills at Joliet. Of course there was no thought of riding on the railroad trains, so he told his wife, and they all started to walk to the coveted job.

The first few days they made progress. They passed out of the city and into the fields. Then his wife fell ill. Next the nursing baby, without its needed nourishment, became ill. After that Brunsky doesn't know just what troubles came. There were so many and he was so hungry that he couldn't say just what happened.

He didn't know how long he had had the hut or how he had managed, weak and sick himself, to drag the heavy pieces of trees together and pile them in the form of a shelter. He had managed to pick enough decayed pieces of food, which had been discarded by more fortunate workers, from the city dump a mile away, to keep life in the bodies of himself and family. That was all he could say.

Relief Given at Last.

N. F. Finley, Forty-eighth and Archer avenues, and James Gallagher, who lives nearby, together with every one else who heard the story, immediately gave the family as much money as they had with them. Money, however, was of no more use to the family than it would have been to Robinson Crusoe on his island. There is no place where a man may spend money within three miles, and Brunsky couldn't have walked a city block.

So food was procured and the family was made as comfortable as their surroundings and the clothing of the strangers would permit. This morning they will be taken to the South Englewood police station and turned over to the city charitable institutions.

EGG-O-SEE HATCHES A ROW

Proceedings in Three Courts Disclose Internal Warfare.

CUSTODIAN IS IN POSSESSION.

Secretary Appointed Receiver; Defies Creditors' Committee.

Bankruptcy proceedings against the Battle Creek Breakfast Food company, manufacturers of Egg-O-See, revealed yesterday a condition of internal warfare among the stockholders and officers of the corporation. Picturesque clashes between Linihan and attorneys for creditors marked the day. The day saw the third move against the company within three days.

The first legal move was made at Quincy, Ill., on Saturday, when Secretary Linihan obtained his own appointment as receiver for the company's affairs after charging J. W. Cassiday, president of the Battle Creek Breakfast Food company, with speculating with the corporations funds.

United States Judge Bethea late yesterday afternoon continued the hearing in the bankruptcy proceedings until this morning and ordered the business and legal orders issued by other courts to halt temporarily.

In the meantime Linihan, whose action at Quincy was an ancillary proceeding, was appointed receiver for the Egg-O-See company by Circuit Court Judge North of Battle Creek, Mich., filing a schedule of bonds for $200,000.

Receiver Ousts Creditors.

The creditors' committee awaiting the return of their lawyers from Judge Bethea's court were sitting in the luxuriously furnished offices of the Egg-O-See company in the American Trust and Savings Bank building when the custodian appeared.

"I've been instructed by the attorney for the receiver of this company to allow no one to enter and you will have to leave," he stated.

The committee left the office and met their attorneys returning from the bankruptcy court. In a body they again proceeded to the company's offices, only to find the place turned into a temporary fort, with the custodian in possession. The doors were locked.

Before the doors were massed a number of creditors and representatives of the law firms of Mayer, Meyer & Austrian, Lackner, Butz & Miller, Underwood & Smyser, Loesch, Scofield & Loesch, W. E. O'Neill, and Werner & Harris of Rochester, N. Y.

Troubles Reach a Climax.

The troubles of the Egg-O-See company came to a climax last week when creditors representing $226,000 of unsecured claims met to investigate the accounts of the company.

As many creditors as could be reached at short notice gathered at the company offices last Thursday to begin investigation. At the meeting were also President Cassiday of the company, B. S. McCoy, manager of the Buffalo plant, and Secretary Linihan, who acted as secretary of the meeting.

A proposition was made whereby the creditors would carry on the business, taking over the capital stock of the company and discharging all claims at the proportion of 40 cents on the dollar. Mr. Linihan refused to be a party to such an arrangement, he believing the business could pay in full.

After spending a day in argument the meeting was adjourned until Friday, when the creditors again met, only to find that Linihan and McCoy had disappeared. The minutes of the previous day's meeting and the minutes of the corporation also had vanished.

A code telegram was received by L. D. Wallace of the company as follows:

"Not feeling well; will remain over Sunday. Hope to be in Chicago Monday.

Mr. Wallace says the telegram disappeared from his desk and, being in code, its meaning was naturally misconstrued.

Linihan did return yesterday. He returned a full fledged receiver, having in the interval since the creditors' meeting visited both Quincy, Ill., and Battle Creek, where he had been appointed receiver for the company.

Creditors File Petition.

Before Linihan's return the creditors met at the company offices yesterday morning and it was agreed to file a petition in bankruptcy against the company, charging insolvency and the making of preferential payments to certain creditors. These concerns were named as the petitioners:

Chicago Savings Bank and Trust company a claim of $25,000.

Charles H. Fuller company a claim of $18,640.

Stecher Lithographing company of New York a claim of $46,111.

The petition sets up that the liabilities of the company are nearly $500,000, while the assets amount to but $200,000. The company was capitalized at $1,000,000, with 5,000 shares of preferred and 5,000 shares of common stock.

CHAUFFEUR TRIES TO END LIFE.

Arthur Delafontaine, Brother of Motor Car Company President, Expected to Recover from Gas.

Arthur Delafontaine, 265 Bissell street, a chauffeur, attempted to end his life yesterday afternoon by inhaling illuminating gas. He is a brother of W. L. Delafontaine, president of the Chicago Motor Car company, 1615 Michigan avenue.

Delafontaine is said to have told Mrs. Edith McNair, at whose home he roomed, of a suicidal intention. She did not heed his statement, but later detected an odor of gas and found Delafontaine lying on the floor of his room. He is expected to recover.

BRYAN BANK PLAN DECLARED A PERIL

Merchant Says No Business Man Would Accept Radical Change with No Previous Trial.

PANIC SURE TO FOLLOW.

Methods of Great Financial Leaders Compared with Action Urged by the Democrats.

BY TOM MURRAY.

Habitually I am a republican. As a rule I have voted the republican ticket ever since I have been a qualified voter, but I am not what you might call a "dyed in the wool" republican.

For example, repeatedly I voted for the younger Carter Harrison for mayor of Chicago, and before that I voted for his father for the same position. I am proud to say, too, that I voted for Grover Cleveland for president of the United States, and would do so again if he were living and a candidate for that great office. In fact, I have always voted—as I believe most men do—along the line of my own selfish interests as I have seen them at the time.

In the columns of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last January I warned the republican party that in the present election the leading issue would be the guaranty of deposits, and I might be forced to leave its ranks owing to the fact I was strongly inclined to believe in the guaranty of bank deposits as proposed by Mr. Bryan, and I know it to be a fact that many of our brightest and smartest business men felt much as I did about this proposition.

I had practically made up my mind that I would vote for the party which openly indorsed the bank deposit guaranty plan. After the presidential nominations were made I was so much interested in the subject that I read nearly every prominent speech and article regarding the guaranty of bank deposits as it appeared in print and came to my notice.

Law of Some Kind Needed.

Candidly, I am still harboring the feeling that we must somehow and some time have some kind of a national law which will protect the depositor against possible loss, but yet I am going to vote for Mr. Taft just the same, and for these reasons: First, because I believe that, as a nation, we have no right to make so great and so radical a change in our whole banking and financial system without first giving the principle a careful and thorough test.

The more you think about it the bigger this proposition of jumping right in at the start and putting all the national banks of the country upon a new and radically altered basis looks to the business man. Do you ask: How big is this proposition, anyway? Well, let me answer in the words of J. P. Morgan, president of the First National bank of Chicago, who says:

"The aggregate deposits of the national banks are, in round figures, $6,000,000,000, and the aggregate capital is, in round figures, $900,000,000."

Representative E. J. Hill of Connecticut, who is evidently a deep student of banking and financial problems, declares the figures of the last reports show "the total of deposits in all the banks in the United States was $13,742,374,181."

These figures are almost too big for the human mind to grasp, and when we come to think of enacting a law which would affect all this vast volume of money and our relation to it and its relation to us, it certainly seems to me to be up to us to stop and think a while and go slow.

Says Try It on Oklahoma.

Right now the new state of Oklahoma is trying out the principle of guaranteeing bank deposits, and, from all that I can hear, the plan is having a fair and unhampered test. There is time enough to try it out, and any man who will look these figures in the face and then not be willing to have the experiment station down in Oklahoma give this the most careful and thorough test before involving the tremendous capital represented in these figures is certainly a rash business man.

When we look over these astounding figures can we, as a nation, afford to run any risk of inviting, by hasty and injudicious enactment, one of the worst financial panics known in our national history—and do this in the face of the fact that at the present moment the principle of guaranteeing bank deposits is having a fair and square test in the new state of Oklahoma, with the eyes of the whole nation fixed upon it?

Why not wait for actual results? Haste, in a matter of this magnitude, appeals to a practical business man as sheer folly. We can afford to wait for the findings of the actual demonstration and we cannot afford to do anything else or to commit ourselves to anything else. Let's find out how it works first.

Idea as Applied to Trade.

I am a merchant—and I try to be a live and a thorough merchant. As a matter of fact, I have only one store. But let us suppose that in addition to this I have a branch store in every other state in the union. That would give me forty-six stores in all.

Again, suppose that Mr. Bryan or some other equally bright and intelligent man should come to me and propose a new and radical change in my methods of merchandising and that he should so present his plan as to make me feel that it had every reasonable promise of being successful and proving a great money maker.

Now, as a careful and practical merchant, do you think I would immediately turn around, on being convinced from his presentation of the theory that the plan was a good one, and order it put into operation in all of my forty-six stores? I should say not! Not on your life!

Why, the first thing I would do would be to say to Mr. Bryan: "I will try this out in one or two of my branch stores where I know that it will have every chance for success if it has success in it, and where, if by any possibility we should be mistaken, it will do comparatively little damage if it doesn't prove out." To my mind, if I would consent to start out with any change more sweeping than this I would be a mighty poor business man and would show more of the gambling than of the business instinct. The place where people take chances like that is where the ponies run. And I don't take those chances.

Wants to Know All Facts.

To Mr. Bryan I would say this: "Trust I am going to give this a test in a small way, and if it works out as we think it will, then I shall put it in operation in all my forty-six stores—and be forever indebted to you for a great and a beneficial idea."

Let me draw another illustration from my own business. When a new manufacturer starts up and comes to me and offers me clothing, for instance, standard goods, known brands of cloths, at a much lower price than I have ever before been able to buy them for, do you suppose that I would place my entire order for the season with that new concern because it looks to me as though it was going to be a great saving to me? No! I would only give them part of the order to test them to see whether they could make good or not. Then there would be time enough for me to give them my entire future orders after they had made satisfactory deliveries.

Or suppose that a house should come to me and say: "Here is a new thing in rain coats, something which will outlast anything ever put on the market, which will shed rain. No matter how many hours it is exposed to the blinding storm it will be perfectly dry on the inside." Do you imagine for a moment that as a sensible man I would leave the old, well known, and established brands and put in the new brand as my entire line of rain coats? Not for a moment! I would buy a few, and after they were worn and put to the test for the entire season there would then be time enough to order these coats by the thousand.

Caution Cause of Success.

Do you suppose that if some new process were put up to the United States Steel corporation whereby it could presumably effect a saving of $5 a ton in the manufacture of steel rails, but which would involve radical and sweeping changes in their plants and the installation of expensive equipment, would not the corporation first try it out in one mill and know to a scientific exactness just how it would work out before going to the enormous expense of making the change in all their mills and plants? Of course they would; if they didn't I would want to sell my holdings of their stock, and so would any other level headed business man who happened to have a little investment in their shares.

If the rolling mills at South Chicago should make to their employes a plausible and tempting proposition to give them, in the place of salary or wages, a certain percentage of the profits, would it not be wise for that body of union men to say to the company:

"This looks good to us, but we first want you to try it out with the little group of men employed in mill No. 1. After they have tried it for three months or six months we will, if it pans out right, accept the proposition as to all of us in the entire plant. We can't afford to take the chances without first putting the scheme to actual test."

If a similar proposition were put up to the level headed laboring man who works for the contractor on the streets he would say: "I'm from Missouri—show me. Do you think I'm going to make a contract of this kind for ten years or any other long time period without first seeing the thing tried out for at least ninety days or six months? Not much! Make the test first."

How Farmer Might See It.

Now let us suppose that I own a farm of 640 acres and that a man whom I liked personally and in whom I have a lot of confidence comes to me and says: "Here is a new kind of seed wheat or oats or corn which will produce an enormous crop and defy the whims of the elements, being practically proof against both drought and water."

If I were a sound and sensible farmer would I at once stake the whole of my production for the next year on this new kind of seed? Would I buy it by the wholesale and put all my tilled land into it? Not to speak of! If I had sense enough to come in out of the rain I would put a few acres—say ten or twenty—into this new crop and see what results I would get. If the test were satisfactory I would then go into it on a larger scale—but not until then.

Being a merchant, and something of an advertiser, I am naturally interested in anything which relates to advertising. The other day I happened to pick up a book sent out by one of the largest advertising agencies in the country for the benefit of its prospective customers. Here is what I read on the first page:

We stand for safe advertising.

Any other kind is unnecessary.

The day when advertising was mere speculation is over for the man who knows.

A newspaper campaign can be proved out in six towns just as well as in six hundred.

A magazine campaign can be proved out in six mediums just as well as in sixty.

Before one spends any considerable money he can know to a certainty what the results will be.

The purpose of this book is to advocate safety.

It applies to old advertisers as well as to new.

This is rather a new argument for an advertising agency. Apparently it is opposed to our interests.

Our revenue is a commission, paid us largely or wholly by publishers, on the amount that you spend.

Yet we advise that you limit your expenditures until you know that you are right.

We offer to spend, perhaps, ten times our commission in working out trial campaigns.

But that which is right will prevail.

Might Bring Greatest Panic.

Now, I had just been reading about the new law guaranteeing bank deposits in Oklahoma and how it has operated in the first few months of its test. When I read this first page of advice from an advertising agency which spends millions of dollars for its clients I saw Mr. Bryan's bank guaranty proposition in a new light. It came over me suddenly that the time had not yet come for me to vote the democratic ticket, and that to do so on account of the bank deposit insurance plank would be the most unbusinesslike and irrational thing I could possibly do.

Why? What is the connection between the democratic banking device and the advertising pamphlet? Put it in four words and you have the whole thing: "Try it out first."

If this guaranty of deposits proves to be a success in Oklahoma the republican party will be only too glad to indorse it. So again I say, as a nation let us be on the safe side. To the man who has a savings bank account I want to say: "You are fairly safe now when you place your money in any reputable bank. Be patient. Wait until the returns from Oklahoma are all in and complete."

This new proposition, instead of making "all banks safe," might bring on a panic so severe that we might not have any savings to deposit. Let us not lose our heads, for if we do we are likely to lose our money, too.

SAYS BRYAN'S BANK SCHEME WILL ATTRACT ADVENTURERS.

George E. Roberts, Former Director of Mint, Addresses Hamilton Club on Deposit Guarantee Plan.

George E. Roberts, former director of the mint and now president of the Commercial National bank, told the Hamilton club yesterday noon that the Bryan scheme of bank deposit guaranty was superficial and inadequate, and that it would throw the banking business of the country into the hands of adventurers.

"It is proposed to subject each banker to an indednite and unlimited liability," he declared, "not only all the bankers now in business, but all who may be attracted to it in the future.

"I believe it is fundamentally wrong for the government to compel any man to pay the debts of another over whose affairs he has no supervision or control. No principle is more unanimously accepted among practical men than that there cannot reasonably be responsibility where there is no authority."

After saying that Bryan devised his scheme to cater to the popular demand for a panacea for panics, he blamed all the trouble of the finances of the country upon the rigid currency system.

"Mr. Bryan's plan for free silver twelve years ago," he added, "was based on the same kind of fallacy. The argument is based upon the assumption that the banking business will be carried on after this policy is put in force substantially as it is now with the same class of bankers, the same conservatism, and no greater loss."

RAIN SOAKED EAST THRONGS TO TAFT.

Connecticut Crowds Brave Elements to Hear Him Flay Bryan Ideas.

FIVE BROOKLYN TALKS.

Immense Pageant Is Prominent Feature of Nominee's Busy Day and Night.

New York, Oct. 26.—Devoting the day to a trip into Connecticut and the evening to speechmaking in Brooklyn, William H. Taft's first day of active campaigning on his present visit to this section was prosecuted by him with both vigor and earnestness.

While the day, despite its call for a speech of some length in New Haven and a shorter one at Port Chester on the return trip to New York, was one of comparative ease for the republican candidate, the calls made upon him in Brooklyn tonight were such as to keep him actively occupied every moment of his time. When the candidate entered that portion of Greater New York late this afternoon he found himself fairly overwhelmed with engagements.

Five Speeches in Brooklyn.

Before the night was over he had made five speeches, eaten dinner with a hundred prominent republicans as the guest of Republican State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff, and reviewed a parade which in spite of adverse weather conditions was impressive in its size and inspiring in its enthusiasm.

A deluge which fell just about the time Mr. Taft was entering New York's transpontine section threatened for a time seriously to interfere with the evening's program there. It had been planned to make the parade one of the big features of the Taft demonstration, and the downpour, the heaviest of the fall season, continued long enough to give the managers of the parade and the proposed participants in it several anxious quarter hours.

The rainfall ceased, however, some time before the parade was scheduled to start, and the comfort of the marching thousands and of the reviewing party was not interfered with. The function was carried out with all the elaborateness planned and that enthusiasm for which the republican cohorts of Kings county are famed. Similarly successful and enthusiastic were the meetings of the night, particularly thoses in the Clermont rink and the Academy of Music.

Yale Students Pledge Support.

The feature of the trip into Connecticut was the New Haven meeting, where with football enthusiasm the candidate was pledged the support of a large portion of the student body of Yale, through the presentation of a handsomely bound memorial containing many pages of signatures. While the university personnel projected itself into the meeting, its political significance was emphasized by the presence of the state leaders of the party.

Gov. Woodruff sat on the platform beside George L. Lilley, candidate for governor. National Committeeman Brooker and State Chairman Kenealy were present, likewise Senators Brandegee and Bulkeley. The Yale Taft club and the New Haven Taft club, headed by fourteen veterans of the Wide-Awake club of 1860, marched through the streets in the rain, while a tremendous crowd gathered in the big armory where the speeches were made.

The candidate delivered a pointed review of the campaign issues, in which he held uppermost the importance of the maintenance of the protective principle and the rehabilitation of business confidence. The speech was punctuated by the Yale yell, which ended with "Taft, Taft, Taft." Enthusiasm and friendliness were everywhere apparent.

Greeting of Father to Son.

When the candidate arrived at New Haven he inquired at once for his son Robert. After the meeting Robert, who is a junior at Yale, and who had been making frantic efforts to get to his father through the crowds, finally reached him at the station.

"My son," said Mr. Taft, as he placed the boy's ruddy face between his hands and planted a kiss squarely on his lips. Robert was taken aboard and was an admiring listener to his father's speech at Port Chester on the way back. There a tremendous crowd had assembled for the purpose of listening to both William J. Bryan and Mr. Taft, who were each due about the same time. Mr. Taft was there first and was met by cheers and the waving of many small flags in the hands of the crowd which spread itself entirely over the large park facing the station.

"Bryan said a year ago that the recent panic was not due to Roosevelt," said Mr. Taft in this brief speech. "He now says it was due to Roosevelt. That difference of opinion brought about in one year is not exceptional in Bryan's career."

Talks to Crowds in Rain.

Going to New Haven, Mr. Taft spoke to crowds in the rain at Stamford, South Norwalk, and Bridgeport, all stops not contemplated in his schedule.

His first utterance of the day was that Bryan had aided prosperity in no other way than to be defeated. Mr. Taft was solicitous that his Nebraskan opponent should keep up "his one good record and go down to defeat again."

When the Taft special reached New York on its return at 4:30 o'clock the candidate was taken to the Montauk club, Brooklyn, by State Chairman Woodruff, where he was guest at a dinner participated in by a hundred prominent republicans of that city.

The auditorium in Metropolitan Sanger hall was filled with a Jewish audience, and after five minutes of cheers had been given for Mr. Taft the audience paid a hearty tribute to Oscar Straus, secretary of commerce and labor. Mr. Straus, in introducing Mr. Taft, said he wanted to leave no doubt that the election of Mr. Taft would work the greatest benefit to the country.

"Nowhere in America," said Mr. Taft, "is there a greater spirit of freedom and love of country than right here among the people who owe so much to our immigration laws."

Good Times by Bryan's Defeat.

At Congress hall, the next meeting, the audience was of the same character. Mr. Taft launched into a speech to show why there was no good reason for changing the policy of the administration.

"How about the panic, Billy?" came a voice.

Mr. Taft answered by showing that Theodore Roosevelt had awakened the business moral conscience of the country and then brought out that the exponent of this moral awakening in New York today was Gov. Hughes. As to the panic, he said, it came a year ago in October. Prosperity so great resulted in wildcat schemes and, consequently, loss of confidence, and then the panic. This, he said, was not widespread, and was now rapidly disappearing, and with republican success would speedily disappear altogether. Such, he said, would not be the case with democratic success.

"The defeat of Mr. Bryan in 1908 is just as certain to bring good times as his defeat in 1896 or 1900."

Thirty-two blocks of a parade, which divided on each side of the street, and through which Mr. Taft passed, was the feature of the evening.

The meeting at the Clermont rink proved to be the biggest of the night, the building being filled to the doors, while many were turned away. This meeting continued so late that the reception at the Union League club was abandoned and Mr. Taft went from the rink to his brother's home in Manhattan, arriving there soon after midnight. The candidate's voice was in bad condition as the result of the strenuous campaigning, but he expressed confidence that a good night's rest would put him in good shape again.

Mouse Causes Panic in Zoo.

A panic was caused among the animals in the Lincoln park zoo yesterday when a mouse strayed into the lions' cage. The intruder was discovered by "Kitty" while she was gnawing a bone. She jumped up with a roar and made a rush for the mouse, but did not catch it. It required half an hour to pacify the animals.

FAIR ADMIRER KISSES BRYAN

Nominee Startled at Act, but Osculator Is Calm.

WILD CHEERS IN HIGH KEY.

White House Claim Thrills Woman's Democratic Club.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The latest object of public osculatory demonstration by patriotic femininity is William Jennings Bryan.

It happened about noon today, just as he was entering the Astor gallery of the Waldorf Astoria, where the Woman's Democratic club of New York City was holding a reception in his honor.

The candidate apparently was a trifle embarrassed by the onslaught, which was conducted entirely by one who, for her part, wasn't embarrassed at all. She said, however, that she didn't care to have her name published, as she had done what she had done not for notoriety but as an evidence of her principles.

Skillfully Dodges Further Kisses.

Mr. Bryan soon recovered sufficiently to assume his characteristic campaign smile and to work his way toward Mrs. John Sherman Crosby, president of the club, by a series of skillful flank movements that precluded the possibility of a repetition of the kiss.

Mrs. Crosby and several hundred other women and at least fifty men had been waiting patiently since 10 o'clock for a sign of Mr. Bryan, and when he finally put in an appearance at 12:30 the enthusiasm they had been bottling up for more than two hours vented itself in a wild cheer.

White House Claim Thrills.

Owing to the preponderance of the sex that can't vote the cheer was pitched in a high key, and Mr. Bryan, looked more disturbed than he had at the kiss.

The truly thrilling portion of Mr. Bryan's speech was contained in the short and simple clause:

"When I take my seat in the White house next March."

It produced such tumultuous excitement that no one heard what followed. Under cover of this excitement Mr. Bryan escaped from the room without shaking hands with more than a dozen or two of the admiring women. Mrs. Crosby explained that Mr. Bryan really could not stay a minute longer, because he had to catch a train for Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Bryan held a little court of her own when her husband wasn't on hand to absorb all the admiration.

Few Women at 1896 Reception.

"I appreciate well the difference between now and the year when I began," said Mr. Bryan at the reception. "When I came to New York in 1896 there was a reception, but there were not many women present. This gathering today is gratifying in that it shows an ever-growing throng which supports and holds to those principles which have the desire for justice as their lodestone."

"A good many people have come to recognize that the reforms advocated by the democratic party are the reforms for all classes of society. We are coming to recognize the claims of brotherhood, and when we grow fuller into the conception a brighter day will have dawned."

GOMPERS RAILS AT ROOSEVELT AS "INJUNCTION JUDGE" ALLY.

Charged with a Desperate Plan to Save Taft, Betray Labor, and Sacrifice Old Friendship.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today issued a statement, evoked by President Roosevelt's recent letter to Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, on the application of injunctions to labor disputes. Gompers denounces Roosevelt as having shifted his position "of at least apparent friendship to bitter, indefensible antagonism."

The federation executive says that last February he sent Mr. Roosevelt an issue of the paper which Mr. Gompers edits containing the chapter, "Some Equivocal Rights of Labor," from George A. Alger's book, "Moral Overstrain." The book is referred to as a keen criticism of the courts and their methods, and a letter from President Roosevelt in acknowledgment is quoted. The Roosevelt letter stated that its writer had sent copies of "Moral Overstrain" to Justices Day and McKenna."

Gompers then goes on to say that Roosevelt, having made "Injunction Judge Taft" the candidate of the republican party, and finding that labor had concluded to deliver its own vote, was angered to desperation and played the demagogue.

It is insisted by Gompers that Roosevelt now "makes a direct and specific attack upon labor," disguised as it may be by pretense of a blow at Gompers.

Declaring that "the veriest tyro of a layman in his wildest dreams never suggested the abolition of the injunction process," Gompers insists that labor desires to have the injunction restored to the use "from which it has been ruthlessly diverted, from the protection of property rights to the invasion of personal freedom."

The president is challenged to justify Justice Gould's injunction and the contempt proceedings whereby Gompers says it is now proposed to send him, John Mitchell, and Frank Morrison to jail.

A statement from the White house given out today by Secretary Loeb states the president's wish that Mr. Gompers would read a recent magazine article by the author of "Moral Overstrain" on "Taft and Labor."

STAKES BUSINESS ON TAFT.

Publisher of Agricultural Paper Offers Advertising Free Till Election Day if Bryan Is Victorious.

P. V. Collins, publisher of the Northwestern Agriculturist, at Minneapolis, is satisfied that Taft is going to be elected, and is willing to stake his business on the result.

Circulars from his company which reached Chicago yesterday announce that no charge will be made for advertising up to election day if Bryan should be elected. Here is the announcement:

BRYAN VS. BUSINESS.

What is the use of waiting about your copy? If Bryan is elected everything will go to the bow-wows anyhow and we will not charge you a cent for any advertising you do between now and election day.

If Taft is elected times will be so good you won't care what anything costs.

"So there you are, Hinnisey."

The next two issues of the Northwestern Agriculturist free if Bryan is elected.

The Northwestern Agriculturist is not in politics—it is "knee deep in clover" and is so full of enthusiasm over agricultural conditions in the northwest that if can't see the Bryan bugaboo.

If you are "seein' thing at night," wake up. Send your ad. The risk is ours—the profit yours.

WINSTON CHURCHILL FOR TAFT.

Author Says Overshadowing Issue Is, Shall Roosevelt Administration Be Approved?

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26.—Winston Churchill of Cornish, N. H., the author, tonight addressed the Yale Taft club, coming out strongly in defense of the principles for which President Roosevelt stands.

Mr. Churchill declared that this was the most memorable campaign since that of 1860, and the one overshadowing issue he claimed was, "Shall the administration of President Roosevelt be approved?" He said the administration stands for the principle that corporations shall not control our politics and government.

The growth of corporations, the speaker believed, was the result of natural evolutions. He thought that Mr. Bryan fails to recognize the economic necessities of the times, in which we live.

BRYAN IS CHEERED FULL 14 MINUTES.

Tammany Shouters Shake the Walls of Madison Square Garden.

CONFIDENT HE WILL WIN

Candidate Tells Thousands He Will Be in White House After March.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—William J. Bryan, addressing a monster meeting in Madison Square garden, tonight wound up one of the busiest days he has had since the campaign opened. The meeting tonight was under the guidance of Tammany Hall and the chiefs left nothing undone to show the presidential candidate that they, at least, were with him.

The reception he received when he first appeared was an example of Tammany's good will to the Nebraskan. The cheering never ceased for fourteen minutes after the candidate appeared on the platform.

Earlier in the day Mr. Bryan had made a hurried trip through New Jersey and lower New York. Missing his train by the narrow margin of a few seconds, Mr. Bryan was compelled to make a wild dash in an automobile over mud covered roads to Paterson, N. J. Later he spoke at Yonkers, White Plains, Portchester, New Rochelle, and Mount Vernon, attended a reception and dinner at the National Democratic club in New York, and made speeches at Cooper Union, the Palm garden, and Madison Square garden.

Tammany Out in Force.

All New York's democracy turned its steps toward Madison Square garden tonight.

Hours before the doors of the big auditorium swung open a crowd of several hundred persons waited patiently for admittance. Long lines of fortunate ticket holders stood in the drizzling rain while those who had been unable to obtain the coveted pasteboards were not permitted nearer than a block to the garden. The rain did not seem to dampen the spirits of the gathering throng, which made an eager rush for seats when the doors were flung open.

J. Sargeant Cram of Tammany hall opened the meeting with the nomination for chairman of former Judge D. Cady Herrick. Judge Herrick spoke on national issues and attacked the policies of President Roosevelt, which, he said, would be perpetuated should Mr. Taft be elected. Gov. Francis, who was secretary of the interior in Mr. Cleveland's cabinet, brought hisses for President Roosevelt when he spoke of the president's "strenuous efforts to name his successor." He referred to the fact that democracy was united this year and said it was time there was a change in the administration of federal affairs.

Chanler Also Is Cheered.

The arrival of Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, candidate for governor of New York, provoked a great demonstration. The cheering lasted ten minutes before Mr. Chanler himself stopped it by wielding the chairman's gavel. He told briefly of his tours through the state and declared that the sentiment everywhere encountered was not only in favor of the state ticket, but for the entire democratic ticket, from Bryan down.

Gov. Hoke Smith of Georgia, another member of Cleveland's cabinet, was speaking when Bryan entered. In an instant a roar of sound from the expectant crowd drowned out Gov. Smith's voice and Madison Square Garden was in the vortex of another Bryan demonstration. Men leaped to their chairs, and, waving flags, cheered for fourteen minutes without cessation.

Notwithstanding the strain of the campaign, Mr. Bryan's voice was in good condition and he was heard in all parts of the immense hall.

"I am glad," he said, "to be encouraged by the reports that come from your city and your state. I rejoice in the evidence of a victory so large that the east and the west, the north and the south will claim a part in that victory."

"I expect," he said, amid great cheering, "to be in Washington after March 4."

Wants Aid of Congress.

He pleaded for a democratic congress to help frame the remedial legislation which the Denver platform demanded, and said that it would be possible to send to the senate measure after measure, "and with a majority of the American people behind us we can demand that the senate submit to the will of the people expressed at the polls."

Mr. Bryan once again took occasion to urge the election of Mr. Chanler and the entire democratic state ticket.

"My friends, in asking for your vote for our candidates I realize that people vote for candidates because of what candidates stand for, and I want in a few minutes tonight to show you what our candidates stand for, for the problems that are before the country, the issues of the national campaign, are issues in every state in this union.

"I aspire to the presidency. It is not the honor of the office that attracts me. It is not because I shall find great pleasure in distributing patronage. There is one thing that makes that office attractive to me and that is that the president participates in legislation, and I believe that legislation is needed—remedial legislation. I believe the country is ripe for that legislation."

The candidate elicited wild enthusiasm when he said that in the west Mr. Taft was running on his amendments to the Chicago platform, while in the east he was running on the original platform.

"In the east," he said, "he is a narcotic; in the west he is a stimulant. In the west he is pledged to reform; in the east it is sh-sh, sh-sh."

Mr. Bryan closed with a bitter denunciation of the president for, as he said, making himself a dictator. "I aspire to the presidency," he said. "The office was held by Washington and by Jefferson, by Jackson and Lincoln, and if I take it I want to take it with those sacred traditions still clinging to it. I do not want it thrown into the arena of politics and made a football between the parties."

Says Roosevelt Assails Courts.

Taking up the president's letter regarding labor, Mr. Bryan said the president criticised Mr. Gompers for criticising the court.

"I submit," he declared, "that Mr. Gompers has never criticised the courts more severely than President Roosevelt himself has criticised them."

The democratic candidate charged that the president was now issuing a daily bulletin assuring the people that Mr. Taft was the friend of labor.

"My friends," he said, "Mr. Roosevelt consults only one side when he discusses Mr. Taft as the friend of labor. Mr. Taft's record shows that he is not in sympathy with those who toil.

"Here is something that I hope will engage his attention for the rest of the campaign. It is a decision rendered by him in the case of Thomas versus the Cincinnati, N. O. and T. P. railway company. In that case Mr. Taft rendered a decision authorizing the receiver to make a cut of 10 per cent in the wages of the railway employés. When the employés made application to have wages restored to their former amount, Mr. Taft informed them that an ordinary employer might, as a matter of charity, hear them and heed them, but that in his court he had to consider the question of property."

BRYAN HEARS KERR IS DYING.

New York Office of Pennsylvania Committeeman, However, Denies He Is Fatally Ill.

New York, Oct. 26.—When William J. Bryan finished his speech at Tuckahoe today a message was delivered to him saying that National Committeeman James Kerr of Pennsylvania is dying at his home in New Rochelle.

At the office of James Kerr, which he maintains in this city for the transaction of his wholesale coal business it was said that Mr. Kerr had been ill, but that he was not considered to be dying.

TAFT AND HUGHES SURE OF VICTORY.

took the ground that it was unfair to make comparisons with the Roosevelt vote of 1904 because that was phenomenal. The republican managers agreed to this proposition and readily accepted the prospect of a reduced vote.

Democrats Fool Even Selves.

The democrats in their polls and estimates, however, made figures on the men who had voted for Roosevelt in 1904, and proposed to vote for Bryan this year. Then they took the percentage of loss thus figured out and compared it not with the Roosevelt vote, to which it properly belonged, but to the McKinley vote in 1900. In this way they fooled even themselves into the belief that the state was doubtful, whereas there has been no time since the opening of the campaign when Taft did not have an absolutely safe majority in New York state.

Those who are acquainted with political conditions here know Parker did better in New York than anywhere else in the country. His vote was actually larger than that cast for Bryan four years before, whereas in the western states a part of Mr. Roosevelt's phenomenal majority came from the democrats who staid at home.

Four years ago the total vote of New York was 1,600,000. Roosevelt's plurality over Parker was 175,000. This means that to carry New York the democrats must show a change of 87,500 votes among the Roosevelt followers in 1904. In other words, one out of every ten of the people who voted for Roosevelt would have to turn over to Bryan, even assuming that the democrats met with no loss in the campaign.

The reports made to both parties show that the change of votes is only a fraction of this number. Besides that, according to the polls, again many men who voted for Roosevelt and again many who voted for Parker now intend to vote the socialist ticket. Debs polled nearly 13,000 votes in 1900, and raised it to about 37,000 four years ago. The canvass of the east side wards and of the downtown districts shows that the Debs vote is to be largely increased.

Hate Against Hughes Dies.

On the other hand, the report comes from the financial district that there has been a distinct change of sentiment as regards Hughes. He was looked upon as unfriendly to the business interests because of his insistence upon the passage of the public utility bill. Some of the animosity against Roosevelt, which exists among the "interests," was transferred so as to operate against Hughes.

Chanler gained rapidly among the rich element, and it was supposed he had a fair chance to beat Hughes. All the later tendency, even in the financial district, is favorable to the governor. The fact has been recalled that his public utility commission has not put anybody out of business. The result is that people in the Wall street district who were breathing fire and vengeance against Hughes only a few weeks ago have now come down in a most remarkable fashion.

Furthermore, requests for money are being met with a better response than in the earlier days of the campaign. There was a time when it seemed it would be impossible to collect funds enough to pay the ordinary running expenses of the headquarters, to provide for the speakers, and to make a modest distribution of campaign literature. Recently the contributions have begun to pour in once more and several of the subscriptions have come from men who were notoriously opposed to the governor only a short time ago.

More Money Stirs Fight.

The workers generally have felt the influence of looser purse strings, and this, together with the whirlwind finish in the state, has combined to make New York liveller from a political point of view than is usually the case on the eve of a national election.

One can get almost any estimate he pleases as to the probable plurality for Hughes. Four years ago Parker carried New York county by only about 34,000. The Tammany people today expect to go up to the Bronx with at least 100,000. McCarren claims that he will turn over Brooklyn by about 25,000 more.

Every republican leader believes that Hughes will come down to the bridge with close to 200,000 votes, and they fix 150,000 as the lowest possible net plurality for Hughes up the state, a figure which Chanler cannot possibly hope to reach in Greater New York. Most of the republicans admit Hughes will run about 40,000 behind Taft, and they are willing to concede about 100,000 for Greater New York for Bryan.

From the republican standpoint, the net results of the election will be a minimum of 100,000 votes in New York state for Taft and 60,000 for Hughes, with a possibility of going much beyond those figures if President Roosevelt's guess as to the result in his home state is anywhere near accurate.

HUGHES' BETTORS GIVING ODDS.

Chanler Money Scarcer—Wager of $5,000 on Hughes Against $4,500 on Opponent.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Chanler money has become scarcer in the financial district in the last few days, although little money has been placed at any time. For the first time holders of Hughes money have been obliged to give odds, the larger sums being placed at 10 to 9, small bets at even money.

What is said to be the first big election bet made between stock exchange members this season was the one made today, $5,000 on Hughes against $4,500 on Chanler.

There was more betting on the curb today than at any time since the campaign started. One bet of $1,000 on Hughes to $900 on Chanler was made, and a holder of Hughes money announced he had $20,000 more to bet on the republican candidate if he could get even money or better. This republican money is said by curb men to have been sent from the republican club.

To make sure of not running foul of the new state betting law bettors of big amounts are now resorting to various pretexts when the money is posted.

KISHENEFF AS AN ISSUE.

Progressive Democracy of New York Prepares Other Novel Features.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A man close to William J. Bryan said today that personally he felt convinced Tammany Hall is betraying Mr. Bryan and the democratic party, and that there will be wholesale knifing of the Nebraskan by the Tammanyites on election day.

Moreover, it was stated, the grievances of Bryan's friends would be aired in public at a meeting of the Progressive Democratic league at Cooper Union on Friday evening.

Augustus Thomas, the playwright, is a stanch friend of Mr. Bryan. He is president of the Progressive Democratic league. Mr. Thomas, it was announced today, would be the principal speaker at Cooper Union. He is expected to make a sensational charge against Tammany Hall and its leaders in particular.

The lukewarmness and apathy displayed by Tammany Hall in its conduct of the campaign has been strangely in contrast with what the organization was accustomed to at the time there was a candidate it really cared for at the head of the ticket. Few big meetings have been held. The district leaders, according to all reports, are doing little or nothing in the way of educating voters on the issues of the national campaign and winning votes for Mr. Bryan.

Committee Feels the Apathy.

This apathy has not passed unnoticed at the democratic national headquarters, where the leaders have felt it keenly and made representations to the powers in the wigwam. To conciliate the Bryan managers, Leader Murphy put his hand in the organization's pocket and pulled out $10,000, which he sent to Herman Ridder, the democratic treasurer.

Mr. Thomas, it is said, will do some plain talking at the Cooper Union meeting. He is ready to point out to Leader Murphy that unless Mr. Bryan gets a big vote in New York county, he may bid good-by to his hopes of electing a Tammany candidate for mayor of this city a year hence.

But that isn't all Mr. Thomas is scheduled to do to make the Cooper Union gathering an interesting and memorable affair. On the lower east side Leo Tolstoy is better known than President Roosevelt. Mr. Thomas is preparing to have Mr. Bryan boomed there in his own peculiar way. Tolstoy has a picture of William J. Bryan in his study and recently he wrote a letter indorsing Mr. Bryan's candidacy.

Kishinev as Campaign Issue.

There will appear on the platform Friday evening a man in Russian peasant attire, a genuine Russian who escaped after the Kishinev massacre and came to this country. The Russian will do something or say something—just what is not divulged—to save the east side audience from forgetting that Tolstoy indorsed Bryan.

Mr. Thomas will have something to say also about labor. He will use a "breaker boy" from a Pennsylvania colliery in working garb and a girl from a southern cotton mill to illustrate what he has to say about child labor. It was said today that there might be other scenic effects to enliven the rally of the progressives.

ARCHBOLD CALLS HEARST LIAR; EDITOR BRANDS HIM ANOTHER.

Independence Party Head Scores Oil Magnate for Mentioning Daughter's Name in Connection with Controversy

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—John D. Archbold issued a statement today in which he said W. R. Hearst was a liar, and the editor subsequently issued a statement in which he said that Archbold was a liar.

"The intimation by Hearst," said Archbold, "that he has had any communication from me or any of my associates in connection with the stolen letters is a lie.

"The only favor which I would ask, or hope even to ask, of Hearst is that he return me the letters handed him by his larcenious 'gentleman friend,' which were written from Japan relating to the fatal illness of my daughter in that country."

"Mr. Archbold finally takes refuge in the usual defense of the caught and cornered coward. He hides behind the skirts of the innocent women of his family," said Hearst in his reply.

"I have not mentioned Mr. Archbold's daughter, and never would have thought of dragging her name into this controversy. Why should Mr. Archbold do this despicable thing? I have no letters from his daughter."

POLITICAL NOTES BY WIRE.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—T. J. Dolan, president of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovelmen and Dredgers, called on President Roosevelt and talked with him regarding the political situation. Mr. Dolan has just returned from a trip through Indiana, Ohio, and New York, and told the president the labor vote seems to be about evenly divided. He said most of the men of his brotherhood are with Taft because they always found that he treated them squarely when they asked anything right.

FORT WAYNE, Ind.—After a parade, participated in by over 12,000 persons, Senator Albert J. Beveridge closed his first day's tour of Indiana by speaking to an immense audience. He talked to about 30,000 people during the day. John T. McCutcheon and George Ade accompanied the senator.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—John W. Kern spent the day campaigning from Indianapolis to Jeffersonville. His second day's tour of his home state will take him almost on a direct line to the northeastern part.

CANNON PRAISES RECORD OF TAFT.

Speaker Has a Busy Day in Philadelphia, Making Five Addresses.

SHOWS PERILS OF BRYAN.

He Says Democratic Victory Will Throw the Country Back Into Panic.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Speaker Joseph G. Cannon made a whirlwind tour of Philadelphia tonight, addressing five largely attended republican rallies. His last stop was at the Academy of Music, where his audience filled every available inch of room.

Shortly after his arrival here this afternoon the speaker was asked what he thought of the charge made against Mr. Sherman by the California lawyer, who alleges that the vice presidential candidate entered into a deal with Burke and several others to purchase a large tract of timber land in New Mexico at a small fraction of its real value.

"It takes a sight more than the word of a man named Burke, whom I do not know," replied Mr. Cannon, hotly, "to make me believe there is a dishonest hair in the head of Jimmy Sherman, whom I have known for twenty years."

The speaker was asked what he had to say in reference to the claims being put forth by the democratic politicians.

"We always let the other side claim things until election day," he replied with a twinkle in his eyes, "then we'll have something to say."

Silent on Opposition.

He also was interrogated concerning the report that the clergymen in his district are trying to prevent his reëlection to congress.

"My only answer to that report is to say that the ministers who are in touch with the people and who know what the people want are my friends," he said.

"How about the opposition to your reelection as speaker?"

"I won't cross that bridge until I come to it."

"I have come here from the middle west," said Speaker Cannon in his address tonight, "where I have been campaigning for a month and where I know the farmers out there. I know more about the farmers and the small shopkeepers out there, perhaps, than you do, and I want to tell you about them.

"I have no hesitation in saying they have never been so well off, that they have never had more money on deposit in the 10,000 banks scattered through the country than now. They have not bought as liberally during the last twelve months as they might have. They are, perhaps, responsible for the shortage in the demand in the producing centers. But I am not here to tell you manufacturers, you employers, or you wage earners, you have been as well off during the last twelve months as you have been before. I am merely asking you to abide by the policies of the republican party which will restore to you as good times as you have ever enjoyed, will make the wheels of progress and prosperity go round as swiftly as ever, and bring to you liberal purchasers.

Why Taft Should Win.

"The election is but a week off now. I have lived for three score years and ten and two more, and, having lived so long, I have had considerable experience to entitle me to careful judgment and consideration from such a representative gathering as I see here tonight. Now, I wish to point out a few salient facts to you and to impress them upon your minds so you will remember them and think about them between now and the time you cast your ballots.

"You have now a republican senate, and unless there is a great and unexpected landslide, which is not probable, you will continue to have a republican senate for at least two years to come, and a republican house not likely, too. If our enemy, Bryan, should be elected, you will have two more years anyhow of waiting for the return of good times.

"What could Bryan accomplish with a republican senate and probably a republican house? Bryan has denounced protection. He has criticised the protective tariff as robbery and says its revision must be according to his ideas if he is elected. Remember, tariff revision is the paramount issue of this campaign, and I say to you that if Bryan is elected you will not have revision. You will have nothing. With a republican senate he would be at loggerheads half the time or all of the time with that body.

Bryan Cannot Do Anything.

"Even if he was elected, with a democratic house to support him, you would have the two branches of congress working in opposition to each other. Such would indeed be a grave situation, and the people would profit nothing by it. Under such conditions the house wouldn't pass any bills the senate might approve, or the senate might refuse to have anything to do with measures that the house might see fit to adopt.

"Suppose Bryan was clothed with all the power the office of chief magistrate of our great country would give him? Suppose he had the support of congress, whether of the senate or the house? Why, he would have placed upon the statute books worse legislation by far than we have now. Remember, William Howard Taft stands for tariff revision from the standpoint of protection. If elected revision will be begun on March 4 next, and the desire of us all in that respect can be accomplished within ninety days after that date. With a republican congress, a republican president of the sterling worth and great abilities of Taft can accomplish a great deal.

"Remember, Taft stands for tariff revision, and once elected, he can do much to restore confidence and prosperity, can give the manufacturer, and he employer, and the wage earner, and the farmer that which they want and shall have under a republican administration.

Says People Are Optimistic.

"Out in my own city times are beginning to improve rapidly. The number of empty cots is beginning to shrink fast, for out there the people feel that the shadow of Bryanism is passing and that an era of sanity and prosperity is about to open up under a republican administration.

"They feel that to get the best results they must elect Taft, who will be able to cooperate with a republican senate and house. Already Taft has proven himself a man of action and of judicious temperament, and I believe the great Chicago convention did the right thing when it nominated him for the highest honor the American people can confer upon a man."

PAY FOR ELECTION OFFICIALS.

Clerks and Judges of the 1906 Primaries to Receive Compensation After Long Delay.

The board of county commissioners yesterday ordered the controller to pay the judges and clerks of the primary election of Aug. 4, 1906, which was held under a law that has since been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court. Controller Monaghan said he would be able to begin payment Nov. 15. The amount due the election officials is $98,325.

Miss Valentine Smith, city archivist, asked the board for an appropriation to provide for the protection of a tree marking the north boundary line of Cook county, near Glencoe. This tree, according to Miss Smith, was on an old Indian trail, and was bent down in the frontier manner of "blazing trails." It had been bent so that the top of the tree grew into the ground, a new branch growing straight upward and forming a new trunk.

MISS LOWELLA KAUTZ.

SHERMAN LAND DEAL SQUARE

Explodes Charge by Showing Enterprise Legitimate.

NO U. S. PROBERTY INVOLVED

Secrecy Never Used, and Company Dead Several Years.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 26.—James S. Sherman this afternoon gave out a statement dealing with the charges made public today that he had been involved in an attempted deal in government timber lands in New Mexico. Mr. Sherman's statement is as follows:

"My attention has been called to a sensational article in today's New York World making charges against me in connection with the New Mexico Lumber and Development company, a corporation which has not been in existence for some years. A careful reading shows that the charges, so far as I am concerned, have no substance whatever, and as to my connection with the enterprise the fullest possible investigation and publicity are courted.

No U. S. Property Concerned.

"The fact about it, briefly, is that some years ago Edmund Burke presented a business proposition involving the purchase of timber lands in New Mexico, which were not United States property, and the construction of a railroad. There were ten gentlemen, I think, who gave $600 each to form a company and investigate the project. Experts were employed to inspect the property. Some of us investigated the lands, so there was no secret about it, and, on the other hand, the local papers had much to say of it at the time.

"After looking into the matter carefully and at length, we decided that the lands available would not yield a profit on the railroad construction and development. The plan was abandoned, the company dissolved, about half the sum invested was paid back to each of us, and our prospective connection with the enterprise was ended.

"Not one foot or one dollar's worth of United States property was concerned with it in any way. There was no secrecy about it, and no need for any. I never urged the passage of any such bill as is referred to, and the World article does not say that I did. What Mr. Burke or any one else did before or after our investigation of the proposition I do not know, and if he or anybody else attempted any bribery business it was without the knowledge, consent, or approval of myself or any of my associates in the investigation.

Purely Legitimate Private Deal.

"My secretary acknowledged the receipt of Mr. Burke's letter of Aug. 9, signing my name as he had the right to do in my absence. He showed me Mr. Burke's letter on my return, and, knowing there was nothing in the transaction on my part to conceal or apologize for, I paid no more attention to it. The whole affair was purely a legitimate private enterprise which as business men we investigated and turned down half a dozen years ago.

"It may be of interest in this connection to say that later Mr. Burke wrote me, saying he was being pressed to make statements which would be calculated to injure me, and asked me to see him in Chicago on a date when I was billed to speak there. That letter was not even acknowledged, because I had nothing to say or promise to prevent the disclosure of any public or private act of mine. If he has found a market for the wares, the incident must go along with what I suppose is to be expected in the last week of a campaign."

United German Societies Leave Members Free to Support Either Wayman or Kern for State's Attorney.

The United German Societies, at a meeting held in the Sherman house last night, adopted a resolution it was the sense of the meeting that "individual preference for state's attorney may be expressed without suggestion from the United German Societies, and that all members vote their own choice between Mr. Wayman and Mr. Kern."

ACTS AS HER OWN DETECTIVE

Lowella Kautz Causes Arrest of Two Suspected Young Men.

STOLEN JEWELRY RETURNED

Roomers in Cass Street House Locked Up as Thieves.

By playing the piano, singing, and otherwise entertaining one of two roomers in her mother's house, 205 Cass street, whom she suspected of stealing, Miss Lowella Kautz, 20 years old, accomplished the arrest of the pair and the return of her missing jewelry.

The ingenious ruse of the young woman followed within an hour the discovery of the loss of her jewels from a small jewel box in a dresser in her room Sunday afternoon. She had placed the jewels, a sunburst fob, set with diamonds, a diamond brooch, a gold watch, and a diamond medal in the box upon returning from church in the morning.

On discovering their absence she immediately suspected two new roomers, J. B. Cochlan and J. A. Jefferson, whose room was opposite her own on the second floor of the house. Quietly and coolly the young woman planned a trap. She took only her mother into her confidence.

Invites Suspect to Walk.

Meeting one of the suspected young men, Jefferson, in the hall a short while later, the young woman smilingly invited him to accompany her on a short walk.

During their absence Mrs. Kautz, the mother, notified the police of the Chicago avenue station of her daughter's suspicions and requested them to send over a detective. Miss Kautz and Jefferson soon returned and at the young woman's invitation Jefferson accompanied her to the parlor.

"I will play and sing for you; it will help to pass the dull day," she said.

Jefferson expressed his pleasure, but the young woman's intuition told her he suspected a trap. When she had sung one song he rose and asked to be excused.

"I believe I will go to my room and lie down," he said.

Miss Kautz followed him to the foot of the stairway and her ear soon caught the sound of footsteps in her room, just above. She reached the second floor just in time to see Jefferson leaving her room, going to his own across the hall. She hid from view, and going quietly to her room opened her jewel box and found her watch and diamond fob in the case.

In the meantime Detective Stromberg arrived at the house and was talking with Mrs. Kautz, when the daughter, followed soon after by Jefferson and his companion, came downstairs.

"Officer, arrest that man. He stole my jewels from my room," exclaimed the young woman. "I have the proof, for I just saw that man, pointing to Jefferson, return my watch to my room."

Taken to Station Handcuffed.

Despite the protests of the two men they were handcuffed and taken to the police station, where a charge of larceny was preferred against them by Miss Kautz.

In a search later of their room in the Kautz house the police found three trunks containing a dozen checks and large quantities of women's wearing apparel. In the patrol wagon shortly after they were locked up were found two regulation "blackjacks."

"It was nothing more than any other girl with any ingenuity would do," said Miss Kautz, a tall, handsome young woman, in answer to the praise of a friend yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Soule was said not to be living at his residence at 2122 Michigan avenue last night.

NO RACE GAMBLING, WAYMAN'S PLEDGE

Candidate for State's Attorney Promises He Will Enforce the Laws.

MAKES HIS STAND PLAIN.

Declaration Is in Response to an Open Letter from Citizens' Association.

In his platform speeches last night and finally in a written pledge addressed to the Citizens' association, John E. W. Wayman, republican candidate for state's attorney, declared that if elected he would maintain the present freedom of the county from gambling at racetracks. This, in the event of Wayman's election, means the thwarting of the plans of the gambling element to reestablish racetracks in the county outside of the city limits.

Mr. Wayman made plain his stand on this question following the receipt of an open letter from the Citizens' association which was sent out in the afternoon to all of the candidates for state's attorney.

"Will you, if elected state's attorney, make use of all the powers vested in that office, if necessary, to prevent and put a stop to all gambling at racetracks in Cook county during your term of office?" was the form of the interrogation.

Wayman's Reply.

Mr. Wayman's reply to the organization follows:

"Section 127 of the criminal code provides that 'whoever keeps a common gaming house or any building for the purpose of playing any game or sport for money shall be fined,' etc.

"Section 126 of the criminal code makes other provisions with reference to gaming.

"The Supreme court of Illinois in Swigert vs. the people has decided that the sections above referred to apply to gaming at racetracks.

"If elected states' attorney I will see that these provisions of the law are enforced."

Addresses Four Meetings.

Mr. Wayman repeated this pledge, together with amplifications at the four meetings he addressed in the evening—Oakland Music hall, Institutional church, and meetings in the Eleventh ward at 800 South Ashland avenue and in the Twelfth at Troy at Twenty-second streets.

"I stand for the enforcement of the law," he declared. "The lawless element will realize this if I am elected, as I expect to be. The laws prohibit gambling at racetracks and as state's attorney I shall absolutely prohibit it."

The question has come to the fore by virtue of the expectations of the sporting element to reopen the racetracks in the event of the election of "Jake" Kern, the democratic candidate. Under the surface of the state's attorneyship contest is the proposition of a wide open city and county. The Kern workers are passing the word along the line that the lid will be taken off gambling, and especially racetrack gambling, if their candidate is elected.

When inquiry was made by a reporter for THE TRIBUNE at the office of Mr. Kern last evening it was stated that he had not received the letter from the Citizens' association. It then was in the possession of Ernest McGaffey, Mr. Kern's campaign press agent.

Text of the Letter.

In its communication the Citizens' association called attention to the interest it has taken in the suppression of racetrack gambling. The letter follows:

"In 1904 the Citizens' association, by presenting to successive grand juries evidence against the bookmakers then operating at the racetracks in Cook county, called public attention to the demoralization wrought in the community by racetrack gambling and aided in creating a public sentiment which demanded its suppression.

"Following the election of Mr. Healy as state's attorney the association, on April 22, 1905, addressed a letter to him calling his attention to the fact that the Worth Jockey club had announced a race meeting to open a week later and suggested that a letter from him addressed to the Worth Jockey club, intimating that he purposed to use the full powers of his office to stop racetrack gambling at the approaching meeting, would lead to the abandonment of that meeting.

"Following our suggestion the state's attorney served notice on the Worth Jockey club that he would use all the powers vested in his office to put a stop to gambling at the racetracks in Cook county during his term of office. The result of this announcement was that the Worth Jockey club immediately abandoned its proposed meeting and the racetrack bookmakers have made no effort to operate in Cook county during the last four years. Consequently the community has during that time been free from this most ruinous form of gambling, which formerly absorbed millions of dollars each year.

Want Public Informed.

"We believe that this abolition of racetrack bookmaking was one of the most important local reforms ever accomplished in this county. As racing men have recently declared that race meetings would be held in the vicinity of Chicago next season and as it is evident that the attitude of the next incumbent of the state's attorney's office will largely determine whether or not this evil will be revived here, it is but proper that the public should be fully informed as to the intention of the various candidates for the office of state's attorney in regard to this matter, and we see no reason why any man who aspires to be elected as the chief law officer of the county should hesitate to state his position. Therefore the Citizens' association respectfully submits to you and to the other nominees for the office of state's attorney the question:

"Will you, if elected state's attorney, make use of all the powers vested in that office, if necessary, to prevent and put a stop to all gambling at racetracks in Cook county during your term of office?"

MIKADO REPLIES TO PRESIDENT.

Glad Fleet Visited Japan and Gave Him a Chance to Prove Friendship Anew.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 26.—The reply of the emperor of Japan to the message from President Roosevelt, which was forwarded to Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador at Washington, was presented to the president today. It is as follows:

"To the President of the United States of America: I thank you most sincerely for your kind message, which the American ambassador delivered to me upon the departure of the American fleet from our shores. I was highly gratified to learn that the reception accorded to the fleet was so satisfactory and agreeable to you and to the people of the United States.

"I desire to express my appreciation of your kindness in accepting the invitation of my government for the fleet to visit Japan, since by that visit I was afforded an opportunity to testify anew to you the assurance of my high regard and perfect esteem, and my subjects were enabled to give fresh proof of their sincere attachment for your countrymen. I am happy to believe that the memorable event will surely tend to cement the bonds of friendship and good neighborhood between our two countries. Your good friend,

"MUTSUHITO."

Residents Object to Factory.

Protests have been made by residents in the vicinity of Paulina street and Warren avenue against the establishment of a tin foil factory by the John J. Croake company at the southeast corner of these streets. Yesterday an opinion was asked from the corporation counsel whether frontage consents are necessary before the factory can be opened.

PASTOR 'GOES AFTER' WAYMAN

W. S. P. Bryan States the Position of the Clerical Reformers.

CITY NEEDS OVERLOOKED.

Clergyman Asserts Candidate Sidesteps Vice in Speeches.

The Rev. W. S. Plummer Bryan, pastor of the Church of the Covenant, yesterday voiced the platform of the anti-Wayman forces at a massmeeting in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association building.

It was in the form of answers to questions bearing upon the opposition of the ministry to both old party candidates and the support of the prohibition nominee, William Street, and the chief argument was based upon the Sunday closing issue, but with minor reference to the ability or character of the two men criticised.

"These questions," said the Rev. Mr. Bryan, "are forced upon us by the speeches of Mr. Wayman. Mr. Kern consistently ignores us. He has no favors to give and none to ask; and we can respect him for his consistency while we oppose his principles utterly. Mr. Wayman, however, makes us the chief theme of his speeches. He has little to say about vice and crime and ballot box frauds, but he exhausts his energies upon us."

Views of the Clergy.

He then read the views of his associates, as follows:

"The politicians have told us for many years that elections are in the hands of the voters if they only knew it; they have reproached us for taking no interest in politics and have blamed us for the conditions which exist in city life. Evidently Mr. Wayman is not a politician of this kind. He objects seriously to our participation in the selection of a state's attorney. We regret this, but this time we will take the advice of the politicians of the other kind.

"It is new work for most of us. We look for no office as our reward; we would be false to conscience and to God if we stood idle and allowed the city to be delivered over to four years of laxity in the state's attorney's office.

"We have no fight against Mr. Wayman or any other candidate on personal issues. We concede Mr. Wayman's right to run as a candidate on technical grounds, notwithstanding the fearful frauds in the primary election. But for us Mr. Wayman has no such kind consideration. He says we are 'bigots,' 'slanderers,' 'falsifiers,' 'given to scurrility,' and guilty of 'crime' in our opposition to him. We leave it to the fair minded, independent citizens of Chicago to say whether abuse of this sort is a sign of that calm, judicial temperament which we look for in a lawyer, especially in a state's attorney.

"In this contest we are judging men by their records and by their platforms. Mr. Kern's record is well known. Mr. Wayman, perhaps fortunately, has no record in this office. Both stand with whisky interests on the platform of the United Societies. This is the issue with us and the source of our movement.

"We acknowledge the rights of the liquor dealers in this campaign, and we claim the same rights for ourselves. There is no compromise between us.

"Daily and hourly the number of citizens is growing who see in the election of Mr. Street our only hope for an administration pledged to the suppression of crime and vice and the protection of the city against organized lawlessness."

Street Indorsed by Ministers.

Resolutions indorsing Street were passed at the weekly conference of Baptist ministers at Steinway hall and at a noon meeting of Methodist preachers. At the former the Rev. C. F. Tolman, the Rev. A. C. Dixon, and the Rev. M. P. Boynton spoke in behalf of Street, and at the latter his advocate was the Rev. S. H. Wershing.

At a noonday meeting held in the auditorium of the Association building Mr. Street declared Mr. Wayman intentionally misrepresented him when he asserted that he was a real estate man and not a lawyer.

"This is a certainty, unless you elect me, Jacob Kern will be elected to the office of state's attorney," said the speaker. "Mr. Kern frankly says he serves the devil. I say that I represent God and the law. You have your choice. What are you going to do about it?"

A final massmeeting in the interests of Mr. Street's candidacy will be held in the same hall next Monday at noon.

At the second of a series of meetings held last night in Chicago Commons auditorium, Morgan street and Grand avenue, Street flayed both Kern and Wayman. Kern was characterized as "an admitted devil," while he declared Wayman "is vacillating."

STAATS-ZEITUNG OUT FOR TAFT.

It Holds Bryan Lacking in Experience and Conservatism to Administer Office and Appoint Justices.

The Illinois Staats-Zeitung yesterday declared in the following editorial for the election of Taft:

"The great excitement caused by the local campaigns in city and state has unduly forced the national campaign into the background. The prevailing indifference among many classes of people carries with it a serious danger for the country and the American people.

"Far be it from us to minimize Mr. Bryan's ability and his many excellent qualities, but we are of the opinion that the country needs a more conservative president than he would be, a man of experience with a formidable administrative program.

"Such a man is Mr. Taft. He has had more opportunity to acquaint himself thoroughly with the various branches of our most intricate government machinery than any other American; and even the most enviously inclined opponent will admit that he proved himself worthy of every position intrusted to him either by President Roosevelt or the people.

"One of the most important duties which the next president will be called upon to perform will in all probability be the appointing of several justices of the highest tribunal of the country. Several of the members of the United States Supreme court are growing so old that their retirement from office either by death or by way of resignation seems imminent.

"The United States Supreme court, however, is a tribunal which not merely exerts a great influence upon the dispensing of justice but upon the whole government. No law may be considered valid unless it has withstood the test applied by a decision of this court.

"It is evident then that under these circumstances the appointment of these judges is of paramount importance. Radical members of that court might cause endless confusion and injury, from which generations to come might have to suffer.

"But it is to be expected positively that Mr. Taft, if made president, will appoint to these positions none but experienced, conservative jurists, men, who, like himself, will be a guarantee of sound government.

"This one argument alone should be sufficient to those of a calm, deliberate mind to prefer Mr. Taft to his opponent, Bryan."

CHAFIN TALKS MOTHER GOOSE.

Democratic Platform Likened by the Prohibitionist to the Gown of Dame Hubbard Fame.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 26.—The democratic national platform was likened to a Mother Hubbard dress, which "covers a whole lot, but touches nothing," by Eugene W. Chafin, the prohibition candidate for the presidency, in an address here today.

Mr. Chafin did not give much attention to the other political parties, however, confining himself very closely to the plea for universal prohibition.

"I am sure that if all the voters in this great country of ours would vote as they think on the question of prohibition," said he, "there is no doubt but that I would get the electoral vote of every state in the country."

THREE BIG CROWDS APPLAUD DENEEN

Governor Reviews Work of Administration and Arouses Much Enthusiasm.

SHOWS HE DOES THINGS.

Executive Points Out Many Reasons Why He Should Be Retained in Office.

Gov. Deneen reviewed his administration and made a plea for the continuation of the policies he has inaugurated before three large audiences last evening. He spoke at 800 Ashland avenue, at Troy and Twenty-second streets, and at Institutional church, Dearborn and Thirty-eighth streets, to an audience of negro voters.

At the negro meeting the governor was reinforced by Assistant State's Attorney Barnett, a negro lawyer, who expounded the legality of Mr. Deneen's imbursement by fees while he was state's attorney. Mr. Barnett was an attaché of the office under Mr. Deneen. Another speaker was Gen. E. C. Young, who described the effective measures taken by the governor for the suppression of the Springfield riot. This appealed directly to the negroes and was applauded enthusiastically.

If there is any hostility to the governor in the Eleventh and Twelfth wards there were no signs of it in the crowded halls he found there. The meetings were orderly, no attempt was made to interrupt or embarrass the candidate, and the presentation of his argument for reëlection elicited repeated outbursts of applause and cheering.

Enumerates Achievements.

The governor prefaced his remarks by saying he assumed that his hearers wanted a governor who had done things and planned to do more things, and then he enumerated his achievements during the last four years. He challenged his opponent to show an equal record of achievement or even a definite program which he would follow if elected.

He related in detail the steps taken under his direction to change the charitable institutions from custodial to curative sanatariums.

"Through the introduction of these reforms," he continued, "our institutions are rapidly being brought to the same level of efficiency as those of Germany, where it is reputed that 40 to 70 per cent of the acute insane are cured, as against the 5 to 7 per cent which prevailed in our institutions heretofore.

"Under the law which was passed relating to interest on public funds, the interest accruing thereon goes to the public, and the departments under my administration have received 2 per cent interest on their daily balances and have in this way paid into the state treasury over $54,000 in that time.

"A primary election law enabling the people to control the entrances to public life has been placed on the statute books.

"A pure food law has been passed.

"Our factory laws have been revised.

"Our insurance laws have been revised and amended, making ours a model for the other states.

"Freight and passenger rates have been reduced.

"The office of institution auditor has been created as a department of the governor's office. The business of the state under him has been thoroughly systematized and put on a thoroughly business basis.

"The accounts of the Illinois Central Railroad company have been investigated by the executive department and a suit is now pending against the railroad company for $15,000,000.

Commissions Created.

"The following commissions have been created:

"The geological survey commission, whose work has attracted national attention and given a strong impetus to the development of our mineral resources. Ours is the third state in the union in mineral output and this commission has pointed out the best methods for their development and conservation.

"The internal improvement commission appointed by me has changed the deep waterway movement from an academical question to a practical problem, and the general assembly has submitted to the people an amendment to the constitution authorizing the general assembly to issue bonds amounting to $20,000,000 so to construct the waterway that the rental of the water power generated in the Desplaines and Illinois rivers between Lockport and Utica can be utilized to dig the waterway. The report of the commission shows furthermore that after the waterway has been dug and paid for, through the rental of water power, we shall be able to add to our 870 miles of river and lake front, 2,000 additional miles of eight foot barge canals by canalizing our rivers and making connections between them, as has been done in France and Germany.

"The state highway commission has been created to study the problems of our roads and experiments have been made to test every sort of road construction to which our soil is adapted.

"An educational commission has been created to simplify and codify our school laws and to amend the present statutes thereon.

"A commission has been created on occupational diseases, the first of its kind in America; and another commission on hazardous and dangerous machinery. These two commissions are to report to the general assembly in January next.

"In Chicago justice shops have been abolished; the city government unified; the term of the mayor extended from two to four years, and authority to impose a wheel tax conferred.

"Laws have been passed for the improvement of our parks, large and small, and for the extension and completion of our boulevard systems.

"State taxes have been reduced and the bill to repeal the Juul law vetoed, thus preserving the limit to the amount of taxes which may be levied on property."

Replies to Critics.

The governor said the only criticisms directed at him concerned the accidents in the state institutions and the fees he received as state's attorney. He told how the accidents took place and showed that he was not responsible for them. Then he gave his defense of the charge of fee grabbing which he has presented previously.

"HE'S A SOCIALIST," IS MR. W. J. BRYAN

St. Louis Manufacturer Tells Why He Refused Financial Aid to Democrats.

SINCERITY IS DOUBTED.

Nebraskan Accused of Surrendering What at One Time Was a Lofty Purpose.

When Alvan B. Goodbar, president of the Goodbar Shoe Manufacturing company of St. Louis, replied to the request of the democratic national committee that he subscribe and solicit subscriptions to the democratic fund he was thoughtful enough to give the republican national management a copy of his remarks.

The original was addressed to Col. Morse C. Wetmore, but it could not have been read with half the interest with which the copy was looked over in republican headquarters.

Mr. Goodbar refused to drop anything in the plate. He admitted he was a democrat, but he said that Mr. Bryan was not. He said Mr. Bryan had been a populist, was now a socialist, and that his vote for Weaver in 1892 expressed his real political views. For this and other reasons Mr. Goodbar asked to be excused.

Text of the "Regrets."

In sending his "regrets" he said to Col. Wetmore:

"I am in receipt of a letter signed by Norman E. Mack requesting me to make a contribution and to solicit contributions from others to the Bryan and Kern campaign fund. I presume this request is made upon the assumption that I am a democrat. This assumption is correct, but I do not recognize Mr. Bryan as a democrat or as a true expounder of democratic doctrines and principles. He is a democrat in name only, while in fact he was originally a populist and by process of evolution has become a socialist, which is the trend of all populistic teaching.

"Mr. Bryan's vote for the populist candidate, Weaver, for president in 1892 properly expressed his political views, but with the decline of the populistic movement Mr. Bryan allied himself with the democratic party and under its name he has become a chronic seeker after political preferment. Endowed with gifts of oratory far beyond the average speaker, Mr. Bryan has been able to sway thousands of minds by his sophistries and superficial reasoning and to create a blind following for his political vagaries.

Harm in Bryan's Methods.

"During the last twelve years of Bryan's political career he has done this country incalculable harm by his appeals to class prejudice against the employer and by holding up the rich to obloquy and creating in the minds of the less fortunate the feeling that all wealth is accumulated by dishonest methods and by the oppression of the poor.

"Last, but not least, he has been sowing the seeds of socialism, which, instead of adding strength to the democratic party, have prepared a harvest which will show itself in a largely increased vote on Nov. 3 for the socialist candidate, Debs.

"I am among the hundreds of thousands of democrats who refused to indorse Bryan's undemocratic doctrines in the canvass of 1896 and 1900, but who could not reconcile themselves to voting for the republican ticket. I also believe that I am one among many thousands of democrats who will not only refuse to support Mr. Bryan in the present canvass but who will emphasize their condemnation of his socialistic tendencies by voting the republican ticket with the hope of burying him beyond the possibility of resurrection."

Deserts the Nebraskan.

Other unkind things are said of Mr. Bryan in a statement which the republican national management issued for Attorney Lawrence P. Boyle, a democrat who voted for the Nebraskan in former elections. In explaining his change Mr. Boyle says that Mr. Bryan has lost his claim on the consideration of democrats who formerly admired him for his sincerity of purpose, if not for his soundness of mind, by making treaties with the elements in his party which he had affected to oppose. Says Mr. Boyle:

"The fact that the once sincere and magnificent, even if visionary, superficial, and unsound, Mr. Bryan has gone into voluntary captivity is no evidence that he is a new Bryan in any respect that would better fit him for the presidency. His entrance into captivity to the vilest elements of what was once a party of men and statesmen only proves the cunning craft and dilligence of these vile little Lilliputians who have made this—once in a way—magnificent Gulliver lie down while they walk over him.

"He is not a new Bryan. He is the same unsafe, unstable, issue chasing visionary that he was. The only change is that he has surrendered what once seemed to be a sincere, lofty purpose."

Will Speak to Miners.

W. R. Fairley, a member of the national board of the United Mine Workers living in Alabama, was at republican headquarters on his way to Speaker Cannon's district, where he will speak to the miners of Vermillion county at two meetings in the interest of the speaker.

Mr. Fairley has been working in Indiana for the republican national ticket and makes the trip into the Cannon district to prove that President Gompers of the Federation of Labor does not represent the united labor sentiment in fighting the speaker for reelection.

"I have no idea that Mr. Gompers can take republican votes away from Taft, Cannon, or any other republican candidate," he said. "He is not backed by the officials of the federation, and I am positive that the republican union men will vote for the republican ticket. I have seen enough of democratic officials in my own state to keep me from voting the democratic ticket. I can't recall anything the democratic party ever has done for labor, and I have been serving that party for twenty years."

"LOAN SHARK" LAW IS UPSET.

Illinois Supreme Court Declares Statute Interferes with the Right of Each Citizen to Contract.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—Sections of the Illinois laws which pertain to the assignment of wages are declared invalid in the decision of the Supreme court in the case of Perry J. Massie versus Charles E. Cessna.

Massie, an employé of a newspaper, made an assignment of his wages as collateral for a loan at an excessive rate of interest, and when threatened with court proceedings unless he paid the principal and interest, filed a bill claiming that under the statute the loan was not valid and asked that the loan be canceled. The demurrer of the appellee was overruled by the lower court and a decree entered in favor of appellant.

Section 4 of the exemption laws of Illinois declares that every assignment of wages to be collected in whole or in part more than six months after the making of such assignment shall be void. The court holds that this is an unconstitutional interference with the right to contract, and that section 1 requires in the assignment of wages or salary burdensome conditions which do not apply to assignments of other claims of like character and whose imposition is merely arbitrary.

The statute, as a whole, was beyond the constitutional power of the legislature to enact, it is declared. The decree is therefore reversed and the cause remanded with directions to sustain the demurrer. The law was passed at the last session of the legislature and was one of the "loan shark" measures.

Streets Used for Storage.

Charges that four corporations have been using parts of West Water street, Lake street and Canal street for storage purposes for years were made before the council committee on streets and alleys yesterday. Ald. Brennan reported that he had found the street partly blocked by property of Jones & Laughlin, the United States Express company, United States Leather company, and the Pennsylvania railroad.

WORKING ON THE VOTE FRAUD

Special State's Attorney Getting Ready for His Grand Jury.

KERN BALLOTS INSPECTED.

Work of Both Parties at Primaries Subject of Scrutiny.

Action upon the primary election frauds proven by the examination of more than 100 witnesses on Sunday was postponed yesterday by Special State's Attorney Frank J. Loesch. He said he did not know when prosecution will be begun.

Following the unexpected activity of examining witnesses by the score rumors became current that the temporary prosecutor intended to call a special grand jury at once or else present his evidence to the regular panel now in session, but it was stated that he did not wish to summon the special body until all of his testimony was prepared, and that the regular jury has its time fully occupied.

Great Secrecy in Probe.

Until the remodeling of the rooms formerly occupied by the jury commissioners is completed, Mr. Loesch and his staff are housed in the jury sleeping quarters on the sixth floor of the Criminal court building, where the construction was with the aim of secrecy.

This equipment enabled them yesterday to continue the examination of witnesses without fear of eavesdroppers or interruptions. The few men called in during the day were smuggled into these rooms by the investigators.

In spite of these precautions it became known that the investigation is much broader than the inquiry made during the Healy-Wayman contest for the republican nomination for state's attorney.

The inner secrets of all party machines are being sought and it is said that the evidence already uncovered affects both the democratic and the republican with equal emphasis—Kern as well as Wayman having been a beneficiary. The evidence of the witnesses who have been called before Mr. Loesch and his chief assistant, Haymie R. Pearson, is said to include almost every form of offense against the general election and the primary laws, from intimidation to bribery and coercion.

Scared Witnesses Won't Talk.

The men who will testify to these matters in the Ninth and Nineteenth wards, the strongholds of "Billy" Cooke and Chris Mamer, are of the same general type as the witnesses called in the nominating contest—Russian Jews who are so badly frightened at the aspect of the law that they refuse to give much information they are known to possess.

In spite of this handicap, the investigators are said to have gathered in proof that will inculpate men of prominent in city politics, some of whom hold offices of importance in the local government, both city and county.

Robert M. Buck's staff of investigators numbers twelve, but he has been given the assistance of several detectives and deputy sheriffs, who are engaged in the task of rounding up witnesses. They have served the list of witnesses from the Healy-Wayman contest and now are scattered throughout the city, several of them devoting their time to the democratic wards where frauds, fully as gross as those in the republican precincts, are said to have been committed in the interests of Jacob J. Kern.

BALLOT APPEAL AT WRONG BAR.

Supreme Court Refuses to Hear Mandamus Case, Saying It Belongs Before Appellate Judges.

The state Supreme court yesterday refused to consider the appeal from Judge Walker's mandamus order on the election commissioners, by which the United Societies sought to get the question as to whether saloons should be open in Chicago on Sunday or not on the ballot. The holding of the Supreme court was that the appeal should have been taken to the Appellate court, and its order is that the record be transferred to that tribunal. As the appeal served its purpose in acting as a supersedeas to Judge Walker's order neither side claims any special advantage, especially as there is plenty of time to have the appeal take the regular course before the question can be submitted to the people.

CITY RAILWAY ORDINANCE UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT.

Sustains Circuit Bench Demurrer to Bill Filed by a Few Stockholders of South Side Company.

The rehabilitation ordinance of the Chicago City railway, granted by the city in 1907, is pronounced valid in a decision of the state Supreme court rendered yesterday.

The court upholds the Circuit court of Cook county in its opinion sustaining the demurrers to the bill filed by Clarence H. Venner and other stockholders of the City railway questioning the legality of the ordinance which provides that the city is to receive 55 per cent of the earnings of the corporation as compensation for the use of the streets on the south side in Chicago.

Venner claimed that an ordinance passed in 1858 gave street rights to Franklin Parmelee and others which rendered the 1907 grant void. The bill asked that all money paid out since the ordinance went into effect be paid back to the treasurer of the street railway company and that a receiver be appointed for the company.

The Supreme court finds that the ordinance of Feb. 11, 1907, was not ultra vires to the city of Chicago; also that the acceptance of the ordinance by the directors of the corporation was binding upon all the stockholders. The court says:

"To hold otherwise would be to hold that the Chicago City railway had the right under the ordinance of 1858 to occupy all the streets of the south side of Chicago until such time as the city should, under the terms of the ordinance, purchase the railway system, and that the city is now indebted to the constitutional limit and could never purchase for want of funds, which would, in effect, confer upon the railway corporation a perpetual right. It would also require a holding to the effect that if a single stockholder refuse to give consent to an ordinance satisfactory to the city and to every other stockholder of the Chicago City railway, he could prevent the modernizing of the system for all time to come. There are also other grounds which show that the Circuit court properly sustained the demurrers to the bill filed by Venner."

REQUISITION FOR HOPKINS IS FORWARDED TO SEATTLE.

Fugitive Broker Is Expected to Arrive Here on Saturday in Custody of United States Deputy Marshals.

Extradition papers were sent to Seattle, Wash., yesterday by United States District Attorney Sims to bring Wallace H. Hopkins back to Chicago for trial on the charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes. Hopkins is expected to arrive here next Saturday.

Thomas J. Delahunt, manager in the Wallace H. Hopkins company, will be tried, it is said, at the same time Hopkins is tried. Delahunt was indicted by the same federal grand jury that indicted Hopkins.

Local interest in the case centers about Mrs. Florence Cooper, alias Brooks, who fled the city with the broker only to desert him, according to Hopkins' lawyer, Francis Harper, when the broker had spent the last of the $20,000 he took from the city with him. She still is the lessee of a flat at 197 Twenty-fifth street, where she was seen a few days ago. Neighbors of the woman volunteered the information that she had gone to Milwaukee. The federal authorities are not searching for her.

GOVERNOR ACTIVE AGAINST RIOTERS.

Did Utmost Law Permitted Him Toward Using Militia at Springfield.

LETTER BY GEN. YOUNG.

He Replies to Charges Circulated by the Democratic State Committee.

Maj. Gen. Edward C. Young, who was in command of the militia during the Springfield riots, yesterday gave out a statement explaining Gov. Deneen's action in stopping the rioting, the statement being in the form of a letter in answer to a signed statement issued from democratic headquarters Saturday attacking the governor.

The first letter was signed by "the Rev. Dell Freeman, M. J. Anthony, Thomas Jackson, and George McAtee," protesting for the colored race against the governor's "inaction" and attacking him for permitting the murder of colored citizens of Springfield.

Gen. Young had inquiry made at the address attached to the signatures of the men whose names were given as responsible for the attack and could not find that they lived there or ever had lived there. Their names were not to be found in the city directory, but the democratic state central committee had stood sponsor for the attack and Mr. Young decided to answer it, addressing his reply to the men who ostensibly were responsible for it.

Gen. Young's Letter.

"I am addressing an open letter to you," he said, by way of preface, "on account of the fact that none of your names appears in the city directory, and W. A. Davis, president of the Railway Porters' club, whom I sent to interview you, was unable to find any of you at the addresses given or to learn that you ever had lived there.

"Assuming, however, that you are not fictitious persons, the statements made in your letter are so absolutely false, and show such evident ignorance of the law, that I am forced to believe that either you have been much misinformed, or else that you are being made a cat's paw by men who are desirous of misleading the colored people.

"In the first place, the law does not authorize the governor to call out troops except upon the request of the civil authorities, and the governor has no more authority in Springfield than he has in any other city in the state. The mere fact that he lives there gives him no special legal authority whatever over the civil affairs of the city or county.

Urges Sheriff to Accept Aid.

"Notwithstanding this fact, the governor, as soon as the mob organized, and before any damage had been done, sent his military representative, Col. R. J. Shand, to the sheriff and urged upon him the advisability of calling out the local troops. As the mob became more threatening the sheriff was finally prevailed upon to accept the assistance of troops, and they were ordered to report to him, as the law of our state requires.

"The military officers, in their official report to me, stated that they urged upon the sheriff the advisability of firing into the mob, but he did not agree with them, and it was not until 3 o'clock in the morning that he was willing to permit the soldiers to fire into the mob."

Gen Young describes the various steps which the military authorities took to restore order and says:

"It seems to me almost like blasphemy for you to say: 'A kind Providence permitted this crime to happen just in time to give the voters of the state an opportunity to see what manner of man you are just before election day.'

"Mr. Freeman, you sign your name as a minister. Do you say that a just and merciful God would permit innocent men to lose their lives at the hands of criminals in order that injury might be done to the governor of the state. Your creed does not seem Christianlike to me."

"MERRY WIDOW" STAR WEDDED

Ethel Jackson, Former Wife of Theatrical Manager Zimmerman of Philadelphia, Marries New Yorker.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—After a career of five years as a real merry widow, following the granting of her divorce from her husband, J. Fred Zimmerman Jr., the theatrical manager, Miss Ethel Jackson, who created the famous Merry Widow rôle in light opera, was married today. The bridegroom is Benoni Lockwood Jr., a lawyer of New York, formerly of Wilmington, Del.

The marriage occurred at the home of Henry Wharton at 8623 Germantown avenue, Chestnut hill. He is a friend of Mr. Lockwood. There had been rumors that the actress would marry as soon as the papers in her divorce suit were granted. There had likewise been rumors that Mr. Lockwood would be her husband. But not until today, when the lawyer, accompanied by a minister, appeared at the marriage license bureau in the city hall was there any confirmation of an engagement.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Charles F. Field of the First Baptist church of Hoboken.

DEATH WAITS FOR WEDDING.

Father of Bride Expires After Requesting That Ceremony Be Performed Before He Succumbs.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—William Joseph Marrin, a lawyer at 52 Wall street, died tonight at his home, 223 West Forty-fifth street, a few hours after his only child, Marie Josephine Ainsworth, had been married in the house to Lorenzo Martinez Picabia, a clerk for a Wall street banking house.

The father's condition was known to be serious, and the date of the wedding had been advanced because Mr. Marrin said he wanted to see his daughter, the only remaining member of his family, married before he died.

The wedding, which was fashionable, occurred at 11:30 o'clock. When the hour for the ceremony approached Mr. Marrin had become exceedingly weak, but would not listen to a postponement. Before the couple left the city an alarming change occurred, and Mr. Marrin died in a few hours. When crêpe was hung on the door tonight rice left on the stoop by the wedding party still remained there.

DUAL CRIME AS DEATH WAITS.

Man in the Last Stages of Consumption Mortally Wounds Wife and Attempts Suicide.

Phœnix, Ariz., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Near death from consumption and crazed through fear of the spread of the disease to the brain E. B. Knox this morning mortally wounded his wife and attempted suicide. He shot his wife and then cut the arteries in his own wrists. Knox came here from Knoxville, Ill.

STEVENSON USES YATES SHOT

Candidate Adopts Questions Used During Recent Campaign.

MAKES REPLY TO DENEEN.

Defines His Views on Primary Law and Illinois Central Debt.

Without pledging himself to any personal activity, in the event of his election as governor of Illinois, Adlai E. Stevenson last evening made brief reply to the first two of the series of questions put to him repeatedly from the platform of Gov. Deneen.

He spoke at tent meetings in the Sixth and Seventh wards and in a hall in South Chicago, at each of which places he was greeted with red fire, skyrockets, and enthusiasm; and, although his speech was short, it was loudly applauded.

Beside answering the queries as to his attitude toward primary legislation and toward the collection of the indebtedness of the Illinois Central railroad to the state, he took backhanded slaps at the governor, asserting that the latter's efforts in both these matters had been a needless expense.

Another form of reply was made in submitting to the governor for answer the three questions propounded by Richard Yates during the primary campaign, which charge Mr. Deneen blundered in securing primary legislation.

Favors Direct Primary Law.

Mr. Stevenson also said: "As a political disciple of Thomas Jefferson, I am and always have been in favor of the rule of the people. I am in favor of intrusting the people to the fullest extent with political power, at the primary as well as the November election. I am in favor of a direct primary law. I am in favor of a law that will place the management of political parties in the hands of the people and take the power out of the hands of scheming politicians, ringmakers, and political bosses.

"Three primary laws have been enacted by the legislature and signed by the present governor. The first two were drafted by him and his political associates. In my judgment, they were intended to deceive the people into the belief that they were managing their party concerns, and really had the effect to increase the power in control in the hands of political manipulators and ringmakers. These two laws were both signed by the present governor and were afterwards declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court. I was not in favor of either of them, for the reason that I did not believe that there was an honest application of the principle of direct primaries.

"The present law will be construed by the courts and if it should in like manner be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court of the state, I would still be in favor of trying again to have enacted a law which would be honest in its provisions and would, in fact, place in the hands of the people themselves the management of their own concerns. The people of Illinois have paid out many thousands of dollars on account of the signing of these unconstitutional laws, which money might and should have been saved to the taxpayers.

His Stand on Illinois Central.

The next question assumes that the Illinois Central railroad company is indebted to the state of Illinois in the sum of $15,000,000. The amount of whatever indebtedness there is from the railroad company to the state is to be determined by the courts, and whatever it may be, I am in favor, when such determination by the court is made, of collecting to the last dollar.

"I will not, however, permit the money already in the treasury of the state to be expended and used to build up a political machine by the retention of special attorneys throughout the state whose services are only meant to avail the political fortunes of the administration."

Mr. Stevenson arrived in the city at 5 o'clock and went to the residence of Francis S. Peabody, his campaign manager, whose guest he will be during his visit. He made the trip around the meetings in an automobile with his son, Lewis G. Stevenson, and John McGillen.

His meetings for this evening are as follows:

Thirty-first Ward—Fifty-ninth and Peoria streets.

Thirty-second ward—Sixty-ninth and Halsted streets.

Fifth ward—Freiheit hall, 3417 Halsted street.

At noon he will address a meeting in the Great Northern theater, and it is expected that at this, or at the evening meetings, he will take up more of the questions propounded by Gov. Deneen.

LAKE BOAT, WRECKED, BURNS; TWENTY-TWO PERSONS SAVED

Tug Stands By and Takes Passengers from Blazing Steamer Iroquois in Georgian Bay.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Missing its way in a smoke pall over Georgian bay on Saturday, the steamer Iroquois, with seventeen passengers and a crew of five, smashed on West rock. Twenty minutes later it caught fire from an overturned cook stove. The persons aboard owe their lives to the prompt response of a rafting tug to the signals of distress.

When the Iroquois crashed on the rock, careening far over, a panic ensued. There were women on board. There was a sea running which made the lowering of lifeboats impossible.

Back of the vessel in the smoke was the rafting tug. The Iroquois whistled for aid and the tug, dropping its log boom, came steaming through the smoke.

When the tug pulled alongside there was a scramble for safety. J. H. Kotcher of Detroit was a hero of the wreck. He caught babies as they were tossed over the rail of the steamer to the tug below, assisted frightened women, and lent a hand everywhere until all were aboard the tug.

ABBOT MAKES FUN OF BANKERS' VIEW

Bryan Deposit Insurance Plan Defended with Shafts of Sparkling Humor.

ROOSEVELT GETS A SLAP.

Panama Profits, Moneyed Associates, White House Politics Lugged Into Argument.

BY WILLIS J. ABBOT.

Manager of publicity department, democratic national committee

[Copyright: 1908: By Tribune Company, Chicago.]

Even in so serious a topic as the guarantee of bank deposits there seems to be a certain element of humor. Here comes Mr. Robert B. Armstrong, formerly assistant secretary of the treasury, and now a leading financier, who informs us that the application of this theory would "annihilate the incentive to use honor, morals, character, sagacity, judgment, and acumen in banking." It was probably the freedom from any guarantee of bank deposits that developed so strongly the sense of honor, morals, and integrity in the mind of Charles W. Morse, the head of three broken banks in New York City.

Another interesting phase of a symposium which THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is conducting, the contributors to which are supposed to be not financiers but typical men in various branches of industry, was an extended article by J. Dwight Funk of Bloomington, Ill. Mr. Funk was heralded as a practical farmer. He denounced bank deposits from the farmer's point of view. But one of his neighbors writes as follows:

"To me it seems unfair that Mr. Funk should pose before the public as a plain farmer. . . . Mr. Funk is twice removed from a plain farmer in the commonly accepted meaning of that term. His grandfather was a plain farmer, who secured enough of rich McLean county land in an early day, so that the son, and, if I mistake not, some of the grandsons, are enabled to live in the neighboring city of Bloomington and engage in banking as a business, with farming as an adjunct.

Who Opposes the Bryan Plan?

And I would like to call attention to this fact, that every argument that has been made against the guarantee of bank deposits, whether by a financier like Forgan or Armstrong or a "plain farmer" like Funk, has been based entirely upon its possible effect upon the banker himself. We learn that it is going to debauch his morals. It is complained that the banker of unimpeachable standing will be put on the low moral plane of the speculative banker. It is even asserted that with guarantee, small banks may become great and great banks suffer.

The days of the campaign can now be numbered on the fingers of one hand, and yet from the administration at Washington comes no answer to the charge made openly and emphatically by a great New York newspaper, backed by the testimony of a financial expert which it employed, that of the $40,000,000 paid for the Panama canal $28,000,000 went to a favored coterie of people influential at the White house—namely: William Nelson Cromwell, member of the finance committee of the republican national committee; Charles P. Taft, brother of the nominee for president; Douglas Robinson, brother-in-law to President Roosevelt; John D. Rockefeller, and J. Pierpont Morgan, the owner of Harper's Weekly, which is pursuing Mr. Bryan with malignancy.

White House in Politics.

I get an echo of the letter written by Dr. Frederic Bancroft of Washington, protesting against the use of the White house as the republican national headquarters. The echo comes in the shape of a telegram sent to the president from Chicago and reading as follows:

"By what right do you use our government buildings for republican campaign headquarters, our private secretary, employed by us for you, our employés of all sorts, our cabinet members, our governmental postal department, franks, officers, and employés, our governmental telegraph and telephone charges, and the prestige invested in our whole government for campaign purposes? As taxpayers we demand an answer

"AMERICAN ELECTRIC TELEPHONE COMPANY."

No doubt Mr. Roosevelt will be as adverse to answering these questions as he has been to explaining the connection of his intimate associates with the Panama canal steal.

WATERWAY A MONEY MAKER

Lyman E. Cooley Gives Figures at City Club Luncheon.

SOON WILL PAY FOR ITSELF.

Speaker Urges Adoption at Election of $20,000,000 Bond Issue.

The proposed deep waterway in Illinois can be constructed in six years and fully paid for out of its water power earnings in eleven years thereafter, according to estimates submitted by Engineer Lyman E. Cooley at a luncheon at the City club yesterday. If the voters approve the $20,000,000 bond issue next Tuesday, he said, the state will be able to make the best paying public investment that opportunity ever offered.

E. S. Conway also praised the project from an economic and business point of view, and both speakers laid stress on the necessity of getting out a big vote on the proposition which will be presented on the little ballot. In order for the bond issue to be approved it must receive a majority of all the votes cast at the election, and therefore a failure to vote on the little ballot will be equivalent to a vote against it.

For the purpose of getting the facts fully before the people the association of commerce during the day began issuing posters stating that the waterway project has been approved by the executive committees of both the republican and democratic parties and also by the commercial interests.

Cost Placed at $16,558,734.

"The aggregate estimate for the state investment in waterway and water power," said Mr. Cooley, "amounts to $16,558,734. The work can be executed in five years, but an extra year should be allowed for unforeseen delays. The bonds can be issued as the money is needed and the expenditures can be so distributed that the net interest account shall not much exceed 5 per cent. This leaves a margin of some $2,000,000, which should be ample to cover any variation in prices and treatment.

"The financial statement which I have worked out in detail assumes that the issue of $20,000,000 in bonds will be completed at the end of six years and that the water power earnings will begin then.

"The net revenue from water power is taken at $22 a horse power on the turbine shaft, which practically is the equivalent of $25 a horse power in electric current to the customer under the probable market conditions. The power to be actually available is taken conservatively at 125,000 horse power at $22 net, giving an annual revenue of $2,750,000. It is assumed that the growth of the market will absorb this power in the fifth year after operation begins.

"It appears that the bonds can be retired and a surplus earned in the seventeenth year or in the eleventh year after the works are completed.

"The program can be varied. It is practicable to complete one or more of the water powers and thus develop earnings at an earlier date and this might be a better adaptation to market conditions."

Logical Result of Canal.

Mr. Conway traced the growth of the deep waterway plan from the inception of the drainage canal.

"If the drainage canal has been a failure," he said, "we should not embark upon the waterway venture. But if we consider the drainage canal a success, then we should develop it to its logical conclusion and create the deep waterway. The water power alone makes it an invaluable investment to the state. For every wheel you will turn by electricity developed by the water power you will save so much coal, which can be devoted to other uses. This means a great conservation of our natural resources."

PHONE FRANCHISE EXTENSION ASKED

Illinois Tunnel Co. Wants Two More Years to Install 20,000 Instruments.

PROMISES TO RUSH WORK.

Council Orders Issue of $835,000 Bonds for Corporate and Other Purposes.

The Illinois Tunnel company, through its president, Samuel McRoberts, applied to the city council last evening for a two years' extension of the time in which it must complete its telephone system to comply with its ordinance or else forfeit its telephone franchise. It would like a longer time, but will take two years if the council will grant it and nothing better is offered.

There were rumors of an intended combination of the company's telephone service with the Chicago Telephone company, but nothing came out of this.

The company's last franchise was passed on July 20, 1903. Among other things it provided that it must have 20,000 telephones in operation within five years or else lose the telephone franchise.

Says Time Limit Is Too Short.

When the five years had passed it did not have 1,000 phones in operation, let alone 20,000, but it raised the point that the five years dated from Jan. 3, 1904, the date on which the ordinance was accepted, and the city conceded the point.

As the situation now stands the company must have the required number of phones working by Jan. 3 next, a physical impossibility, and this caused the request for more time. In his letter President McRoberts said the company had complied with the ordinance in all other respects, asserting its work to have been of great benefit to the city, and promising if only given time enough it would have a telephone system in operation also. The letter was sent to the committee on gas, oil, and electric light.

Illinois Central Asks Favor.

An application of the Illinois Central road for the vacation of the twenty-six feet on the east side of Front street, between One Hundred and Fifteenth street and Kensington avenue and thirty-six feet on the same side between Kensington avenue and One Hundred and Sixteenth street on condition of its dedicating an equal frontage on the west side of the street was sent to the committee on streets and alleys south. It was accompanied by what purported to be the assent of a majority of the frontage on the street.

The council authorized the issuing of $835,000 of bonds, of which $750,000 are to be used for general corporate purposes and $85,000 to pay judgments.

An appropriation of $12,000 to pay expert witnesses used by the board of local improvements was agreed to.

May Distribute Handbills.

The democratic county committee obtained permission to distribute handbills during the next ten days.

Ald. Cullerton had an order passed directing the law department to prepare an ordinance limiting the height of buildings to twelve stories. Ald Hey asked the committee on street nomenclature to consider the advisability of offering prizes for designs for street signs.

The council adjourned until Nov. 9.

WIFE OF BOSTON DOCTOR TAKEN ON THEFT CHARGE.

Mrs. Martha Dunphy Indicted in Chicago for Alleged Larceny of Diamonds Worth $3,000 from C. E. Giles

Mrs. Martha Mabelle Dunphy, wife of a Boston physician, was arrested in that city yesterday on request of the Chicago police. She is charged with the theft of diamond jewelry valued at $3,000 from Charles E. Giles, said to be a money lender.

Mrs. Dunphy was visiting friends in Chicago early in the present month and it is alleged the larceny was committed two weeks ago yesterday. The case was presented to the Cook county grand jury last Friday and a true bill was found.

Giles, it is said, went to Boston to try to effect a settlement with Mrs. Dunphy, and failing to do so he returned to Chicago and had her indicted.

Detectives Tierney and Homer, who were assigned to the case by Capt. O'Brien, said they did not know Giles' address. His name is not in the city directory.

Soon after her arrest Mrs. Dunphy was released on a cash bond of $4,500, which was furnished by her husband. Her lawyer says the charges are trumped up and Mrs. Dunphy will fight extradition.

Dr. Dunphy is 60 years of age and his wife is about 30.

CITY LOSES TAX SUIT APPEAL.

Supreme Court Decides It Cannot Subdivide Property Against the Owner's Consent.

The Supreme court of Illinois in an opinion handed down last evening at Springfield holds that the constitution of the state prohibits interference with the right of property and denies to the legislature the power to provide that a municipality may subdivide the property of an owner for any purpose whatever without his consent. The opinion is rendered in the case of the city of Chicago against Jane Creigh Wells and reverses the opinion of the Cook county court. The county court overruled the contention of Mrs. Wells that the city could not subdivide her property in North Clark street and assess it in strips of 25 feet for sewers and water pipes.

The police of Marinette, Wis., were asked by wire to notify the parents of the boy, who are said to be poor. Fifteen persons who went to the station and saw the cheerful face of the boy wanted to adopt him.

PARTY SCHEME TURNS FARCE

Attempt of Democrats to Make Subway Political Issue Fails.

'WOOZY' ALDERMAN BALKS IT

McInerney, Tangled in Speech, Is Laughed Down by the Council.

A well laid plan of democratic politicians to make a party issue of a council appropriation last night had an unfortunate ending.

It was not the fault of the "committee." It had laid its plans well enough, but Ald. "Mike" McInerney, commissioned to do the floor work, was so unfortunate in trying to make himself understood that his extended and maundering remarks only met with gibes and laughter, even from his democratic friends, instead of that enthusiastic applause the committee had been figuring on. The alderman's eloquence was erratic; he even referred to Taft as a candidate for governor—an error which typified his state of mind.

The proposition was to spend $50,000 of the money obtained from the street car companies under the new ordinances for engineering work and plans for the proposed subway. There was no serious opposition, after McInerney got through with his speech.

Alderman's Speech Is Muddled.

Secretary John McGillen of the democratic county committee had given out the mysterious tip in the afternoon there would be things doing in the council meeting, and when Chairman Bennett of the finance committee asked for the transfer of the $50,000, Ald. McInerney thought that was his cue. What he evidently intended to charge was that the board of supervising engineers, paid $30,000 a year or a month—it was impossible to gather which he meant—"of the people's money," had refused to allow contributions to the democratic campaign fund among their subordinates, but had encouraged collections for the republicans.

In the zeal of his honest indignation over this alleged state of affairs, however, the alderman got tangled up in his speech, referring to Taft "as the candidate for governor—for president—no governor," "the committee for president—no governor," the committee on streets and alleys on—what do you call it—yes"—on being prompted—"streets and alleys, south," "trying to elect a democratic—no, republican, governor."

Takes a Tilt at Ald. Foreman.

If the alderman from the Thirtieth ward had been satisfied to confine himself to the theme the democratic committee had intrusted him with he would have got through sooner. But he made brief excursions into other territory and that delayed things. Especially did he seem to have a grouch against Ald. Foreman.

"I am glad," he remarked, "to find the alderman in favor of subways. Ten years ago I advocated subways in this city and this alderman opposed me. Now he has seen the light." He referred to the Illinois Tunnel ordinances. "I took the ground then that in the downtown district they were necessary. Even on Sundays they are needed. The alderman can make it Saturdays if he want to. I take my holiday on Sundays.

"I am glad the alderman has changed his mind. The whole city is glad. We should all be glad."

"Let's celebrate," came a voice from a rear seat.

"It is a reason for us to be glad," continued McInerney, "that the committee on local transportation is composed of such eminently honest men. The Chicago City company is glad, the Union Traction company is glad. Everybody is glad.

Laughed Down by Colleagues.

"Now they say that we aldermen who make up the committee on streets and alleys—what do you call it?"

"Streets and alleys south," prompted his colleague.

"Yes; streets and alleys south," went on the orator, "is not good enough to handle an application of a railroad for a favor. We rejected it, so a newspaper wants to abolish that committee and turn the job over to this honest committee. But I am glad to find the alderman has changed his mind on subways. They say it's only a d—n fool that never changes his mind."

"I am glad the alderman credits me with increasing wisdom," remarked Ald. Foreman. "I wish I could say as much for him."

"Ten years ago the brains of the aldermen opposing subways were muddled," resumed Ald. McInerney. "They have cleared up some since."

At this the rest of the council joined in one united laugh and the speaker, taking this for applause, got back to his political topic and went on in the same line until the aldermen were all laughing and he finally quit. Ald. Connery and Egan, who had been advertised to make seconding speeches, sat dumb and the effect of McInerney's eloquence was lost.

Cullerton's Only Negative Vote.

Ald. Cullerton started to oppose the appropriation of the $50,000 on the claim the city had no right to build a subway, but was sharply answered by Ald. Foreman, and his was the only vote against it. McInerney apparently forgot to.

The corporation counsel sent in an opinion, in answer to a former request by Ald. Cullerton, holding that the council could not do away with the board of supervising engineers except with the consent of the traction companies and their bondholders.

FINDS MORE IRISH MELODY; O'NEILL'S THIRD BOOK ENDED.

Jigs, Reels, and Hornpipes, Some Copied from Rare Volumes, Published by the Former Police Chief.

Do ye get ready to "welt the flure."

Former Chief of Police Francis O'Neill has just finished compiling a new book of Irish music upon which he has been engaged since he retired from the police force nearly four years ago.

The new volume is entitled "O'Neill's Irish Music for Piano or Violin." It contains 250 selections, some of them being copied from rare books published in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

Yesterday Mr. O'Neill received an acknowledgment from W. H. Grattan Flood of Enniscorthy, Ireland, to whom was sent an advance copy of the work. Mr. Flood is recognized as an authority on Irish music. In his letter to Mr. O'Neill he pays him a high compliment for his latest addition to Irish music, and he says he will write exhaustively of it for the December issue of the New Ireland Review.

This is Mr. O'Neill's third book of Irish music. In compiling it he was prompted by a desire to rescue from oblivion many old Irish airs which are not in print, and probably never were. To accomplish this it was necessary to visit scores of Irishmen and women who "had a tune." He found an old woman on the west side who gave him two jigs and several reels which he had never before heard.

"I thought I had heard every Irish tune ever played or written," said Mr. O'Neill, "until I found this old woman who jigged for me. She gave me a reel which for time and harmony is the greatest Irish air ever composed.

"The new book contains airs, marches, jigs, reels, hornpipes, and long dances. Not one of them is included in 'Moore's Melodies.' Many of the pieces I copied from old books, in which I delved for months.

"I may be pardoned for saying that I have at last accomplished something that is an addition to Irish music."

ROMADKA PREY ROBBED AGAIN

Porch Climber Steals Jewels from Residence of G. Hessert Jr.

LOOTED BEFORE BY WOMAN.

Well Dressed Stranger Suspected of Being the Marauder.

A porch climber entered the residence of Gustave Hessert Jr., at 1927 Arlington place, yesterday while the family was at dinner and stole diamonds and jewelry valued at $2,500. Most of the jewelry stolen was given to Mrs. Hessert by her husband and relatives, some of it being wedding presents.

The same house was robbed about two years ago by Mrs. Evelyn Romadka, wife of a Milwaukee, Wis., trunk manufacturer, who was arrested later and confessed to having robbed many places with a negro accomplice. Both Mrs. Romadka and her colored companion are now serving terms in Joliet penitentiary.

The porch climber's raid last night was discovered when Mrs. Hessert went into a bedroom and found her diamonds and jewelry missing. The Sheffield avenue police were notified of the robbery and Capt. Kane sent detectives to the scene.

Well Dressed Man Suspected.

From neighbors the police learned that a well dressed man was seen about the neighborhood Thursday and Friday afternoon and a few hours before the robbery a man was seen getting out of a buggy a short distance from the house.

The police were unable to find any marks in either the front of the building or in the rear. When the robbery was discovered a front and rear window were open. This caused the police to believe that the burglar climbed up the rear porch and then left by the front window when he became frightened by some noise in the house.

"We have no clews that may assist the police other than what neighbors have told me about seeing a well dressed man looking at our house," said Mr. Hessert. "I have been unable to learn whether the robber got in by the front window or a rear one. It is more probable that he entered from the rear window and left by the front one.

"Almost all of the diamonds and jewelry taken by the burglar were the property of Mrs. Hessert and were presents which have a great sentimental value. I gave the police a good description of the stolen property and hope they will recover it in pawnshops."

Industrious Burglar Is Taken.

Charles C. Nagel admitted to Capt. Kane at the Sheffield avenue police station that he had committed more than 500 burglaries in the last few years, the majority in the large eastern cities. Nagel says he came to Chicago from his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., a month ago and since then has entered about thirty Chicago residences and stolen valuables amounting to several thousand dollars. He says he is only 23 years old.

Nagel was captured Sunday night in the Lessing apartment building, at Surf street and Evanston avenue. He has the most complete set of burglar tools ever seen by the Chicago police. Two satchels which Nagel had checked at the Lake Shore depot, containing $700 worth of jewelry and $800 in pawn tickets were recovered, as was also a lot of jewelry which he had in his possession.

Among the Chicago victims of Nagel are B. A. Clements, 3808 Lake avenue, $200 in jewelry and silverware and a number of railroad annual passes stolen; M. A. Condrell, 1088 Sheridan road, $350 in jewelry and silverware; Mrs. F. D. Amend, 1033 Sheridan road, $100 in jewelry; Sigmund Kirchheimer, 3830 Grand boulevard, $100 in jewelry and silverware.

Nagel gave Capt. Kane the general location of a number of other burglaries, but could not give streets and numbers owing to his slight acquaintance with Chicago.

SKULL SHIELD BENT; INSANE

Andrew Brendner Loses Senses After Falling Down Steps.

WORK OF SURGEONS UNDONE.

Accident Dents Silver Plate Placed Next to Brain 15 Years Ago.

For nearly fifteen years Andrew Brendner labored among steel workers in possession of all his senses as the result of a successful operation that necessitated the placing of a silver plate beneath his skull. The light failed last night when he plunged down a steep stairway at his residence, 84 West Lake street, and he is now insane at the county hospital, where he was taken by the Desplaines street police. It is thought the frail silver sheet is bent. His condition is critical.

Early in 1893 Brendner fell and fractured his skull. For days he lay at Mercy hospital a maniac, but his mind was restored after the operation. The physicians at that time considered it a triumph in surgery, as Brendner was one of the few men in the city who had survived an operation of that nature. Some months later he was able to return to work.

Last night while several friends were visiting him he missed his footing and, toppling over backwards, struck his head on a stove at the bottom of the flight of steps. An instant later he leaped to his feet and struggled desperately with his guests to reach the street.

Dr. Clarence Wall and several policemen were hurried to the scene and after an examination the insane man was taken to the hospital. Up to an early hour this morning he had not recovered his senses.

JEHOVAH AND VULCAN SAME; SO DIVINITY EXPERT SAYS.

Prof. George B. Foster of Chicago University Also Places Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob Among the Myths.

"The 'appearance of God on Sinai' was a natural phenomenon. Doubtless it was volcanic. And Jehovah, to the Israelites, was a volcano god."

So Prof. George Burman Foster of the divinity school of Chicago university declared yesterday in an address to the Chicago Woman's club.

"The church once supposed," said Prof. Foster, "that it had in the book of Genesis a strictly Israelite heirloom, but how impossible it is for Israel to have brought with it from the desert legends which presuppose a civilization!

"Assyrian and Babylonian literature has revealed to us similar stories of such high antiquity that there can be no doubt of the dependence of the biblical narratives on them. Israel received these legends from the lips of the Canaanites, but transformed them in time and infused them into its own religious ideas.

"This was how the stories of the patriarchs arose—the Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob stories. These legendary figures were taken from their setting and made a part of the history of the chosen people. It would be easy to understand the fusion, however. Think how much Greco-Roman and German paganism, under a thin Christian disguise, has filtered into modern Christianity."

KEELEY INSTITUTE WINS SUIT.

Illinois Supreme Court Makes Perpetual an Injunction Against Interference by Former Partner.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—In the "Keeley cure" case the Supreme court in a decision rendered tonight holds that the formula for the cure of drunkards was Dr. Keeley's discovery.

The Supreme court affirms the decree of the Circuit court of Livingston county, where the Keeley Institute is located, in Dwight, making perpetual the injunction against defendants in the bill filed against Frederick B. Hargraves et al. restraining Hargraves et al. from disclosing knowledge regarding said formula.

Hargraves was a partner with Keeley, C. J. Judd, J. R. Aughton, and James Halpin from 1881 to 1886, when he is said to have sold out. Hargraves had charged that a fraud had been perpetrated upon the public by falsely representing that remedies sold contained gold and that it was a fraud to put Keeley's name on the bottle long after his death.

The court, besides deciding against Hargraves, decided he has no claim to the discovery.

LAURIER VICTOR IN CANADA

Liberal Government Wins the Parliamentary Elections.

BORDEN GETS A RETURN.

Plurality at Ottawa Put Close to the Sixty Mark.

NEW CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Province.	Liberal.	Conservative.
Nova Scotia	12	6
New Brunswick	10	3
Quebec	46	10
Ontario	37	36
Manitoba	3	7
British Columbia		2
Alberta	3	2
Saskatchewan	5	2
Prince Edward Island	3	1

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the liberal government won by a substantial though perhaps somewhat reduced plurality in the Canadian general and parliamentary elections today.

At the close of the polls tonight the voting showed that the government had been sustained by a plurality of from 55 to 60, the vote at midnight with fourteen constituencies to hear from standing 126 for the government, 60 for the conservative opposition, with 4 independents.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier was elected in two constituencies, and all members of the cabinet were returned with large majorities.

The Hon. R. L. Borden, leader of the opposition, was elected, but a great many of the leading supporters were defeated.

The contest was bitter, and the election, on the whole, was perhaps the most exciting in the history of Canada. The Laurier government had been in power for twelve years.

There was no question of policy dividing the parties. The government had been able, energetic, and successful, and endeavored to conduct the campaign on facts and argument.

The Laurier government will rule the country for another four years unless in the meantime it is defeated on some political measures in the house of commons, but that is not likely, as the government will have a comfortable working majority.

Hot Fight in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Indications are that the Laurier government will win nineteen of the thirty seats being contested in Manitoba and the west. With the exception of Winnipeg, the largest constituency in Canada, the majority of the contests are close, there being but a few hundred votes either way. The conservatives carried Winnipeg by over 1,300 votes. Manitoba is returning six liberals and four conservatives. Saskatchewan is returning eight liberals and two conservatives.

Alberta is sending five liberals and two conservatives and British Columbia is sending two liberals and one conservative.

The competition in Winnipeg was marked with scenes of rioting and the night was the wildest ever seen in a Canadian election. Mobs fought in the streets and for hours the police were powerless.

During the day there were frequent clashes between the provincial and dominion police and many prominent workers of both parties were placed under arrest. Liquor was flowing freely and the central part of the city was in an uproar till long past midnight. Many have been injured, but none seriously.

Big Surprise in Winnipeg.

While there were a number of surprises none was greater than in Winnipeg, which by nearly 2,000 majority defeated the government candidate, D. C. Cameron, a millionaire lumberman, in favor of Alex Haggart, a lawyer. There are thirty-six seats west of the great lakes. In five of these the elections were deferred. It is expected that the deferred elections will result in the return of three liberals and two conservatives.

Late returns indicate the defeat of the Hon. William Templeton, minister of inland revenue in Laurier's cabinet, in Victoria. The Hon. Clifford Sifton, former minister of the interior, may be defeated in Brandon, Manitoba.

Cowan, the conservative candidate, was elected by a majority of 1,390 at Vancouver.

All the ministers have been reëlected with the exception of William Templeton of Victoria, B. C., who lost by five votes.

Nova Scotia Liberal Losses.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 26.—The conservative party in today's general elections captured five seats from the liberals—Cumberland, Digby, the two Halifax seats, and the South Riding of Cape Breton county. The delegation to Ottawa stands: Liberals, 12; conservatives, 6. In the last general election the liberals elected a solid delegation of eighteen.

In Halifax today the Hon. R. L. Borden, leader of the Canadian conservative party, who was defeated four years ago, was successful.

New Brunswick for Liberals.

St. John, N. B., Oct. 26.—The liberals won a decisive victory in New Brunswick today, electing ten and possibly eleven members of parliament out of a delegation of thirteen. In the last house, the liberals had eight members from this province and the conservatives five.

William Pugsley, minister of public works, was elected in St. John city and county by a large majority, but his colleague, James Pender, was defeated by a small margin by Dr. John W. Daniel, the old conservative member for St. John city.

In West Moreland Henry R. Emmerson, former minister of railways, defeated Fred W. Sumner, conservative, by 1,000 votes.

GERMANS ACCEPT BALKAN PROGRAM

Kaiser Agrees That Conference of Powers Is Needed in Near East.

ONLY ONE HITCH SEEN.

Austria Will Receive Support in Demand That the Scope Be Limited.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Information from various sources regarding the negotiations of M. Iswolsky, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, with Chancellor von Bülow, is vague in character but uniformly peaceful in tone.

Austria's burst of anger over Great Britain's reported interference in her direct negotiations with Turkey subsided upon the receipt of Foreign Secretary Grey's emphatic denial. England's only insistance is that the European conference shall follow these negotiations whatever their result.

The St. Petersburg version of the result of M. Iswolsky's mission is most optimistic. It is there asserted the danger of a European war, which was extremely grave during the last week, is practically over and that peace is assured. The inference is that a conference has been agreed upon. There is no official assurance to this effect. It would mean, if true, that Austria has radically changed the attitude which she has adopted from the outset.

German Attitude Stated.

The following official statement of the situation was issued at Berlin tonight: "The discussions which the imperial chancellor and Foreign Secretary von Schoen have had with M. Iswolsky had reference to the contingency of an official proposal for a conference on the questions arising out of the recent events in the Balkan peninsula.

"The German government has no objection to raise against such a conference. The German and Russian governments are as one in recognizing that the conference can, however, only serve a useful purpose if a full agreement as to the scope and contents of the program be submitted to the conference as previously reached between all the powers signatory of the Berlin treaty.

"The German government holds to the view that it cannot assent to any proposals to which Austria-Hungary raises objections. These points will form the subject of further negotiations. On the other hand, a complete agreement was found to exist regarding the other points of the draft of the scheme elaborated as the result of M. Iswolsky's previous negotiations, particularly insofar as the proposed arrangements in the interest of Turkey were concerned.

"Both governments will persevere in their endeavor to reach a peaceful and just solution of the present difficulties."

Turkey Faces New Revolt.

The chief cause of anxiety at present is the internal condition of Turkey. The great strain put upon the new régime is testing the resources of the young Turks to the utmost. A considerable portion of the great military preparations in Constantinople is aimed at the protection of the government against a reactionary uprising on the part of a portion of the army, especially the troops stationed at Yildiz Kiosk.

An attempt is to be made this week to substitute more loyal soldiers, and great apprehension is felt lest a sanguinary encounter take place.

The foreign office has issued a statement flatly contradicting the statement which appeared in the Austrian press to the effect that the interruption of direct negotiations between Austria and Turkey was due to the advice and influence of Great Britain.

The statement says, on the contrary, the view of the British government has been that a direct arrangement would smooth the way to a general settlement, but that it is for Turkey to decide whether the proposals made were such as she could accept, as she is the best judge of her own interests, and with this view the Turkish government was made acquainted as soon as the British government was informed of the fact that Austria had declined to accept a conference unless she first arrived at a direct understanding with Turkey on the subject of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

KING NOT NEAR EXPLOSION.

Blowing Up of Petard in Barcelona Causes Alarm—Police Regard It as a Joke.

BARCELONA, Oct. 26.—The authorities were greatly alarmed this afternoon by the explosion of a petard in one of the streets, but the police attached no importance to the incident, as King Alfonso and Queen Victoria were not within miles of the place where the explosion occurred. The police regard it as a malicious joke. Earlier in the day the king and queen visited the French squadron lying in the harbor, and their launch came into collision with a steam ferry with such violence that several on board were thrown to the deck. The damage was slight.

CURFEW SILENT; PRIEST FORGETS.

Father Denis Hayes So Absorbed in Argument He Neglects to Ring Bell.

NICKEL THEATERS EMPTY

Even Without Warning Children of "Packingtown" Quit the Streets at 9 O'Clock.

Curfew did not ring last night!

But the streets, and alleys, and 5 cent theaters "back of the yards" were clear of children, nevertheless, at 9 p. m. so strong has the force of one week's habit and respect for the command of Father Denis Hayes become.

The failure to ring the great bell which warns children off the streets in St. Rose of Lima parish was entirely unintentional, and will not happen again. Every other night at a quarter of 9 o'clock nine sounding strokes by the sturdy pastor will proclaim to every boy and girl that "Father Hayes will get 'em if they don't watch out."

Not "every other night" either, for the good father confided to a reporter last night that next Saturday he will set his clock back two hours. Father Hayes, for all his twenty-five years in the priesthood, is still "one of the boys." And next Saturday night is Halloween.

Priest Forgets.

Curfew did not ring last night because Father Hayes was so absorbed in an argument with a reporter over "his boys" that he forgot to ring it. But, as the argument was conducted on the sidewalk in front of St. Rose's church, on Ashland avenue, near Forty-seventh street and within sight of half a dozen 5 cent theaters, the curfew really wasn't needed.

Up to 9 o'clock a steady stream of boys and girls passed the priest, each of them respectfully saluting him as they passed. At 9 o'clock the procession broke off abruptly. Children came jauntily around the corner, saw the priest, right-about-faced, and disappeared with the nickel for the moving picture show unspent. Others sneaked guiltily along the other side of the street, but lost courage as they approached the gilded palaces of inexpensive entertainment, and hurried on around the block as though on business and not on pleasure bent.

When, at a quarter after 9 o'clock, the priest remembered his bellringing duties, he decided to start out on a short tour of inspection. The trip showed conclusively how effective is the curfew in Packingtown. Where hundreds of children formerly ran as free as wild birds until late at night, the streets were deserted. Nickel theaters which formerly played to profitable audiences of boys and girls until 11 o'clock and later were closing their doors at 9:30.

Some Flee in Shame.

Some children there were whom Father Hayes classified as "not mine," and some there were who admitted his sovereignty by fleeing in shame at his approach. No more striking demonstration of the recognition by the children of the force and justice of the new law could be given than the changed demeanor with which they met the priest before and after 9 o'clock.

No one seemed inclined to stop to argue the matter on the technicality that the curfew had not been rung.

The curfew was not rung because Father Hayes has just as strong views on the evils of cigaret smoking for boys as on the evils of late hours on the streets. And Father Hayes was trying to convert the reporter. That is why he forgot to ring the curfew.

"Smoking cigarets does more harm to the boys of this country than drinking," he said. "It is much more insidious in breaking down the boy's health and leading to general moral breakdown than is drink. Drink is obviously bad. The boy, and his parents, and his friends can see that it is bad for him. He gets drunk and makes a fool of himself. There is great pressure put on him not to drink. The bad effects of cigaret smoking on a boy are not so apparent, but are as bad or worse in the end. A cigaret is more poisonous than liquor. It means instant expulsion for any boy in my parochial school to be caught smoking a cigaret.

"But it's a shame to punish the boy so severely. It is the men who sell the boys the cigarets who should be punished."

Plans to Improve Morals.

And Father Hayes, though he strenuously objects to being called a "reformer," has many other plans for improving health and morality "back of the yards," such as doing away with Bubbly creek and preventing epidemics of diphtheria and scarlet fever and welding all the various races that inhabit "Packingtown" into a homogeneous colony of "Americans." It is apparent that the curfew is only one point in his progressive program, and good, clean, healthy, wide awake boys and girls are badly needed. And it is certain that if the boys are going to stay up late nights they will have to do it at home.

PASTOR UNDER CLOUD GONE; MYSTERIOUS LETTER FACTOR.

Missive Written by Wife of Member of Flock Falls Into Hands of Treasurer and Preacher Vanishes.

Port Huron, Mich., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—At a hurriedly called meeting of the board of trustees of Ross Memorial Congregational church on Sunday the Rev. George D. Lyford, pastor, presented his resignation. This morning he vanished, leaving behind his wife, who is in a critical condition, and an infant child.

Two weeks ago Sunday the Rev. Mr. Lyford announced from the pulpit that he had lost a valuable letter, and he requested that any one finding it return it to him unread. A week ago the letter, inclosed in a large, plain envelope was placed in the contribution box. By some oversight the pastor neglected to abstract it and it fell into the hands of the treasurer. It was written by the wife of a prominent member of the congregation.

Officers will make no statement regarding its contents except that it showed that both the pastor and the woman had been "indiscreet."

Affirms Verdict Against Pastor.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Georgia Court of Appeals today affirmed the verdict of guilty in the case of the Rev. Walt Holcombe, son-in-law of the late Rev. Sam P. Jones, who was convicted at Cartersville, Ga., of using obscene language in the pulpit while there were women in the congregation. Holcombe was sentenced to pay a fine of $500 and costs by the lower court, and this sentence was affirmed.

THEATER TICKETS STOLEN AND THE HOUSE IS CLOSED.

Pittsburg Schoolboys Are Arrested Charged with Theft While in the Midst of Examinations.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Over 1,000 tickets have been stolen from the Annex Family theater on Fifth avenue here, and the house was compelled to close its doors until the police can locate the source of tickets which have been sold on the outside.

Three boys, each of good family, already have been placed under arrest charged with aiding in the theft. The police say they will arrest more boys tomorrow. Harry Cohen, aged 13; Harry Gardner, aged 14; and Harry Myers, aged 15, are already under bonds.

The arrests of Gardner and Myers today almost caused a panic in the Forbes school, where the lads are members of the high school classes and were in the midst of examination.

One theatrical manager declared tonight that more than $200 per day was being lost now by theaters in Pittsburg through stolen tickets.

Woman Who Was Wounded in Hotel.

MRS OLLETTA WALDRIDGE

TRAPPED BY SHOT IN HOTEL

R. A. King Wounds Woman Accidentally and Is Arrested.

WANTED AT SPRINGFIELD.

Mrs. Olletta Waldridge Goes to Cleveland to Avoid Notoriety.

The mystery surrounding the shooting of a woman in the Imperial hotel, 250 State street, on Saturday, was cleared last night after the arrest of Robert A. King, former grain elevator owner at Lanesville, Ill. The woman is Mrs. Olletta Waldridge of Springfield, Ill. She was shot in the neck by King, accidentally, he says.

King is under indictment at Springfield on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses in connection with a real estate deal. He disappeared from the capital city about four months ago.

The couple, it is said, had been living at the Imperial hotel for several weeks, and according to the information given out by the police and manager of the hotel disappeared immediately after the shooting.

King was found later in his room and, after asserting that his companion had gone to Cleveland, declared that he had shot her accidentally while handling a rusty revolver.

King Explains Shooting.

This is the way King, who is a grain dealer, explains the shooting which for two days mystified the police and caused a search for the man's companion:

"Mrs. Waldridge was unpacking furs from the bottom of a trunk," he explained. "Among the furs was an old revolver of small caliber which was rusty. She handed me the weapon, and as I tried to take the cylinder out it was discharged accidentally, the bullet striking Mrs. Waldridge in the back of the head. She recovered quickly, and after a physician was called she was well enough to go to Cleveland."

Goes to Escape Notoriety.

"Why did she go to Cleveland?" he was asked.

"To escape the notoriety we feared would follow the shooting," he answered.

King admitted having a wife in Flagstaff, Ariz., and the publicity given the shooting resulted in a Springfield lawyer starting to gather evidence for a divorce.

"I tried to keep Mrs. Waldridge's name secret," said King, "but was unable to do so. She is what you might call my 'affinity'."

Mrs. Waldridge was cashier in a Springfield restaurant until a few years ago, when she eloped with the proprietor, Charles Greider. They went to Seattle and later she returned to Springfield without Greider. Since then she has lived in Chicago, St. Louis, and Cleveland. She left Springfield at about the same time as did King.

NIGHT RIDER INQUIRY IS BEGUN.

Tennessee Judge Demands That New Jury Seek All Evidence of Crime in Recent Raids.

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 26.—Judge Joseph E. Jones today convened his court in special session for the purpose of investigating the recent night rider outrages in the Reelfoot lake vicinity. Some time was taken in selecting a grand jury.

Judge Jones delivered a strong special charge. He declared that he had not impaneled the jury for the purpose of investigating any character of crimes except those specified in the charge. He was visibly affected while referring specifically and in detail to the murder of Capt. Rankin.

There was a slight undercurrent of applause at the conclusion of the charge. The court stated that no trials would be held for the present.

BALK BY VICTIMS OF WATER FAMINE

Residents of Brainerd Refuse to Pay City's Bills Because of Poor Service.

WANT COURT TO DECIDE.

Declare Favor Is Shown to Beverly Club Outside the Corporate Limits.

Just why the Beverly Country club, which is outside the city, should be favored in its water supply, while the residents of Brainerd, which is within the corporate limits, were compelled to go "dry" throughout the most of the summer is something the residents of Brainerd want explained. Their grievance was revealed yesterday by the following "ad," which was placed in THE TRIBUNE'S "personal" column by Mrs. George V. Lighthall:

PERSONAL—ALL PERSONS NOT HAVING had the use of sufficient water from the city, particularly the Thirty-second ward, address 8800 Loomis-st.

Mrs. Lighthall, who lives at the address given, explained that her purpose was to unite the residents of the suburb in a demand for relief.

"The Beverly Country club, which is at Western avenue and Eighty-seventh street, and outside the city limits, was organized last November," she said. "To get city water an agreement was made with the council by which the club paid $3,000 for having the water piped to the clubhouse, with the understanding that if the club used $300 worth of water through its meter every year the $3,000 was to be rebated.

Source of Supply Shifted.

"The main was laid through the Sherman farm, which would be West Eighty-seventh street if the street was extended. The water supply of Brainerd, which used to come through the Ninety-fifth street main, was shifted to come through the Roseland main, and the Country club had its supply delivered through the former main.

"All through last summer the Country club received all the water it wanted with a pressure of seventy-five pounds while we property holders of Brainerd, who pay a water tax, could not get water above the first floor. I know this because we have several houses and the tenants complained. And the water to the club had to be forced over a thirty foot rise of ground, too.

"During the summer a number of property holders joined together to see what could be done in the matter. We went to the fire department, the board of health, and nearly every department in the city hall for relief, but could get no satisfaction.

Will Carry Protest to Court.

"We have to pay our water tax in advance, from May to November, and when the water department tried to collect a small amount which it was claimed we owed, I refused to pay on the ground that we had received practically no service during the summer and I concluded to take the matter into the courts. At times last summer we could get no water until after midnight. I have not yet decided just what sort of suit I shall bring, but will consult my attorney tomorrow. What we most want is a thorough investigation. Ald. Badenoch, who is a member of the country club, and Ald. Fisher sold us out body and soul, and when Mr. Fisher comes up for reelection next spring he will learn what the residents of the Thirty-second ward think of his action."

Mrs. Lighthall said she would file her suit in Judge Lantry's court either today or tomorrow.

RATE CASE AT MILWAUKEE BROAD IN ITS INFLUENCE.

Commerce Commission Asked to Force Reduction of Rock Island Freight on Grains.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—One of the most important railroad rate cases ever instituted began before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Harland today. It is the case of the Milwaukee chamber of commerce against the Rock Island road.

The chamber of commerce charges that the railroads in the territory embracing Iowa the Dakotas, and Minnesota show discrimination in favor of Chicago as against Milwaukee. The Milwaukee and Northwestern roads, included in the original complaint, have equalized their rates, but the Rock Island refuses to make any change on the ground that its lines do not touch this city.

The importance of the case is great. If the interstate commerce commission finds against the Rock Island any road can be forced to make rates to points which it does not touch. The case is expected to lead up to a final test of the powers of the interstate commerce commission under the Hepburn law.

It now costs 3 cents more per 100 pounds to ship grain from the states affected to Milwaukee than to Chicago, although Milwaukee is nearer the shippers. Milwaukee's grain trade, it is charged, is practically destroyed by this discrimination.

NEW ILLINOIS RIFLE RANGE.

Contracts Are to Be Let Soon for Construction Work in the Vicinity of Peoria.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Contracts will be let soon by the state of Illinois for the construction of a rifle range at Pottstown, near Peoria, work to be finished by next spring. Militiamen from the northern part of the state will practice at Pottstown instead of coming to Springfield each year. In order to secure the site selected it was necessary to dam and turn aside a large creek, and the concrete work already has been begun.

SLAPS WIFE TO PROVE LOVE

Hans von Pauel Says It Was Only to Give Ground for Divorce.

TELLS OF GREAT AFFECTION.

Turns Over His Earnings to Her and She Allows Him Carfare.

"If it is cruelty to love a woman too much, then I was cruel to my wife."

That was the declaration made to the police last night by Hans Von Pauel after his arrest on a charge of assault. Von Pauel is an architect and is said to be a member of a wealthy family in Berlin, Germany.

While accompanying his wife to the office of her guardian, John A. Hinsey, in the Railway Exchange building, he slapped her face. Her cries attracted the attention of Sergeant Timothy Murphy, secretary to Inspector Wheeler, who was in the building at the time, and Von Pauel was placed under arrest.

When Mrs. Von Pauel was questioned she said she desired to get a divorce from her husband on the ground of ill treatment of her and of her brother, William Ray, 12 years old, a cripple. She said her husband was addicted to the use of intoxicants and on several occasions had been cruel to her and her crippled brother.

Woman Asks Police Protection.

Before they reached the Railway Exchange building she called upon a policeman at State and Adams streets to accompany them to the office of her guardian, because she was afraid of her husband.

Von Pauel, who is 28 years old, said his wife had broken every promise she ever had made to him.

"My wife deserted me on Oct. 13, after I had been ill with brain fever," he said. "On the same day one year ago her mother died. As we gathered around her deathbed my mother-in-law, whom I loved as much as I did my own mother, joined our hands together and made us each promise that neither would leave the other as long as we lived. I have kept my promise but my wife has not."

Von Pauel declared he was not a drinking man and never had struck his wife before. He said he always had given her all the money he earned and that she gave him carfare out of it.

Blames His Wife's Guardian.

"Hinsey is the cause of it all," Van Pauel added. "He has known my wife since she was a little child, and has more influence over her than any one else in the world.

"I met my wife by accident yesterday in the street, and asked her why she had deserted me and taken everything with her, including the furniture in our home at 1119 Racine court, while I was sick in my brother's house. She said she wanted to get a divorce from me, but that her lawyer told her she could not obtain one unless I had been cruel to her or there was some other good reason.

"I became angry when she called a policeman at State and Adams streets because it placed me in a humiliating position, and when we were going up in the elevator at the Railway Exchange building I struck her so that she would have grounds to obtain a divorce from me."

JURY "FIXED"; COST ONLY $12.

Four Arrests at Laporte Follow Exposure of Bribery—"Bought" Wife Is the Cause.

Laporte, Ind., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—For $12 Gust and George Stevens secured a disagreement by the jury which heard the case of Steve Jaunovitsch against four Stevens brothers for alienation of the affections of the plaintiff's wife.

The Stevens brothers were arrested for jury bribing and William Blakeman, former city policeman, and William Bell, bartender, on a charge of accepting a bribe. Blakeman was a member of the jury, while Bell is alleged to have acted as the go between. For his services Bell is said to have accepted $2 and Blakeman $10.

In January, 1907, Dora Stevens was married to Steve Jaunovitsch, the latter having paid the bride's father $600 for her. The marriage took place at Oak Park, Ill. A few weeks later the bride returned to her mother's home and the husband claims he was forced to pay $600 more to Mrs. Stevens.

MORSE AND CURTIS SLAP EACH OTHER

Loans and Overdrafts After Hours in New York Bank of North America.

ON WILDCAT SECURITY.

Prosecution Rests in Court and Defense Prepares to Explain Deficits of Six Figures.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—District Attorney Stimson today rested the government's case against Charles W. Morse, the ice man, and Alfred H. Curtis, Morse's president of the wrecked National Bank of North America. The presentation of the defense's case will begin tomorrow morning after Wallace McFarlan for the defense has argued motions in the interests of his clients. These motions are technicalities whereon to base future appeals in case the jury finds against the defendants.

William F. Havemeyer, Charles M. Schwab, John W. Gates, and William A. Nash had all been on the stand before the government's case was finished, besides other witnesses.

Vice President W. W. Lee testified that President Curtis came out of Morse's room on Oct. 16, 1907, when Morse's overdraft was $190,000 and he owned the bank $500,000, exclaiming:

"Well, I've just told Morse that he has busted the bank."

President William A. Nash of the Corn Exchange bank testified that he had sent for Morse and Curtis. He did so as an officer of the Clearing House association. Each had pointed his hand at the other with a shrug. Nash had made inquiries about the National Bank of North America.

Bank All Right if Morse Was.

When Nash had separated them, Curtis had told him the bank was all right "if Morse was all right."

The courtroom had also had a laugh at Mr. Olcott, who sought to get a witness to say that there was plenty of Morse collateral in the bank on that fateful October day. The witness, seemingly agreeable, said that there was a quantity of it—whereupon Mr. Olcott asked with surprised and hurt incredulity if the witness meant to signify quantity in distinction from quality. The witness unfeelingly replied that was exactly what he meant. This referred to collateral for the late afternoon $211,000 loan which Morse secured to support his $210,000 overdraft.

Cashier Wire of the bank told of an application by Otto Heinze & Co. on Oct. 14 for a loan of $126,000. The Heinzes' attempt to corner United Copper was one of the causes precipitating the panic. Wire refused to make this loan and referred it to Curtis. F. Augustus Heinze, Otto's brother, went into Morse's room a little later, Wire said, and next day Morse's check for $126,000 drawn to Heinze came to Wire for payment. Morse's balance at the time was between $3,000 and $4,000.

Money to Cover Overdrafts.

On cross examination the defense sought to show that Morse's borrowing of money after hours to cover overdrafts allowed during the day was customary practice and that he always had a considerable amount of collateral in the bank. It was at this time that Wire made his distinction between quantity and quality.

Figures on sheets were identified showing that Morse's average balance for three months prior to the collapse of the bank was $47,300 at the time his borrowings were in the large figures previously recited in the testimony of the trial. Mr. Olcott for some reason made the interesting interjection at this time that "there never would have been an investigation in this case if there had not been a panic in the street," and for one reason everybody just then laughed.

William F. Havemeyer, who was seventeen years a director of the bank and succeeded Curtis as president until the bank went into a receiver's hands, testified to having called a meeting of the directors at his home on Oct. 17, 1907, which was attended by J. H. Flagler, Morse, Curtis, Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, and himself.

Morse's Refusal to Explain.

At that meeting Mr. Havemeyer asked Morse to explain his loans and Morse refused to do so. Curtis said at the meeting that he had made the large loan to Morse, that Morse had overdrawn his account, and that the loan was to cover the overdraft.

Objections to the collateral were made, Mr. Havemeyer said, and Curtis told the meeting that he had "got out of Morse all he could—all that Morse had." The directors were indignant. They refused to approve the loan.

The defense asked Mr. Havemeyer if when the reserve was away down he had made an individual loan to himself as director of $5,000. Mr. Havemeyer said that he had not done so.

Only one question was put to Mr. Schwab: "Did you as a director ever hear of any custom in the bank of allowing Mr. Morse to overdraw his account?"

The answer was, "No."

The same question to Mr. Gates brought the same answer. Speaking of Mr. Gates' letter to Controller Ridgely brought out in evidence last week, Mr. Gates said that Charles T. Barney, rather than he, had dictated that letter, although he—Mr. Gates—had signed it.

Deny Morse's Overdraft Custom.

Justice O'Brien, like his co-directors, Schwab, Gates, and Havemeyer, had never heard of any custom of the bank allowing Morse regularly to overdraw his account and make good by subsequent loans.

O'Brien said that in company with Messrs. Havemeyer and Flagler he had gone over all the assets and securities of the bank in June prior to his departure for Europe. He had told Morse and Curtis, after that examination, that it was their duty to get in more cash and not increase the loans.

Morse had replied that he would try to get $2,000,000 cash. This was to come from the Knickerbocker Trust company and the Trust Company of America and was to be in place of the Bank of North America loans, which those institutions were to take over and pay cash to the bank. The justice had told Curtis that this ought to be done and that if it was done the "bank would be all right."

Justice O'Brien volunteered before quitting the stand that he had never borrowed a dollar from the bank, never had been interested in fee, and never had been in any syndicate which took loans from the bank.

WOMEN AWAIT LEWIS IN VAIN

Colonel Breaks Date and Hurts Reputation for Gallantry.

SUSPECTED OF FALSE TALE.

Englewood Club Listens to Speaker Without Pink Whiskers.

James Hamilton Lewis, the courtliest product of Illinois democracy, is "in bad" with about 500 south side clubwomen. The clubwomen are inclined to think it's funny. Col. Lewis is "out of town". Just where he is—but that comes later in the story.

It happened this way: The colonel was on the program of the Englewood Woman's club yesterday afternoon for an address. The occasion was looked forward to, as the colonel might say, with anticipation of the most delightful, not to say absorbing, nature. For, since his recent remarks about the truth-telling powers of womankind Col. Lewis' name, as it happened, has not appeared on any of the local woman's club programs.

Every chair in the Englewood Masonic hall was filled when the meeting was called to order at 3 o'clock. When the speaker of the afternoon was announced it was not Col. Lewis. A murmur of surprise went through the hall. Mrs. Freeman E. Brown, president of the club, announced that the colonel had telegraphed his regrets at being unable to be present. There was another murmur and then the program proceeded on the even tenor of its way.

In Town Till 4 O'Clock.

Late in the afternoon a reporter who wanted an interview called up Col. Lewis' office.

"The colonel is out of town," came the reply. "Yes, he left at 4 o'clock. He'll be back the first thing in the morning, though. Where? Why, he's out west of the city somewhere. No. I don't think you could get him by phone. I—er—don't know just where he is. But he'll be in in the morning. Call around then."

So Mrs. Brown was appealed to.

"Col. Lewis?" she said, "No, he disappointed us this afternoon. When I got back from the state federation meeting last Saturday I found a telegram from him in his usual flowery style saying that he had been called away unexpectedly to accompany his wife to the south, and couldn't get back in time for the meeting.

That Inherent Lack of Veracity.

"We were so disappointed—— What's that? Left at 4 o'clock this afternoon? West of the city? Why, he said—— H'm! Well, I think he's been making political speeches, don't you? Just what was it"—this more sweetly—"the colonel said about women, do you remember? Something about 'the inherent lack of veracity in the feminine witness'?"

MAN KILLED BY AN ELEVATOR.

Joseph Beboubiee's Death the Third in Five Years Caused by Lifts in the Lessing Apartment Building.

For the third time in five years a fatal elevator accident occurred yesterday in the fashionable Lessing apartment building at Evanston avenue and Surf street. Joseph Beboubiee, a plumber's helper, was crushed to death. His wife did not learn of his death, until she reported for work several hours later at the city hall, where she is employed as a scrubwoman.

Beboubiee was 38 years old. He came to this country four years ago from Belgium. He lived in a house which he recently purchased at 4119 Francisco avenue.

Five years ago John Fister, 15 years old, an elevator operator, was crushed to death in the building. Four years ago Albert Husser, 18 years old, also an elevator operator, was killed.

W. C. T. U. FOR FULL EQUALITY

Suffrage and Uniform Moral Standards Are Demanded.

"WHITE SLAVE" TRADE HIT.

Day Before Election Set to Pray for Prohibition.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 26.—In the thirty-fifth annual convention the W. C. T. U. today adopted resolutions declaring that prohibition is the only means of effectually wiping out the traffic in intoxicating liquors and demanding a prohibition constitutional amendment providing therefor. A continuation of agitation to secure the enactment of laws that will give "to women equal suffrage with men" is provided.

The resolution further insists upon an equal standard of morals for men and women and deplores the existence of the so-called "white slave" traffic as well as the system known as "segregation and fining of vice."

Demand is made that those who rent property for vicious uses be ostracized by society as well as punished by law.

For the Littlefield Bill.

Regret is expressed for "the continual inaction by congress on the Littlefield bill," which was designed to protect prohibition territory against the encroachment of the liquor traffic through interstate commerce.

The legislatures of the various states are asked to memorialize congress to secure prohibition for the District of Columbia. Demands are made for a national committee to investigate the effects of the liquor traffic upon the moral and industrial affairs of the nation and for an amendment to the federal constitution prohibiting polygamy in all sections under the jurisdiction of the United States.

The resolutions protest against the use of the flag as an emblem by the Personal Liberty league because this league "stands for the saloon," and advocates the reading of the bible without comment in the public schools, indorses the Juvenile court, and criticises the license system in the Panama zone.

Campaigns in Nineteen States.

In her report on franchises Miss Maude McIlvain Sanders of Colorado states that nineteen states are planning a suffrage campaign for the coming year. The most encouraging reports, she said, are coming from California, Ohio, Nebraska, Maine, New Jersey, and West Virginia.

Miss Lilla Sewall of Massachusetts, superintendent of the National Flower mission, reported that during the year 1,537,737 bouquets have been distributed.

Other reports covered the departments of legislation, organization, peace, and arbitration.

By resolution Monday, Nov. 2, was named as a day of special thanksgiving for the victories of the past and earnest prayers for the success of prohibition on Nov. 3.

STEFFENS ONLY A SPLASH, SAYS THE BOSTON W. C. T. U.

Capable of Much Noise, It Is Asserted by Resolution, but Doomed to Early Oblivion.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—"Lincoln Steffens is only a momentary and soon to be forgotten splash in the puddle of reform."

This was the gist of a resolution adopted by the W. C. T. U. today. It contained the annual message of the president, who discussed the different reform movements of the country under a separate head. Her findings concluded with the declaration that the temperance cause was the one great needed reform. This was agreed to unanimously.

The W. C. T. U. president, Mrs. R. M. White, explained afterward that she did not mean to take a particular slap at Mr. Steffens.

"It is only," she said, "that his work amounts to nothing. He has caused a great talk and noise, but, as we see it, he has accomplished nothing. Truly, he is but a splash in the puddle. He will be forgotten before the reforms he advocates are even seriously considered by serious minded people."

INSURANCE POLICY BRINGS CRITICISM

New York Official Attacks the Management of Provident Savings Life.

POWDER QUIZ ON AGAIN.

Witness Tells of Awarding Contracts and Fixing Special Prices.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, Oct. 26.

Insurance Examiner Prods Management.

Nelson B. Hadley, an examiner in the state insurance department, who recently made an examination of the Provident Savings Life Assurance society of New York, criticises "the extravagant management of the so-called Philadelphia syndicate," which until recently had control of this company. Mr. Hadley's report was made public tonight by Supt. Kelsey. Referring to the old management the report says:

"Their own testimony shows that their only object was private gain, regardless of the interests of the policy holders. The voting and paying of a salary at the rate of $18,000 a year to the vice president is another case where there cannot be too severe criticism of the motives which actuated this management and is but the natural sequence where unscrupulous persons secured the management of the funds of a life insurance company.

"The present management of the company has, so far as I am able to judge from their actions since obtaining control, been working for the best interests of the policy holders."

The report shows that the impairment in the company's capital had been reduced from $418,601 to about $270,000, and the surplus increased from $154,328 to about $300,000.

Justice Truax of the Supreme court signed today an order awarding $60 a week temporary alimony to Mrs. Dorothy Burns, who is being sued by Owen Burns for divorce. Burns accuses his wife of undue intimacy with other men. She blames all her troubles on her mother-in-law.

Powder Trust Methods Given Another Quiz.

It is likely that the hearings in the government's suit against the so-called powder trust which have been in progress in this city will be transferred to Wilmington, Del., if not tomorrow, then at the end of the present week. The hearing was resumed today where it was interrupted by adjournment last week, and Robert S. Waddell, formerly general sales agent for the associated powder companies, was recalled to the stand. Mr. Waddell said he had a part in awarding many contracts and fixing special prices to certain of their companies.

Waddell said that whereas the price of blasting powder in Illinois had been $1.35 a keg, immediately after the building of his mills was commenced all the associated powder companies reduced blasting powder to $1.10 flat price in that district that would be reached by his mills.

"Spies and detectives were sent inside my mills to create dissension among the employes," said Waddell.

In reply to a question by Judge Scarlett if he had lost any contracts from the actions of the associated powder companies the witness said he lost a contract that he had with the Deering Coal company of Chicago.

Roosevelt Satisfies Methodists.

The Methodist Preachers' association of this city today received President Roosevelt's reply to a letter of inquiry they sent him last week regarding charges brought to their attention anonymously, and considered by them in secret session last week, against Gov. Regis R. Post of Porto Rico. It was alleged in these charges that the governor was hostile to church people.

President Roosevelt in his letter told the ministers that the charges referred to an incident of fifteen months ago, but that they were investigated thoroughly at the time by the committee on foreign affairs of the senate and by them pronounced baseless before the appointment of Mr. Post to his present position was confirmed by the senate.

Dr. J. Wesley Johnston, who read the letter at today's meeting, would not give it out in full for publication without the president's permission, for which, he said, he would telegraph to Washington later in the day. He characterized the revival of the story at this time as having the earmarks of a political conspiracy.

Will Forgery Charged by Witness.

Declaring the signature in a will disposing of about $1,000,000 a forgery, the will being that of Ambrose Burbank, who died in 1904, Dr. Albert H. Hamilton of Auburn, N. Y., a handwriting expert, created a sensation in the suit against Caleb H. Burbank, a nephew of the testator, during the trial here today. The nephew is executor of the estate and was named residuary legatee in addition to receiving a direct bequest of $600,000. His counsel, after eliciting a statement that Ambrose Burbank had been in a habit of using both hands in writing, presented the will to the witness and asked with which hand the signature on it had been written.

"With neither of Mr. Burbank's," was his reply. "That signature is a forgery."

HAINES PLEAD NOT GUILTY

Peter C. Also Claims He Was Insane When Annis Was Shot.

MORE LETTERS GIVEN OUT.

Slayer's Wife Accused of Having Sent Incriminating Notes.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Capt. Peter C. Haines and his brother, Thornton Jenkins Haines, were arraigned at Flushing, L. I., today on a charge of having murdered William E. Annis. T. Jenkins Haines entered a plea of not guilty, while Capt. Haines made the same plea on the ground that he was insane at the time the act was committed.

Lawyer McIntyre for the Haineses had with him a copy of a letter alleged to have been written by Mrs. Peter C. Haines to William E. Annis on June 1 last, which McIntyre declared had much to do with driving Capt. Haines crazy and causing him to shoot Annis.

The letter is said to have been written the day after Mrs. Haines signed a confession which she declares was forced upon her. Only part of the letter was made public, which was as follows:

"Dear Billy: Don't come over Monday morning. Everything is over between Peter and me. He has found out everything. I am going to Boston. Will send you my address. I want to see you. I am almost crazy. Good-by. CLAUDIA."

Seeks an Early Trial.

The letter is said to have been addressed to Annis at his place of business, 4 West Twenty-second street.

District Attorney Darrin said he would go before Justice Aspinall Monday afternoon and ask him to set the trial for Nov. 9. Counsel for the defense will protest against proceeding with the trial of either brother. It is generally believed the trial will not take place until long after Mr. Darrin goes out of office on Jan. 1 next.

Lawyer Shay made public today parts of a letter said to have been written by Mrs. Haines to her husband while he was at San Francisco and was ready to go aboard an army transport for the Philippines. The defense declares that this letter from his wife first aroused Capt. Haines' suspicion that something was wrong and caused him to return home at once.

Letter Which Started Row.

The letter said:

"My Dearest Husband: I said I would like to go automobiling today, and she (referring to a woman friend) said she didn't see why I shouldn't with two in the family, joking about Billy. I told her I couldn't use his automobile all the time, as Mrs. Annis should have it some of the time.

"There is some scandal afloat about —— and myself. We don't know what it is, but think Mrs. —— is at the bottom of it. He used to bring eggs or ask me over, or little things like that. He didn't knock, but whistled. Mrs. K. had heard it up the shore road. 'Ain't it awful, Mabel,' see what a mess I'm in. Last night we made Mrs. —— come home with us. I seem to breed trouble. 'I don't care.' Your loving wife, CLAUDIA."

Mr. Shay said that the names omitted from the letter were those of friends of the family, and declared Mrs. Haines worked up the fiction about the man referred to to hide the alleged real affair with Annis.

SEEKS TO RECOVER MONEY INVESTED IN A BOOM TOWN.

Herbert J. Fisher Says He Was Induced by False Representations to Buy Property at Chicago Highlands.

Failure of a boom town caused Herbert J. Fisher to bring suit yesterday to recover $3,000 from the Chicago Title and Trust company, H. W. Ostrander, Edward Hackett, and other Chicagoans.

Fisher said he invested $3,000 after he had been informed that lots in Chicago Highlands were worth $810 apiece, that $300,000 was being spent in grading streets and laying sewers and water mains, that every street was sixty feet wide, that a factory employing 400 men was in operation, that plans was concluded to bring a $1,000,000 car coupling plant to Chicago Highlands, that many houses were being built and people living in tents because they could rent no places.

After investing his $3,000, according to the bill, Fisher found none of these representations are true.

PHOTOS TELL CHURCH HISTORY

Exhibition of Views Taken Years Ago the Principal Feature of Moody Memorial Program.

Early days in Chicago were recalled to old members of the Moody church last evening by a series of stereopticon pictures dating back to the sixties. Included in the series were pictures of the various structures which have been used by the church from the time it was founded by Dwight L. Moody to the present day.

Hundreds of aged men and women who knew the great evangelist whose name the church bears, but now living in various parts of the United States, were present at the service.

During the day there were five meetings at the church. The first was at 6:15 in the morning. Then there was a noonday prayer, a children's meeting at 4 o'clock, the open air meeting, and the evening meeting.

Order from Postoffice Department Is a Direct Result of Cut by Burlington.

A million dollars a year in revenue will be lost to the railroads that are engaged in the transportation of United States mail, as the result of a new order governing the method of calculating the compensation to be paid the roads, which has just been issued by the postoffice department.

It was announced yesterday that Joseph Stewart, second assistant postmaster general, has issued a notification to the New York Central and the Lake Shore roads, that the rates for carrying the mails between Chicago and New York will be hereafter based upon the short line mileage between the cities. As the Lake Shore-New York Central route is some thirty or forty miles longer than that of the Pennsylvania's fastest trains, which run 905 miles, the compensation paid to the New York Central lines will be reduced $55,000 a year, or the contract for handling the mail will be turned over to the Pennsylvania. The latter now handles much of the mail from the south, while the Lake Shore gets that from Chicago and the north.

The reduction applies over the four year period for which the contract was made, and is retroactive from the date of the contract, July 1, 1907, so the loss to the roads will amount to $220,000.

Result of Burlington's Cut.

The order of the postoffice official is the direct result of the action taken by the Burlington a year and a half ago, when that road, in order to prevent the Rock Island from getting the contract for the Omaha and Denver mails by reason of its slightly shorter mileage, voluntarily cut the rates and received the mail contract by equalizing the rate on the basis of the Rock Island mileage.

The postoffice department has now announced, as was predicted by the Burlington's competitors last year, that the principle of equalizing rates according to the short line mileage will be adopted hereafter, and that a road having a contract will be obliged to accept the rates on that basis or give up the mail business to its competitor. While the New York-Chicago route is the only one to which the order has yet been applied, it is stated that the first order is merely preliminary to a general reduction of rates in this regard, and will gradually be applied on other routes where the road having the contract has a slightly longer route.

Those who criticised the Burlington last year are now inclined to indulge in a few "I told you so" expressions, more especially as the latter road probably will soon have a dose of its own medicine in the case of the Kansas City mail, in competition with the Santa Fé. The Burlington now has the mail contract between Chicago and Kansas City, while the Santa Fé has the shortest route. When the new principle announced by the postoffice in the case of the New York mail is applied to the others it is declared that the Burlington will have to again reduce its rates or lose the business.

Hearing on Phosphate Rock Rates.

The question of the reasonableness or unreasonableness of the rates on phosphate rock from Mount Pleasant and Centerville, Tenn., to Chicago, Indianapolis, Columbus, Buffalo, and other places where fertilizers are manufactured north of the Ohio river, was the subject of a hearing before Interstate Commerce Commissioner Prouty yesterday.

The petition of the complainants, Darling & Co. of Chicago and four other fertilizer companies in various cities, against thirty-eight railroads, states that the rates on phosphate rock, which were already excessive and unreasonable for a product of low value, were raised on Nov. 16, 1907, and again in July, 1908, until they are now much greater in proportion to the distance than the rates to the southern fertilizer companies. The commission is asked to make considerable reductions in the rates charged by the defendant railroads, and further to refund to them $3,365.63, the amount of the excess over the previous rates already collected from the shippers.

The defense of the railroads was that they had originally made low rates on phosphate at the request of the great packing companies, who are interested in the fertilizer business as a by-product of the waste from the meat, in order to develop the fertilizer business in the north, in competition with that in the south, and that after the business had reached a considerable proportion they had put the rates up again.

Passenger officials of the western roads held a meeting yesterday, to decide on the rates for the Omaha corn exposition, which is to be held on Dec. 18 and 19. Application has been made for a fare and a half for the round trip. The proposition was referred to a vote, and it is stated that it will undoubtedly be granted.

CUSTODIAN TELLS OF BRIBE PAID BY EDWARD RHODUS.

Chester Meyers a Witness Before Judge Mack in Hearing of John C. Fetzer's Application for a Receivership.

Judge Mack listened to testimony and argument yesterday in the suit brought by John C. Fetzer to have a receiver appointed for the Mercantile Finance company, one of the concerns formerly operated by the Rhodus brothers.

Chester C. Meyers, employed as custodian of the vault in the Rhodus brothers' former offices, testified concerning the attempt to bribe him. Edward Rhodus, he said, offered him $50 and $100 at different times.

"I told my employers about it," he said, "and they told me to take the money if it was offered again. When Rhodus came to the office again I took the $100 and he opened the vault. I said: 'This is a pretty big bill. People might get suspicious if I tried to change it.' He then gave me two fifties, which he stripped from a roll that I believe contained several thousand dollars."

After argument the hearing was postponed till tomorrow.

FIRES AS WOOD PULP'S FOE.

Minnesotans Suggest Prevention to Help the Paper Supply.

SAY CUTTING DOES GOOD.

Mann Committee Told Extinction Is an Alarmist Dream.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Favorable prospects for the future of spruce, wood pulp, and the paper supply, conditioned on reasonable precautions, sums up the testimony today before the congressional committee of inquiry.

Forest fires were brought to the fore as an element of menace, and strong confirmation was given the views of federal officials that an ounce of forest fire preventive is worth a pound of cure.

Congressman J. R. Mann, W. H. Ryan, and party heard the testimony of local experts. This evening the committee of inquiry departed for Chicago.

The investigators have been in northern Minnesota for ten days and reached here today.

Frederick W. Weyerhaeuser, a leader in the lumber industry, proved an instructive witness. He thought predictions of deforestation to the extinction of spruce and other timber largely the utterances of alarmists.

Argues for the Preventive Ounce.

Asked about the best way to conserve the forests he said the main thing is to prevent fires.

"The only way to prevent fires," he added, "is to cut out standing timber."

Mr. Weyerhaeuser was asked if he thought the individual owners of forest lands should not attempt some form of fire protection. His reply was that the state should look after the prevention of fires and the reforestation of cut over or burned over lands.

"It takes 200 years to raise full grown pine trees," he said, "and the owners of pine lands are taxed on the land and taxed on the timber and we can't pay for our timber too often. We have paid as high as $160 to $200 taxes on forty acre tracts. The taxes are governed largely by local people.

High Taxes on Timber Lands.

He said his company paid school taxes in one district where there were but two pupils to attend the public schools. They had to build a school and hire a teacher, and altogether it would have been cheaper to have sent the two pupils to Chicago and boarded them at one of the best hotels while they were getting their education.

He told of his travles in Germany and France and of his observation in those countries of the methods of forest conservation. He said he was riding through a forest in Germany, and looking out of the car window he readily imagined that he was in Minnesota. This was to illustrate a point that notwithstanding the age of the country and the time they had been cutting timber, there was still much virgin pine, the result of a proper reforestation. He thought the American people should make some provision for the protection of the forests.

Enhanced Value of Spruce.

Referring again to spruce he said until recent years no one realized any necessity for taking care of the supply, or, indeed, thought spruce had any value.

The witness said there was an immense stock of timber in the far west and there was where it would come from in the future.

Gen. C. C. Andrews, member of the Minnesota forestry commission, told of the state's methods of reforesting. He said that on one tract of state land the forestry board had planted 230 acres of spruce with 500,000 seedling trees. They were now from 2 to 3 years old. The Norway spruce had been raised from seed in the nursery and had been doing well.

Describes Sales of State Land.

Gen. Andrews explained the state's method of disposing of its timber land and said the state auditor advertised it for sale as soon as he found he could get a good price for it. He said he did not suppose that a twentieth part of the 2,500,000 acres of state forest lands had been cut over. He estimated a total of 5,588,000 cords of spruce in the state.

The committee examined representatives of the grocers and butchers' associations on the wrapping paper feature of the inquiry.

BAR LADY CURZON'S LETTER IN SUIT INVOLVING LEITER.

Missive Addressed to Hugh Crabbe Expresses Uncertainty Regarding Receipt of Full Income from Big Estate.

An attempt to introduce into evidence a letter from the late Lady Curzon, formerly Mary Leiter, in the suit brought by Hugh Crabbe against the Zeigler Coal company for $416 was blocked yesterday by Attorney Lawrence C. Miller, representing the coal company.

The letter was produced during the cross examination of W. J. Warr, successor to Crabbe as treasurer of the coal company. An effort was made to show that Crabbe and Warr had quarreled because the latter opened the letter from Lady Curzon which was addressed to Crabbe. The letter is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Crabbe: Considerable delay has been caused by the receipt of business letters from the estate because they have been sent to the Bank of England.

"One letter was opened by mistake. Profuse apologies ensued, but the bank, of course, was not to blame.

"May my money as usual be paid into the bank—but may all letters be sent to 1 Carlton House terrace, which is our permanent address—although we couldn't live there until I glean some information as to whether or not my full income is to be paid to me.

"I was glad to hear from Mr. Crane that you were well. It will be a pleasure to me to see you again some day, as I remember with gratitude your many years of faithful service to my beloved father. Yours sincerely,

"MARY CURZON."

Crabbe also showed two letters from Lord Curzon in which Crabbe's removal from his position with the coal company is regretted by the writer.

The case is being tried before Judge Eberhardt.

GERMS IN THE WATER MAINS.

Chemist Believes Recent Sewer Excavations in Maywood Caused the Present Epidemic of Typhoid Fever.

Recent excavations in Maywood for sewage purposes are believed by Prof. J. A. Long of Northwestern university to be the cause of the typhoid fever epidemic now spreading through the village.

In a recent analysis of the water in the mains disease germs were found, although that in the standpipes of the suburb is said to be pure.

It is the opinion of Prof. Long that a water main was broken at some point during the process of laying the sewer through the village, allowing germs to enter the pipes. On search a main was found that had been broken by the sewer laying machine.

The young man's father died last August and since that time the search for the son has been redoubled. Any one knowing anything of his whereabouts is requested to send the information to the mother at the New Haven address.

WATER TO FLOW ONCE MORE FROM WEST SIDE FOUNTAIN.

Turned Off Because a Teamster Drove Against It, Twisting Outlet, Causing Overflow That Flooded Basements.

The responsibility for the disabled condition of the public fountain erected by the Woman's Outdoor Art league at Blue Island avenue, Halsted, and Harrison streets probably never will be discovered. But the fountain will be put in a state of complete repair and the water turned on within two or three days.

With visions of receiving a call from indignant members of the league and of a demand for an explanation as to why the water was turned off over a month ago, Superintendent of Streets Doherty did not wait, but put the matter "up to" Supt. H. L. Lucas of the water pipe extension department.

Supt. Lucas admitted that his men had turned off the water, but laid the responsibility on the architects, Bell & Hermant, declaring that they had made the outlet pipe so small that the fountain overflowed into the street and flooded a nearby basement. Carl Bell, the designer of the fountain, declared that the outlet pipe, as originally put in, was ample, but that a careless teamster must have run full tilt into the fountain. The outlet pipe, he said, is twisted and the structure slightly twisted on its base.

DOCTOR SAVES MAN'S LIFE BY QUICK TRIP IN AN AUTO.

Speeds from Davis Street, Evanston, to Kenilworth in Eight Minutes to Electric Lineman Who Received Shock.

William Loebaka, an employe of the North Shore Electric company, lies in a critical condition at the Evanston hospital as the result of a shock received from a wire upon which he was working at Kenilworth yesterday afternoon. But for a record trip of Dr. John A. Kappelman to the side of the injured man from his office in Evanston Loebaka would now be dead.

Dr. Kappelman was at his office, Davis street and Sherman avenue, Evanston, when he received the call from Kenilworth. His automobile was in readiness and in eight minutes from the time he received the call he was working over the body of Loebaka.

Loebaka received the shock while making a joint in a live wire, Workmen who were with him state that he had removed his rubber gloves and was working barehanded at the time.

Loebaka was a member of the gang working with William Floyd last week when the latter was electrocuted at Greenwood boulevard and Sherman avenue, Evanston. That accident was caused by Floyd's removing his rubber gloves.

ISHAM RANDOLPH BACKS CANAL

Says Charges of Lumbermen's Association Are Without Fact or Foundation.

The charges of the Lumbermen's association in a recent circular that the sanitary district was being conducted on unbusinesslike lines and that the board of trustees of the sanitary district were not developing the drainage canal to its best and lawful purposes, were denied by Isham Randolph, former chief engineer of the board, at a meeting of the engineering committee yesterday.

Mr. Randolph branded the charges as without fact or foundation.

"The work of the trustees is being conducted along sane, safe, and business-like lines," said he, "and with proper support will develop the drainage canal into a ship canal."

TAFT IS QUOTED AS LABOR FRIEND

Ohioan's Opinion When Judge Used by Justices in Boston Case.

STRIKE FORCING FINE HIT

Supreme Court of Massachusetts Renders Decision Favoring Employers.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Supreme court of Massachusetts, in making permanent an injunction against several labor unions today, ruled that labor unions cannot impose fines on their members in order to force them to go out on a strike. Two justices dissented, quoting from an opinion rendered by W. H. Taft when on the bench in support of their contention.

The decision was rendered on a petition brought by L. D. Willcutt Sons & Co. of this city, asking for an injunction against the Bricklayers and Stone Masons' Benevolent unions, restraining them from imposing a fine of $100 each on two members of the union who had refused to go out on strike.

History of the Case.

The unions in 1906 issued a new set of rules for members employed by contractors and sent the new rules to a large number of firms in this city. The Willcutt company, fearing, as it claimed, that loss of money would follow its failure to complete certain work under these rules, closed up part of its work and discharged a number of men.

The unions then declared a strike on other work in which the company was engaged. Later on two labor leaders visited the work in which the company was engaged and found two union men still working. The labor leaders ordered them to cease under penalty of being fined $100 apiece. The Willcutt company obtained a temporary injunction against the unions to prevent the fines being imposed, and the decree today makes that injunction permanent.

A majority of the court held that the imposition of a fine is tantamount to intimidation and coercion, and, as against the employer, is unlawful, interfering with his right to a free market for labor.

Taft on Union's Rights.

Chief Justice Knowlton and Judge Sheldon took the view that the right of the employer to a free market for labor is subordinate to the right of the employés to strike, and to maintain the strike in a lawful manner, and held that the imposition of a fine being the only practical means by which the acknowledged rights of a union may be secured, is legal and justifiable.

Judge Sheldon quoted Judge Taft as follows:

"So Taft J in Thomas v Cincinnati, New Orleans and Pacific railway, 52 federal reporter, 803, after conceding the right to the employés of a receiver to organize themselves into a labor union which shall take action as to their terms of employment and to elect officers to represent them, says: 'The officers they appoint, if they choose to repose such authority in any one, may order them, on pain of expulsion from that union, peaceably to leave the employ of their employer because many of the terms of their employment are unsatisfactory.'"

Maj. Ray Resumes Work.

Maj. B. B. Ray, in charge of the paymaster's division of the department of the lakes, returned to his duties at his office in the federal building yesterday morning, following his fifty mile "hike" with Maj. Daniel Keleher of the same department. Maj. Keleher, however, was not at the army headquarters and it was said he had not withstood the "hike" as well as Maj. Ray and was still resting his legs.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY

New Drug, Poslam, Now Obtainable in Small Quantities.

Since its discovery one year ago the new drug, poslam, has successfully cured thousands of chronic cases of eczema and other distressing skin afflictions. Heretofore poslam has been dispensed solely for the benefit of eczema patients in large jars sufficient for a month's treatment. This was found to be an inconvenience to many thousands who use it for minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, acne, scaly scalp, complexion blemishes, itching feet, piles, etc., which require but a small quantity to cure. To overcome this, and in response to urgent appeals, the dispensers of poslam have been obliged to adopt, in addition to the regular two dollar packages, a special fifty cent size, which in future may be found on sale at The Central Drug Co., Economical Drug Co., drug department "The Fair" and Rothschild's and other leading drug stores in Chicago, or may be ordered direct from the Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 West 25th-st., New York City. In all eczema cases poslam stops itching with first application, and proceeds to heal immediately, chronic cases being cured in two weeks. In less serious skin troubles results are seen after an overnight application.

Samples for experimental purposes may still be had, free of charge, by writing to the laboratories for them.

Sore Throat Don'ts.

When the children have sore throat, don't blister their necks with lamp oil. Don't torture them with a foul smelling piece of fat meat, wrapped about the neck. Don't imagine there is medical virtue in an old sock or piece of red flannel. Don't believe in antiquated superstitions.

A sore throat is a serious matter and is not to be healed by such make-believe remedies. The use of such methods is simply putting the patient to needless torture. Use a little sore throat wisdom and give them TONSILINE and the throat will heal quickly.

HIGH PRESSURE PLANS DONE

Work on Water System Can Begin When Funds Are Available

START IN SPRING LIKELY.

Commissioner Hanberg Thinks Necessity for Action Urgent.

Work on a high pressure water system for the business section of Chicago will be started, in all probability, early in the spring.

Commissioner of Public Works John J. Hanberg announced yesterday that plans for the work are in such form as to permit actual construction as soon as the word is given to go ahead. The funds necessary, he said, must come from the bond bill, which will go before the legislature next winter, and which is regarded by him as having excellent chances of passing.

There is no necessity for holding up the work on account of the subway, according to Mr. Hanberg, although it is desirable that the streets on which subway work is to start be designated as soon as possible. As for waiting until the subway is finished, the risk to the city is thought to be too great and the resultant benefits too small to consider that proposition.

Matter of Utmost Importance.

"Next to the problem of relieving traffic congestion in the downtown streets, the high pressure system is the largest one faced by the city," said Mr. Hanberg.

"We are beginning to get over the lessons of the great fire, and this is regrettable. I don't want to croak, but I fear that unless we get such a system the city will have occasion to regret its delay.

"The system, when it is installed, must be placed upon firm foundations. It cannot be tied to the side of the subway nor fastened to anything else. The vibrations incident to high pressure make it imperative that the pipes rest solidly. Inasmuch as this is the case, it may as well be put down as soon as possible. Probably it would not have to be moved if a subway followed the same streets, but if a change were necessary, it would be no worse than changing gas mains or other utilities.

Whole City Would Benefit.

"The public benefit would be large. All parts of town would benefit, because fire engines and equipment now held downtown could be sent to give additional protection to the outlying districts, and the necessity for drawing engines from a wide territory when there is a downtown fire would be obviated.

"We are particularly fortunate as to power for the high pressure stations. They will be connected with the drainage board's power, that of the Commonwealth Edison company, and such other sources as are available, and the system will be so arranged that if one or two of the stations are out of service the pressure still will be maintained."

"The high pressure system is a new thing," said Thomas T. Johnston, engineer in charge of the subway work. "The pressure is obtained by centrifugal pumps, or by turbine engines. It runs as high as 400 pounds to the square inch, and by a valve system is reduced to 180 pounds at the nozzle. In New York we found this pressure a mile and a half from the pumps."

PRESIDENT ELIOT CONDEMNS HAZING OF COLLEGE SNOBS.

Harvard's Head Says Suggestion of Editor of Brooklyn Educational Review Is Repetition of Silly Advice.

In a recent lecture before the Hyde Park Woman's club Martin K. Andrews, editor of the Brooklyn Educational Review, advocated hazing for college "chaps" who conduct themselves arrogantly and feel too proud to associate with students who are poorer in purse than they.

This method of handling the college snob does not appeal to President Eliot of Harvard. In a letter to a former Chicago student received yesterday President Eliot says:

"The effect of hazing on the men who do it is always barbarizing. It is a mean and cowardly business, for almost invariably many attack one. It is an imitation in colleges of the barbarous treatment of newcomers which has long existed among sailors, soldiers, the practitioners of special arts or trades, and groups of workmen in many rough industries.

"The best way to improve a college snob is to laugh at him and to defeat his childish aspirations. Mr. Andrews' recommendation of hazing is as silly as his recommendation of a bed slat for recalcitrant fraternity members. Both these remedies are barbarous and ineffective and would be degrading to the people who should use them.

"I am happy to say that hazing has been abandoned by the students at Harvard. To accomplish this object has taken many years, but the moral gain is great."

WOMEN JUMP OUT WINDOWS WHEN POLICE BREAK DOORS.

Several Arrests Made in Two Raids of West Side Opium and Cocaine Resorts —Inspector McCann Back at Work.

Four men and two women were arrested by Detectives Clark and Dwyer of Inspector McGann's office yesterday afternoon in two raids on alleged opium and cocaine resorts at 298 West Lake street and 177 Peoria street. In both places the detectives broke open doors leading to the resorts, and several women jumped through windows and made their escape.

At 298 West Lake street a man and two women were arrested while smoking opium. They are: Elisha Skinner, keeper of the resort, Alice Young and Stella Martin.

At the Peoria street place were found three men, who gave the names of Joseph McGuirk, John Stark, and William Simpson.

The raids followed the return of Inspector McCann to his duties, he having been ill at his home for six weeks suffering from blood poisoning.

LAND DISPUTE STIRS AURORA.

Legal Fight Likely to Be Made for Island in the Business Center of the City.

An announcement made yesterday to the effect that a legal fight may be made for the possession of an island in the Fox river, in the business center of Aurora, by persons who base their claims of ownership on an old government act passed about the time of the Mexican war, caused a rush of business in Aurora law offices yesterday afternoon.

It was stated that former United States Senator Mason had told the claimants, who are headed by J. M. Spiker, that they have a good case.

The property involved is estimated to be worth several millions of dollars. It is one-half a mile long and one-fourth of a mile wide.

The woman's Catholic order of Foresters received Maywood people at the St. James' parish bazaar in the Maywood opera hall. The receipts of the bazaar, which will continue during the week, will be devoted to the new combined church and school now being built.

Doll Donated by Mrs. Fred A. Busse Feature of Deaconess Home Bazaar.

Prominent Norwegians and others interested in the Norwegian Lutheran Deaconess home and hospital gathered last night at the opening of a bazaar held for the benefit of that institution at Northwest hall, 692 West North avenue.

The international aspect of the affair was shaded slightly by the nonappearance of a tapestry contributed by King Haakon VII. of Norway. The tapestry, it was learned, was delayed on the way and will be ready for display tonight, it is hoped. Meanwhile, pictures of Taft and Bryan and their families were offered, together with those of President Roosevelt, and the guests purchased according to their political inclinations.

A doll donated by Mrs. Fred A. Busse and one given by Miss Jane Addams came in for much attention, and will be raffled.

The bazaar is in charge of the Ladies' auxiliary, the Moreland society, and the Women's Aid society, all connected with the institution.

BARS HUSBAND FROM HOUSE

Mrs. Charles Staright Sues and Gets Injunctional Order.

SAYS HE PULLED HER HAIR.

School Principal George Voorhees Defendant in Divorce Case.

Charles N. Staright, who is said to have an income of $6,000 a year, is accused of cruelty in a suit for divorce filed yesterday by his wife Anna. Staright was barred from his home at 4444 Champlain avenue by an injunction issued upon the application of Mrs. Staright.

Mrs. Staright names two specific times at which her husband is alleged to have struck her. In February of 1908, she complains, he struck and beat her severely, and last Sunday, she says, he pulled her hair, tore her gown, and threatened to kill her.

At different times, in 1907 and 1908, she says, her husband has been guilty of indiscretions with one Hilda Thomas.

Mrs. Staright says her husband owns property at 4444 and 4446 Champlain avenue, 6030 and 6032 Washington avenue, and at 5742 Grove avenue, besides a farm at Cedar Lake, Ind.

School Principal Sued.

George L. Voorhees, 292 Huron street, principal of the Morse school, is defendant in a cross bill for separate maintenance filed by Ella Culver Voorhees. The cross complainant, who is mother of his seven children, makes accusations naming Geraltha Farrar, "otherwise known as Geraltha Thomas."

They were married in August, 1879, at Dane, Wis., and lived together until May 14, 1904, when, Mrs. Voorhees says, her husband deserted her. The youngest child is 9 years old and the oldest 27.

Says Husband Hires Sleuths.

Lotta H. Palmer, in a petition filed before Judge Honoré to obtain solicitor's fees from Robert B. Palmer, avers that her husband has employed "sneak detectives" to obtain evidence against her. "The jealous heart and soul" of her husband, she avers, is weaving "a web of deceit" around her. Judge Honoré declined to allow fees until Master in Chancery Mason, before whom the case is being heard, reports to him.

LAYS BIGAMY TO SPELLBINDER.

Mrs. E. J. Lindblom Has Her Husband Locked Up—He Is Said to Be a Campaign Speaker.

E. J. Lindblom, said by the police to be a spellbinder for the democratic national committee, was arrested at Madison and State streets by detectives of the Central station yesterday on a warrant charging him with bigamy. The warrant was obtained by Mary Lindblom, 521 Wellington street. She says they were married twenty-two years ago, and charges that her husband has another wife living in Waukegan, Ill., to whom he was married four years ago. Lindblom had just returned from Kansas. He was locked up.

WHITE SLAVER SENT TO CELL

Joseph Ochsner Sentenced to Two and a Half Years in Prison.

MUST PAY $2,500 FINE, TOO.

Trial in United States Court of Steffen Nybold Halted by Wedding.

Joseph Ochsner was sentenced yesterday afternoon by United States Judge Bethea to serve two and a half years in the penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth and to pay a fine of $2,500.

Ochsner was found guilty last Thursday of harboring an alien woman for immoral purposes in violation of the immigration laws. The sentence was imposed after motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment had been overruled.

Ochsner brought Marie Schulkraft, 24 years old, to the United States from Stuttgart, Germany, after, it is alleged, he had deserted his wife and children. Attorney Henry Roth, counsel for the defendant, pleaded for leniency. He was opposed by Assistant District Attorneys Harry A. Parkin and Charles Abbott, who demanded the extreme penalty, five years' imprisonment and a fine of $5,000.

Wedding Halts Trial.

A few minutes later Judge Bethea's courtroom became the scene of a climax in the love affairs of Steffen Nybold and Miss Dorothea Jensen. Nybold was about to be tried on a charge similar to that on which Ochsner had been convicted. The two were taken in a raid at 841 Milwaukee avenue three months ago, when Anton Wilborg was arrested as the proprietor of the Dagmar "hotel," an alleged disorderly resort. Nybold and Miss Jensen, an alien woman, were living at the "hotel" without having been married.

"I was as much to blame as he," the young woman told the court. "I loved him. I love him now. If he is sent to the penitentiary I want to die."

Following this appeal a halt was called in the selection of jurors, while Nybold, his sweetheart, and Judge Bethea held a conference in the latter's chambers. When they returned to the courtroom Judge Bethea announced that Nybold and Miss Jensen had agreed to marry and that he had decided to allow Nybold to change his plea to guilty.

Nybold and Miss Jensen then procured a marriage license and were married in the outer office of the county clerk by the Rev. W. A. Mortensen.

Landlord's Trial Nears End.

The case brought by the Douglas Neighborhood Improvement club against Jacob Silverman for renting a flat at 96 Thirty-first street to alleged immoral women probably will be given to the jury this morning.

Silverman took the stand in his own behalf in the afternoon and said he had no knowledge of the practices of the lessors.

"I bought the place last November," he said, "and I did not suspect the reputation of the women until I received a letter from the Douglas Neighborhood Improvement club. The property is in the hands of a real estate man and I never bother about it."

A similar case was begun in Judge Going's court, where A. J. Tacey, owner of the property at 188 Thirty-fifth street, was placed on trial in the morning. Miss Reta Williams, a witness against F. L. Klute, who was found guilty last week of keeping a disorderly house at 3159 Indiana avenue, will testify against Tacey. Miss Williams and her stepbrother, L. R. Garren, a detective, went to the building owned by Tacey to obtain evidence. It is said they procured a room without registering.

MRS. SCOTT DURAND WARNS PUBLIC TO BEWARE OF DOGS.

Says Numerous Annoyances at Crab Tree Dairy Have Caused Her to Protect Property with Hounds.

Picnic parties and cross country riders must "beware the dogs." Mrs. Scott Durand, who conducts the Crab Tree dairy and enters into some other Lake Forest activities, yesterday issued this notice:

"Having been greatly annoyed the last year with the pealing of birch trees, cutting of trees, shrubs, and flowers, gathering of nuts and fruit, lighting of fires that have done much damage, the little picnic parties, and the shooting of birds, squirrels, and rabbits, we are obliged to protect our property with hounds and will not be responsible for any injury to trespassers."

The farm is just south of the naval training school. "On Thursday last," Mrs. Durand says, "a bad fire occurred in the woods. It was started by hunters. It took the whole force on the farm from noon until 11 o'clock at night to check the fire, which threatened the buildings. There was a big loss to the timber.

"Last Sunday persons hunting or nutting left a gate open and all the young stock got out and strayed away. It took three days of constant search to locate all the animals. One colt valued at $200 strayed on the highway, was struck by an auto and killed."

Judge Mack Holds That State Board Has No Right to Assess Chicago General Railway Company.

John R. Thompson, county treasurer, was perpetually enjoined by Judge Mack yesterday from attempting to collect taxes of $83,427.23 assessed by the state board of equalization against the Chicago General railway company for 1904, 1905, 1906, and 1907. The court found that taxes assessed by the west and south town boards for these years had been paid, and that the assessment levied by the equalizers was void.

Judge Mack gave President Busse and nine county commissioners until Nov. 9 to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt of court in making an appropriation to cover the expense of investigating primary election frauds.

Attorney Henry M. Ashton filed an affidavit last Saturday alleging that the appropriation was made in violation of Judge Mack's order of July 17 in the mandamus proceedings brought by Dominick J. Lavin to have the real estate assessment list for 1907 published. The commissioners contended there was no money available to pay for publication of the list.

WILL ASK DEATH FOR BILLIK.

Mandate of Federal Court Is Received and Steps Are Taken to Have the Prisoner Resentenced.

State's Attorney Healy yesterday received the mandate of the United States Supreme court dismissing the case of Herman Billik. The prosecutor assigned his assistant, James J. Barbour, to make preparations to ask that the poisoner be resentenced.

Mr. Barbour notified Attorney Francis E. Hinckley, counsel for the prisoner, that he will go before United States Judge Landis Wednesday morning and ask him to terminate the stay of execution.

Then Judge Barnes will be requested to set a final date for the execution. Billik's last hope to escape the gallows now is believed to be in an appeal to Gov. Deneen.

"Please read to me!" you asked as a child.
"Please play for me!" you ask as a "grown-up."

BUT how much wider was your reading, how much more extensive your familiarity with the masterpieces of literature and the current popular writings of the day, and above all,

How much greater was your enjoyment and satisfaction when, at last, you were able to do your own reading!

The same is true of music, only in a much greater degree.

You are able to do your own playing on

The ANGELUS PIANO

The Piano anyone can Play Artistically

YOU need not wait the convenience of some one else who can play; some one else, whose mood may not be the same as yours, whose repertoire is, most likely, limited. With an Angelus Piano, you can play for yourself whenever and whatever you like. With its repertoire of many thousand compositions, you can satisfy any mood of the moment. You can become intimately familiar with the loved classics of the masters; you can keep abreast of the times by playing the popular music of the day, light operas, musical comedies, dances, what you will.

And above all, you will enjoy the intense satisfaction of doing your own playing in your own way.

You can now have this wonderful instrument on very easy terms or we will make you a liberal allowance on your present piano and take it in exchange. But whether or not you are ready to purchase you should make it a point to hear this instrument at your first opportunity. Come in today and play it yourself. No obligation.

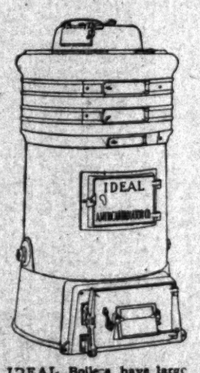
By popular vote

If a ballot were taken as to what single feature of home furnishing produces the greatest comfort, every member of every family that has graduated from old-fashioned heating methods to Hot-Water or Low-Pressure Steam heating would cast a unanimous vote for

AMERICAN RADIATORS & IDEAL BOILERS

These outfits not only make a house homelike, but their soft, even warmth protects the family health; their cleanliness halves the cleaning-work, and the fuel savings soon repay their cost. They will outwear the building and prove to be a permanent paying investment —far better than bonds at 6 per cent.

IDEAL Boilers are made to fit 3-room cottages to 90-room buildings or larger. They are made for Hot-Water, Steam, or Vacuum heating—for burning all kinds of fuel, even to the cheapest of soft-coal screenings, gas house coke, etc. They are made on the unit or sectional plan, so will pass through cellar door of any building already erected, and can be made larger or smaller if building is later altered in size. They are made of the finest grade of new iron and are put together so they cannot get out of order. They are absolutely safe—a child can run one. Three or four gallons of water added twice a season will keep the boiler filled. They take up all the heat from the fuel, and deliver it just where needed—without passing up ashes or coal-gases to living-room. Fire runs without attention for at least eight hours in coldest weather. We cannot here explain all—so please ask for free book.



IDEAL Boilers have large fuel-pots in which the air and coal-gases thoroughly mix, as in a modern gas or oil burner, thus extracting every bit of the heat from the fuel. None of the heat is wasted up the chimney.

Whether your building is old or new—farm or city—cast an early vote for release from the troubles and expense of old-fashioned heating—seven winter months ahead! Write, telephone, or call today.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 27, 1908.

HEREWITH the campaign may begin to see its whirlwind finish.

IN one swiftly revolving week this trouble will come to an end.

COL. BRYAN, to be sure, could afford to pay those musicians their $1,004 himself.

"IT is not only safe, but prudent," says the Charleston News and Courier, "to begin the celebration of Bryan's election now." Talk about your lack of southern enthusiasm for the Peerless Leader!

THINGS are improving. The forest fires are out, there is some water in the Ohio river again, and Hobson has quit talking war.

HUGHES can better afford to be beaten next week than the state of New York can afford to beat him.

DOES anybody imagine that Mr. Roosevelt can be scared out of going to Africa next year by a mere mortality table showing that he has only fifteen chances in a hundred of coming back alive? Tush! And likewise piffle!

THE simple fact that Prof. Zueblin didn't say anything of the kind will be ignored by those papers that make a specialty of printing everything they possibly can to the discredit of any Chicago professor.

IT is not flattering to Missouri to assume that it is going to be less progressive and politically healthy this year than it was four years ago.

OCCIDENTAL civilization, having learned from Australia how to vote, may well afford to learn from Japan how to be polite to visitors.

WHEN a tailor shop has been robbed ten times within six years the propriety of changing it from a tailor shop to a police station begins to suggest itself.

TO LEARN how doubtful Ohio is you have to make your inquiries in other states.

A STATE that is capable of defeating a man like Hughes for a governorship would seem to be quite capable of electing a man like the Hon. Fingy Conners to a United States senatorship.

CANDIDATE BRYAN'S promise to share the White house with Mr. Kern may be repudiated by the real owners of that building, who will be heard from next Tuesday.

WHY do some persons complain of hard times and high prices when they can buy a good automobile for only $1,500?

NEARLY all the members of the Elkins family, it is believed, have learned of Miss Elkins' approaching marriage.

A GREAT deal may happen between now and next Tuesday. Mr. Taft's plurality may be even larger than the straw votes indicate.

AS MR. GOMPERS indignantly denies that he is trying to deliver the labor vote to any particular candidate he will be pleased to find out that he is not delivering it.

IF the testimony of the doctors is to the effect that the ordinary firecracker stands in the way of a safe and sane Fourth of July, the ordinary firecracker must go.

WHEN Miss Ida Tarbell really tries she can write an extremely funny magazine article.

MR. HISGEN may not know it, but he is right in the midst of a whirlwind finish.

THE people of Cleveland are not ungrateful to their Tom Johnsons, though they may be a trifle weary of them.

IT is announced that Mr. Debs will throw his last campaign fit next Sunday.

THE president still refuses to "let Mr. Taft and I fight it out alone."

BANK DEPOSIT GUARANTY.

Tom Murray of Chicago was at the beginning of the year so much in favor of the bank deposit guaranty plan that he had made up his mind to vote for the party which should come out for it. But he has changed his mind. He is going to vote for Mr. Taft, who is against the guaranty plan,—

First, because I believe that, as a nation, we have no right to make so great and so radical a change in our whole banking and financial system without first giving the principle a careful and thorough test. The more you think about it the bigger this proposition of jumping right in at the start and putting all the national banks of the country upon a new and radically altered basis looks to the business man.

Tom Murray is a merchant. It was borne in upon him that if he had forty-six stores instead of one and some plausible man like Mr. Bryan were to propose to him some new and radical change in his methods of merchandising he, as a sensible, cautious business man, would say:

I will try this out in one or two of my branch stores where I know that it will have every chance for success if it has success in it, and where, if by any possibility we should be mistaken, it will do comparatively little damage if it doesn't prove out. To my mind, if I would consent to start out with any change more sweeping than this I would be a mighty poor business man and would show more of the gambling than of the business instinct.

But if that would be ordinary prudence in the mercantile business, the same would hold good in the banking business. So he says, as so many other judicious men have said: "Try it out first. Wait until the returns from Oklahoma are all in and complete."

DENEEN AND HIS ENEMIES.

The campaign made against Gov. Charles S. Deneen to defeat him for re-election displays its own weaknesses. It was begun by his republican enemies and is being continued by his democratic opponents. They have changed most of the actors, but they have not changed the melodrama. The governor remains as the chief "villain" in the play, but Roger C. Sullivan has taken the place of William Lorimer at the head of the forces which work for good, and Adlai E. Stevenson now gets the applause which was given Richard Yates.

It is hardly possible that the absurdities of the campaign have escaped voters who have looked at the issue judiciously. To prove that Gov. Deneen has been a bad and dangerous governor it is set forth that he took the fees which the law allowed him in the state's attorney's office before he was elected governor. The beauty and the justness of this logic will appeal to every republican voter.

Is it true that his opponents, striving to find an "issue" against him, were driven to ignore his administration and go back to the years when he was state's attorney, distorting the facts of his work in that office? It will occur to any impartial voter that if Mr. Deneen's record as state's attorney were such as to make him unfit for higher office it was painfully inconsistent for the state knowing all the facts, to elect him governor on that record and then, four years later, ignoring his administration as governor, to raise as an objection against him for reelection the fact that he took the fees which the law said were his in his former office.

The inconsistency of such a campaign has been apparent to even the most vindictive of the governor's enemies. They realized at the start, when the effort was to defeat him for renomination, that such procedure was not likely to recommend itself to unbiased men who had the opportunity to look at it dispassionately.

It was in realization of the weakness of the cause that an attempt was made to discredit the governor by an attack on the state institutions. Some lamentable accidents, a bad case of carelessness on the part of an attendant, and one case of brutality—for which punishment was administered—were taken in hand by a shrewd investigating committee, and Gov. Deneen, whose best efforts have been given to the thorough reorganization of an inefficient institution system, has been made the victim of an almost incredibly vicious attack.

In its viciousness this attack has overreached itself. Mr. Deneen may not be given credit for the real and lasting work which has been done for the state institutions under the direction of Dr. Frank Billings and the able and disinterested members of the state board of charities, but the fair minded voter will not be misled by the relation of "horrors" on which the attack on the Deneen administration is based.

The governor's opponents, by the method of their campaigning, unwillingly but inevitably admit the shallowness of their arguments.

POWER TO HIS BLACKTHORN.

Father Hayes of the Church of St. Rose of Lima, back of the yards, has some ideas as to the place for children after nightfall, and by way of making his ideas respected he has put them into practice. His methods are good old fashioned ones, nothing less than the curfew and a blackthorn stick to make reluctant youngsters listen.

Father Hayes knew that the children he has in his parochial care were "running the streets wild, like the cattle in the stockades." When Father Hayes told them about the curfew they thought he was joking.

I rang the bell, nine taps, and then started out to see what effect it had upon the youth of the parish. There were a few stragglers who lingered around the 5 cent shows, and I chased them off to bed with my blackthorn.

The next night I repeated curfew and every night since then I have rung the bell. The teachers at the parochial school tell me that the scholars are showing marked signs of betterment in their studies.

The streets of a great city at night are not the schools from which good men and women are likely to graduate. Father Hayes' bell and blackthorn will save many a heartache. Parents do not realize what they lay in store for themselves of disappointment and of grief by unwise leniency. Father Hayes has taught the community a lesson which should be heeded.

WEST OR STUCKART?

Of Henry Stuckart, the democratic candidate for the board of review, the Municipal Voters' league said in 1907:

Furniture dealer, 2317 Archer avenue; served in council from April, 1892, to April, 1804; reelected in 1895; record not at all mixed, but shows him squarely opposed to interests of people and in favor of gift of franchises without compensation; voted for the following measures: Metropolitan Gas, Chicago Midland, Northwestern Elevated, Calumet and Blue Island, General Electric, Central Electric, Santa Fé, Union Loop; opposed compensation amendment to Central Electric, General Electric, Calumet Electric, Union Loop, trolley ordinances, and North Chicago Electric; opposed compelling street car companies to pave full width of streets along which route was granted West Chicago Street railroad this year, and the North Chicago Electric. Should not be returned to council.

In 1898 the revenue law committee of the real estate board, consisting of men like Louis A. Seeberger, George E. Cole, and John V. Farwell Jr., investigated Mr. Stuckart exhaustively and made a similar report against him. In 1904 the Municipal Voters' league once more opposed his election to office.

Mr. Stuckart has no claims upon his fellow citizens' confidence. His public record is bad, and both for the sake of an unfortunate community over which he would exercise a malign power as tax reviewer as well as an example to all of his kind, he should meet a stinging defeat.

Mr. West, the republican candidate, is being bitterly fought by men whose political enmity is to his credit. The charges made against him of favoring corporations can be made against any reviewer at any time. They are not substantiated by the ascertained facts. The fair minded citizen will not give consideration to unsupported calumnies.

Certainly no responsible citizen, whatever his party—and this office should not be a partisan one—can afford to hesitate between Roy West and Henry Stuckart. Stuckart should be defeated so conclusively as to be annihilated as a political factor, however small. He is one of the undesirables of our local politics.

MR. ROOSEVELT AT FIFTY.

Today, as the nation is about to choose his successor, while his epoch making administration of the presidential office draws towards its close, Theodore Roosevelt completes a half century.

To many millions of his countrymen who place their trust in his strong leadership the day brings not so much thought of Mr. Roosevelt's past, honorable and remarkable as that has been, as thought of the future. Mr. Roosevelt is still a young man, in the full flush of his great powers and in the unimpaired possession of a personal influence wider, positively, than that of any of his predecessors and wider, relatively, than any save, possibly, that of Washington and of Jefferson. Neither party, nor section, nor race, nor class has divided it. Mr. Roosevelt, therefore, faces a future rich in its promise of service and achievement. The question has been asked of late, "What shall we do with our ex-presidents?" Mr. Roosevelt will have no difficulty in answering that question as to one. Many careers are open to him, but, whatever his choice, he will continue to be a dynamic factor, an immensely powerful force, in our public life.

Mr. Roosevelt's singular power has been founded upon his recognition of the main ethical issue of his generation in America. His power has been moral power, and he himself has well understood the significance of the hold he has upon the people as an annunciator and mighty champion of the vital simple truths we had allowed to become inert platitudes. In closing his special message to congress of Jan. 31, the most remarkable of the series of remarkable utterances during his presidency, Mr. Roosevelt expressed not only his own conviction but the almost unanimous moral sense of the nation when he said:

> On behalf of all our people, on behalf no less of the honest man of means than of the honest man who earns each day's livelihood by that day's sweat of his brow, it is necessary to insist upon honesty in business and politics alike, in all walks of life, in big things and in little things; upon just and fair dealing as between man and man. . . . In the work we of this generation are in there is, thanks be to the Almighty, no danger of bloodshed and no use for the sword; but there is grave need of those stern qualities shown alike by the men of the north and the men of the south in the dark days when each valiantly battled for the light as it was given each to see the light. This spirit should be our spirit, as we strive to bring nearer the day when greed and trickery, and cunning shall be trampled under feet by those who fight for the righteousness that exalteth a nation.

The spirit of the presidency of Theodore Roosevelt and of that large office he has filled as a moral leader could not be expressed better than in these words, which offer as well an earnest of that effective work that, Providence willing, he is yet to do in the national life.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Hopeful.

Barber—"Your hair seems to be coming out."

Elderly Customer—"Good! I've been under the impression all the time that it was going back."

Would Do as Well.

"I am sorry to have to tell you," said the eminent surgeon, "that we shall have to perform an operation."

"That's all right," answered the patient. "Go ahead."

"But the condition of your heart is such that we do not dare to use any anæsthetic."

"O, well; tell me what the bill is going to be, doctor. That will be sufficiently stupefying."

Who?

"You can't deny, anyhow, that our candidate is a good fighter."

"Y—yes; he seems to be, but he—er—always gets whipped."

Unheroic.

Leander had swum the Hellespont.

"Couldn't you have hired a skiff?" asked Hero.

With chattering teeth Leander answered her, still more coldly, to the effect that the next time he did it, by George, he would apply for a Carnegie medal.

Retrospective.

Sycophant—"It's a great thing to have the pen of a ready writer. You find it so, do you not?"

Financial Magnate—"Yes, unless the things you write fall into the hands of somebody who has the voice of a ready reader."

Extremely Unfashionable.

"Who are those people in that private box?"

"I don't know; mere nobodies, I guess. They are devoting their whole attention to the play."

Scored on Him.

Mr. Tyte-Phist—"Talk about women having any capacity for dealing with financial questions! Have you any idea, for instance, how much money is in circulation in this country?"

Mrs. Tyte-Phist—"I presume it's all in circulation—except what you happen to get hold of."

Foreign Prejudice.

First Foreigner—"Why do they call this the 'garden city'?"

Second Foreigner—"Why? Look at the rich, black dirt in the streets!"

Largest Goose Club.

Probably the largest goose club in the world is that connected with the Robert Browning settlement, in Walworth, South London.

Started twelve years ago with 250 members, the club has now upon its books 10,000 names, and it is estimated that through its agency 60,000 people are provided with a substantial Christmas dinner every year. A few days before each Christmas the club distributes:

Turkeys	7,000	Parcels of groceries	10,000
Geese	1,000
Joints of beef	1,000

The parcels contain the principal ingredients for the plum pudding, and the total weight of the 10,000 parcels is close upon twenty tons.

Each member of this gigantic club pays 6d per week for fifteen weeks, so that the Christmas dinner costs 7s 6d.—London Mail.

Girls at a Discount.

Girls, with one or two exceptions, are at a discount in smart country houses. They are not rich enough for bridge, and they put a restriction on funny stories.—Punch.

PRINCE WALDEMAR of Denmark, who celebrates today his fiftieth birthday, is the youngest brother of the kings of Denmark and of Greece, the queen of England, of the dowager czarina, and of the duchess of Brunswick. Moreover, he enjoys the distinction of having declined a throne—namely: that of Bulgaria. It was tendered to him by a vote of the Bulgarian legislature after the abdication of Prince Alexander of Battenburg, and he declined it in terms so contemptuous as to excite the keenest resentment in Bulgaria, where his name is held in considerable disfavor to this day. Afterwards the crown of Bulgaria was literally hawked about all over Europe, until finally tendered to Ferdinand of Coburg, then an insignificant lieutenant of Austrian Hussars.

Prince Waldemar is a sailor by profession, has on several occasions visited the United States in a naval capacity during the course of his cruises, has seen much of the far east, especially of China, Japan, and Siam, and is an adept in the art of boxing and wrestling.

Indeed, he was the favorite sparring partner of the late Alexander III., and in spite of the herculean proportions of the late emperor, Waldemar is on record as often having got the better of his Russian brother-in-law in these bouts. He is married to Princess Marie of Orleans, eldest daughter of the duke of Chartres, who served on the staff of McClellan through the American war of the union, and likewise was under fire in the war of 1859 against Austria, holding a commission in the Sardinian army under the name of Robert Le Fort, and again in the French army in the war of 1870 under the same incognito.

Princess Marie is a gifted and brilliant woman, is an extremely clever painter, especially of animals, has won for herself the office of lady patroness of the National Association of Fire Brigades of the Kingdom, and is generally credited with having induced her brother-in-law, the late Emperor Alexander III., to break away from his alliance with Germany and Austria, known as the Three Emperor alliance, and to become instead the ally of France. In fact, she is generally regarded throughout Europe as the real author of the Franco-Russian alliance.

Lady Savile's big dinner at her house in London in honor of M. Izvolski during the recent much commented on visit of the Muscovite minister of foreign affairs to England may serve to recall the days when as secretary of the czar's legation at Washington he was so devoted to Mrs. Horace Helyar, wife of one of the secretaries of the English embassy. For Horace Helyar is long since dead, and his fascinating widow has become the wife of Lord Savile, who each year entertains King Edward at his beautiful old country seat, Rufford abbey, for the boon quarter recess. Izvolski had many rivals in his devotion to Mrs. Helyar, among them one of his own colleagues at the Russian legation, Alexander Gregr.

The latter was a greater favorite here in those days than his senior, Izvolski, and when both men came up for election at the Union club in New York on the same day Gregr was elected and Izvolski turned down. The affront thus placed upon Izvolski compelled Gregr to decline his election, while his chief, the Russian minister, the late Charles von Struve, resigned from the club. Izvolski immediately asked and obtained his transfer to another post, leaving the field free to Alexander Gregr, whom it fell to his lot in his capacity of minister of foreign affairs to subsequently dismiss from the Russian diplomatic service owing to his connection with the sensational blue diamond scandal of two years ago.

Izvolski is now happily married to a daughter of Count Toll, who was for so many years Russian minister at Copenhagen, and has some charming children. But in his bachelor days he was much given to playing the rôle of Romeo, and while secretary of legation at Bucharest was the hero of so desperate a flirtation with the wife of his chief, Prince Ouroussoff, that his transfer became imperative, and that the prince and princess have been virtually separated ever since. Today the prince is Russian ambassador at Vienna, and Izvolski, his former secretary, is his chief, as minister of foreign affairs.

A parallel for the situation existed during the closing years of the late Count Doenhoff's tenure of the post of Prussian minister plenipotentiary at Dresden, when his former secretary of legation, who had captured the heart of his lovely Italian wife, and married her after divorce, became his chief as chancellor of the German empire—I mean, of course, Prince Bülow.

I see Izvolski constantly referred to as "baron." He is nothing of the kind. For, although he belongs to an old Russian family of the petty territorial aristocracy, he has, like so many others of his class, no nobiliary title. The baronial title has been rarely granted by the emperors of Russia since the days of Peter the Great. I do not believe that all told more than a score of barons have been created since then, and most of the Russian citizens who bear the title of baron hail from the German speaking and Polish provinces, and it is borne in connection with names that are distinctively either German, Swedish, or Polish.

Just in the same manner as people occupying less exalted stations in life, royal personages are occasionally called upon to meet in social intercourse, and even to correspond with consorts from whom they have been divorced. Thus, the other day the reigning grand duke of Hesse found it difficult to avoid a rencontre with his former wife, who since her divorce has married Grand Duke Cyril of Russia and stands a fair chance of some day becoming czarina.

As they had known one another from childhood, and are first cousins, the meeting was perhaps less awkward than it might otherwise have been, and there was no difficulty about knowing how to address one another. Henry IV., whom it may be remembered got rid of Queen Marguerite de Valois in order to wed Queen Marie de Medicis, became far better friends with "La Reine Margot" after the dissolution of their marriage than he had ever been when they were man and wife. She was even a welcome guest at his court, where she was officially addressed by both Henry and by her successor, Queen Marie, as "Ma Soeur"—that is to say, as sister, which is the ceremonious method employed by the anointed of the lord in addressing queens and empresses.

The late Queen Victoria, it is true, by reason of her great age and of the profound respect which she inspired, was the styled "aunt" by young sovereigns, such as Queen Wilhelmine of Holland, King Alfonso of Spain, and even King Carlos of Portugal, with all of whose grandparents she had been on terms of intimacy. But to Emperor Francis Joseph and the late king of Denmark, as well as Oscar of Sweden, and old Emperor William, she was always "Ma Soeur."

Grand Duchess Cyril enjoys the distinction of being today the only woman now living who has stepped down from a throne in consequence of divorce. For King Frederick Augustus of Saxony had not succeeded to the crown when he secured from the civil courts of Saxony a decree of divorce from his misguided wife. There are but three lives between Grand Duke Cyril and the Muscovite crown, one of these being that of his aged and infirm father, and another that of the little czarovitch. So that his succession is quite within the bounds of possibility, and it would be strange if the fact of Princess Victoria Melita of Great Britain in sacrificing the grand ducal throne of Hesse to wed the man whom she loved were to culminate eventually in her accession to the infinitely more grandiose throne of all the Russias.

As to the Suffragette.

As some criminals are said to "see red" and go for their enemy, so some women when stung with a political idea, however little urgent, practical, or immediate it may really be, "see red," and go blindly for that one aim by any means and in spite of any objection offered by friend or foe.—Frederic Harrison.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

AN AMUSING LETTER FROM AN ASS.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—The letter published in your issue of Oct. 17, entitled "Rum Demon Camps on Deneen's Trail," is unworthy of space in the most immoral sheet in circulation. The fool who wrote it has as little regard for veracity and justice as the paper which published it. If the same kind of an article was published in any other part of the world, THE TRIBUNE would devote columns to its contradiction.

This article coming from Springfield may have been written or inspired by the malignant wrecker of reputations himself in his mad fear of ignominious defeat. I am a republican. I never voted for any democrat for a higher office than some local position and some man whom I personally knew. I am going to vote for Mr. Stevenson with a venegeance, and I feel like stuffing my ballot into the box with both feet.

I know the state of Illinois better than most of its citizens, and I talk as much as the average. I find the majority of republicans of my acquaintance of the same political disposition as I am. "Vote for Stevenson." Why? First, because there is nothing against his character, only that he was a rebel soldier. There is absolutely nothing in his career to indicate he may be a pro-rum demon. On the contrary, there is a lot to show that he is no longer a rebel, but a moderate, peaceful citizen of the United States—not a cold blooded robber of reputations, not a vindictive squelcher of anybody who opposes him in legitimate contest.

There are probably 70,000 republicans in Illinois who have no sympathy with the Rum Demon who have less sympathy with Mr. Deneen and the newspaper trust, who will vote for Adlai E. Stevenson on the 3d day of next November for the reason that they hate the Frenchy army in the war of 1870 under the same incognito.

Princess Marie is a gifted and brilliant woman, is an extremely clever painter, especially of animals, has won for herself the office of lady patroness of the National Association of Fire Brigades of the Kingdom, and is generally credited with having induced her brother-in-law, the late Emperor Alexander III., to break away from his alliance with Germany and Austria, known as the Three Emperor alliance, and to become instead the ally of France. In fact, she is generally regarded throughout Europe as the real author of the Franco-Russian alliance.

Lady Savile's big dinner at her house in London in honor of M. Izvolski during the recent much commented on visit of the Muscovite minister of foreign affairs to England may serve to recall the days when as secretary of the czar's legation at Washington he was so devoted to Mrs. Horace Helyar, wife of one of the secretaries of the English embassy. For Horace Helyar is long since dead, and his fascinating widow has become the wife of Lord Savile, who each year entertains King Edward at his beautiful old country seat, Rufford abbey, for the boon quarter recess. Izvolski had many rivals in his devotion to Mrs. Helyar, among them one of his own colleagues at the Russian legation, Alexander Gregr.

The latter was a greater favorite here in those days than his senior, Izvolski, and when both men came up for election at the Union club in New York on the same day Gregr was elected and Izvolski turned down. The affront thus placed upon Izvolski compelled Gregr to decline his election, while his chief, the Russian minister, the late Charles von Struve, resigned from the club. Izvolski immediately asked and obtained his transfer to another post, leaving the field free to Alexander Gregr, whom it fell to his lot in his capacity of minister of foreign affairs to subsequently dismiss from the Russian diplomatic service owing to his connection with the sensational blue diamond scandal of two years ago.

It may be recalled that Gregr while staying with his American wife at a château near Brest was accused by his American born hostess, the countess du Porsic de Rodellac, who hails from New York, with having stolen a celebrated blue diamond which belonged to her.

Izvolski is now happily married to a daughter of Count Toll, who was for so many years Russian minister at Copenhagen, and has some charming children. But in his bachelor days he was much given to playing the rôle of Romeo, and while secretary of legation at Bucharest was the hero of so desperate a flirtation with the wife of his chief, Prince Ouroussoff, that his transfer became imperative, and that the prince and princess have been virtually separated ever since. Today the prince is Russian ambassador at Vienna, and Izvolski, his former secretary, is his chief, as minister of foreign affairs.

A parallel for the situation existed during the closing years of the late Count Doenhoff's tenure of the post of Prussian minister plenipotentiary at Dresden, when his former secretary of legation, who had captured the heart of his lovely Italian wife, and married her after divorce, became his chief as chancellor of the German empire—I mean, of course, Prince Bülow.

I see Izvolski constantly referred to as "baron." He is nothing of the kind. For, although he belongs to an old Russian family of the petty territorial aristocracy, he has, like so many others of his class, no nobiliary title. The baronial title has been rarely granted by the emperors of Russia since the days of Peter the Great. I do not believe that all told more than a score of barons have been created since then, and most of the Russian citizens who bear the title of baron hail from the German speaking and Polish provinces, and it is borne in connection with names that are distinctively either German, Swedish, or Polish.

Just in the same manner as people occupying less exalted stations in life, royal personages are occasionally called upon to meet in social intercourse, and even to correspond with consorts from whom they have been divorced. Thus, the other day the reigning grand duke of Hesse found it difficult to avoid a rencontre with his former wife, who since her divorce has married Grand Duke Cyril of Russia and stands a fair chance of some day becoming czarina.

As they had known one another from childhood, and are first cousins, the meeting was perhaps less awkward than it might otherwise have been, and there was no difficulty about knowing how to address one another. Henry IV., whom it may be remembered got rid of Queen Marguerite de Valois in order to wed Queen Marie de Medicis, became far better friends with "La Reine Margot" after the dissolution of their marriage than he had ever been when they were man and wife. She was even a welcome guest at his court, where she was officially addressed by both Henry and by her successor, Queen Marie, as "Ma Soeur"—that is to say, as sister, which is the ceremonious method employed by the anointed of the lord in addressing queens and empresses.

The late Queen Victoria, it is true, by reason of her great age and of the profound respect which she inspired, was the styled "aunt" by young sovereigns, such as Queen Wilhelmine of Holland, King Alfonso of Spain, and even King Carlos of Portugal, with all of whose grandparents she had been on terms of intimacy. But to Emperor Francis Joseph and the late king of Denmark, as well as Oscar of Sweden, and old Emperor William, she was always "Ma Soeur."

Grand Duchess Cyril enjoys the distinction of being today the only woman now living who has stepped down from a throne in consequence of divorce. For King Frederick Augustus of Saxony had not succeeded to the crown when he secured from the civil courts of Saxony a decree of divorce from his misguided wife. There are but three lives between Grand Duke Cyril and the Muscovite crown, one of these being that of his aged and infirm father, and another that of the little czarovitch. So that his succession is quite within the bounds of possibility, and it would be strange if the fact of Princess Victoria Melita of Great Britain in sacrificing the grand ducal throne of Hesse to wed the man whom she loved were to culminate eventually in her accession to the infinitely more grandiose throne of all the Russias.

As some criminals are said to "see red" and go for their enemy, so some women when stung with a political idea, however little urgent, practical, or immediate it may really be, "see red," and go blindly for that one aim by any means and in spite of any objection offered by friend or foe.—Frederic Harrison.

The unprovoked and unjustified contest by the tool or fool of Mr. Deneen against Mr. Wayman, regardless of the personal merit of either candidate, has still aggravated the feeling against the present administrations of both Deneen and Healy, and, if a Taft landslide does carry Deneen into office again, it is sure to be by such a reduced vote for the governor as to make it only a nominal success for the latter any how.

Mr. Deneen is accused by reputable and responsible men of offenses 1,000 times more injurious to the community than those for which he has sent many better men to the penitentiary. He has not replied to any of those accusations.

The inference this silence would give a thoughtful voter is that he may be one of those reformers who consider no reform which does not emanate from themselves and at the same time produce for them money or the equivalent.

He may play this kind of a game for a time with THE TRIBUNE and Fifth avenue system as his vanguard, while he skulks in the rear gathering slush. This kind of a coward would not be a rebel nor a defender in any army. He might be found following a commissary at a safe distance from shot and shell.

He is supported in this city by the same clique of scoundrels who advocated the late infamously iniquitous city charter, which we buried so generously. He can be depended upon again if elected to do the bidding of THE TRIBUNE in aiding the north side pack of scoundrels in procuring another such infamy from the legislature.

Adlai E. Stevenson ought to get 50,000 republican votes in Chicago alone, and 25,000 republican votes in the balance of the state. This would smash the brazen political mug of a lying newspaper's patron saint. Republicanism in the great state of Lincoln, Grant, and Logan is no longer a watchword of the valor, while its banner is a lying newspaper.

We bid fair to smash the newspaper trust and its iniquitous staff. Will THE TRIBUNE give space to a few facts among a volume of lies?

ROBERT O'DWYER.

ADMIRERS OF MR. BALLMAN PROTEST.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In common with many other music lovers of the north side, we feel that the action of Director Stock in forcing Mr. Ballman to resign from the Theodore Thomas orchestra because of the latter's connection with another musical organization is unjust.

The director alleges that Mr. Ballman's time and energies have been devoted chiefly to the orchestra which Mr. Ballman conducts at North Side Turner hall; that his allegiance to this outside venture has interfered with his duties as a member of Mr. Stock's more pretentious organization; and that his technique has deteriorated by attention to ragtime pieces instead of the productions of the masters.

None of these assertions is founded on fact. Mr. Ballman's programs have been of the highest class; he has done much to preserve the musical ideals of the local German population, as well as to elevate the taste of his other auditors at Turner hall.

We have his word for it that he has never permitted his outside work to hinder in any way his artistic efficiency in the Thomas organization. Hence we wish to protest vigorously against the wrong that has been done him. Hundreds of pleased auditors of the North Side Turner hall concerts share our feelings.

SAYS BRYAN FAVORS POSTAL BANKS.

Chicago, Oct. 22.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In your editorial "How to Get Absolute Security" you wind up with the statement that under Taft depositors can obtain safety by means of postal savings banks.

Why not state the facts in the case and let your readers know that you do not purposely impose upon their intelligence by withholding the fact that Bryan stands for postal savings banks just as strong as does Taft? In fact, both campaign platforms indorse such a move, except that Bryan asks for bank guaranty legislation as a first aid to savings depositors, which, if failing of enactment, is then to be followed by postal saving banks.

The larger banking institutions are against guaranteeing deposits either by the banks, state, national, or postal banking facilities. The same people are also strongly backing the republican campaign, believing without a shadow of doubt that in the event of Mr. Taft's election no postal banks will be furnished the country under his administration, and most depositors, not borrowers, share this doubt with the "big guns."

C. W. EMAU.

WHO OWNED THE MORTGAGED MULE?

Chicago, Oct. 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In picking up THE TRIBUNE this morning to read my attention was instantly directed to "The Mortgaged Mule" letter. The forcible argument conveyed by this remarkable letter that was dropped into the lap of Mr. Taft almost convinced me that, although a democrat for over forty years, and not only a strong supporter of William J. Bryan but organizing clubs for the purpose of enhancing his interest and election, I say, notwithstanding all these facts, the logic, the force of that mortgaged mule letter, almost won me over to vote for Mr. Taft.

But I don't like to follow the sensible action of any person, who, after rushing into print, or worse still, writes a letter to Mr. Taft and signs only his initials. How will Mr. Taft or THE TRIBUNE ever find out who this great man is that wrote that "Mortgaged Mule" letter? How will the future historian be enabled to give the name of the writer of that famous letter?

In order that the author may have all the fame and honor that his great production is entitled to, I respectfully ask THE TRIBUNE to ascertain and give to its millions of readers the name and also the business in which this extraordinary genius is engaged. For the man who had a mortgaged mule when Mr. Bryan ran in 1896, and has got an automobile now, is a "crackerjack," and his name should go thundering down the pages of history. I hope, for his sake, however, that he is not an officeholder under the government.

Mme. Nazimova is a great technician. Whether that constitutes her a great actress is another question. Such absolute technical mastery as she possesses goes a long way toward the making of histrionic eminence, but something more than this art facility and dexterity is essential for true greatness. And does Mme. Nazimova possess this additional something? That is a question extremely difficult to answer after seeing only her performance of Nora last evening in Ibsen's "A Doll's House" at the Garrick. A more complete embodiment of the Norwegian dramatist's doll wife has not been seen here—and Chicago remembers admirably Mrs. Fiske's interesting presentment of the part and has not forgotten either Miss Barrymore's creditable portrayal nor excellent ones given by leading women of the German company.

But Nora is a rôle for which technical deftness will do much. In fact, a player commanding such deftness as is Mme. Nazimova's could play the rôle not only satisfyingly but effectively even if no other qualification, were brought to the assistance of that deftness. It is the easiest of the Ibsen characters, granted that the player has technic.

And Mme. Nazimova has the technic. She possesses more of it, it is believed, than any other actress at present before the American public. Her performance last evening was fairly virtuoso-like in the brilliancy, the fineness, and the perfection of its polish. Every slightest nuance in expression, in shading, and in dramatic coloring was accomplished with a surety, an ease, and a seemingly minimum expenditure of energy which told of a mastery absolutely complete of every detail and every resource of the art of acting. It was a performance which dazzled by its smoothness and high finish, fascinated by the wealth of subtle and illuminative stage business it contained, and interested and appealed by the constant evidences it gave of being the product of keen insight, thorough study, and clear, clean reasoning. The actress who could present such a portrayal must not only have worked long and seriously at her art but must have developed perceptive faculties along the lines of character analysis which are of the sharpest and which are peculiarly just, accurate, and reliable.

To this remarkable technical mastery Mme. Nazimova brought as much of emotional intensity and sincerity as the character of Nora permits. The great crucial scene of the last act was played with a steadily waxing dignity and seriousness which contained a suggestion of the largeness of grasp and the dramatic impressiveness which are essential to acting that may be called great. All that had preceded had of necessity lacked these qualities, for these would be foreign to the Nora of the earlier scenes. But this one scene, handled even as commandingly as it was, did not suffice to fix Mme. Nazimova's true stature as an actress. It contained high promise, but did not determine. Other rôles in her répertory will have to be seen to make that Plans for Wedding of Miss Alice Orr to C. H. Collins.

OTHER NUPTIAL AFFAIRS.

Announcements of Several Engagements in City and Suburbs.

Miss Alice Orr, whose marriage to C. Harold Collins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Collins of New York, is to be celebrated at noon on Nov. 7 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Arthur Orr, 202 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, is not to have a maid of honor. Instead she will be served only by a group of bridesmaids—Miss Eleanor Orr, her sister; Miss Adele Collins of New York, sister of Mr. Collins, Miss Mabel Linn, and Miss Louise Gaylord. A younger sister, Miss Hetrella Orr, will be the flower girl.

Mr. Collins is to have Henry Mead of Dayton, O., for his best man and the ushers will be a brother, F. Howard Collins of New York, Robert Norton of Cleveland, Gardner Abbott of Cleveland, and Adrian Mighiletta of New York.

An interesting bit of the wedding detail is the gowning of the bridemaids, whose costumes are being fashioned after Romney, and are to be of white chiffon, with sashes of old blue satin and hats of the same color trimmed with plumes.

Chicagoans are interested in the wedding of Miss Lydia Genevieve Thatcher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Daniel Thatcher of Pueblo, Colo., and Robert Campbell Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Wheeler of 2962 Michigan avenue, which is to take place at 4:30 o'clock this evening in the First Presbyterian church of Pueblo. Dr. Weaver of Denver will officiate.

The wedding party will be large and will include Miss Lucia Elenore Thatcher, the bride's sister, who is to be the maid of honor; the bridemaids, Miss Katherine Lace and Miss Marion Forgan of Chicago, who, with Miss Thatcher, were members of a party touring Japan last year; Miss Winifred King, Miss Nancy Marshall, Miss Gwendolin Burgwin, and Miss Mary Rood of Pittsburg, all Vobis Ferry classmates of the bride, and Miss Luna Cooper and Miss Jessie Cooper, Pueblo friends. Mr. Wheeler is to have Morelle Stevens of Chicago for his best man and the ushers, many of them Yale friends of the groom, will be Ben Brown and Platt Rogers Jr. of Denver, Mahlon Everhart, Mahlon Thatcher, Thomas Downen Jr., John Wilder, Watson Davine, and Frank Capers of Pueblo. Mr. Thatcher and Mr. Wilder performing the added service of stretching the ribbons.

The bridal gown is to be of white satin, hand embroidered, the veil of tulle, and the bouquet a shower of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor will wear yellow chiffon over pink satin and carry yellow chrysanthemums, and the bridemaids' gowns will be shaded two and two from sunset pink to pale yellow pink trimmed with lace and rosebuds. The bouquets will be showers of small white chrysanthemums. The house and church will be decorated in chrysanthemums and southern smilax.

The meeting the bride and groom occurred at Harbor Point, Mich., three years ago. Mr. Thatcher has a large country home in Harbor Point and at the time it was being occupied by his family Mr. Wheeler was with his mother, who was spending some time at one of the clubs at Harbor Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler are to live at 67 St. James place, Chicago, and will be at home after Dec. 1.

The marriage of Miss Lucile Hamilton, daughter of Mrs. Douglas Elmore Hamilton, 6153 Kimbark avenue, and Gale Blocki took place last night at 8:30 o'clock in the Woodlawn Presbyterian church, the Rev. Edward Harvey Curtis performing the ceremony. Miss Louise Wells was the maid of honor and the bridemaids were Miss Persis Spencer and Miss Allen Williams. Zola C. Green of Oak Park, a cousin of the groom, was the best man. Jack Stevenson, a cousin of the groom, Clifford James, Frederick Bongle, Lester A. Keene, Edwin W. Sims, and Walter E. Buhell, the last another cousin, were the ushers. The bride was given away by her father. The wedding march was played by Miss Bertha Baugh. After the ceremony a reception for the family, relatives, and bridal party was given at the home of the bride's father. Mr. and Mrs. Blocki will be at home after Jan. 15 at 6134 Woodlawn avenue.

An interesting engagement, which has just been announced, is that of Miss Louise Shoenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George K. Schoenberger, 567 Division street, to Mr. Barret Conway of Chicago. The date of the wedding is not announced. Miss Shoenberger, who came out about two years ago, is the younger sister of the late Mrs. Paul Hamlin (Sallie Shoenberger), who was one of the most beautiful of the north side maids and young matrons of a few years ago.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Helen Johnston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Johnston of River Forest, to John Henry Ohlerking of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Satterly Looker announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Harriett Virginia Looker, to Charles Snell Fitzmorris. The wedding will take place Dec. 15.

Sidney Worthy went to New York last week to serve as an usher at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Stevenson, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Stevenson, and James Russell Harris of Philadelphia. The wedding took place on Saturday at the bride's country home, Cornwall-on-the-Hudson.

The date for the readings which will be given by John Fox for the benefit of the Home for Self-Supporting Women has been changed from Nov. 19 to Nov. 12. The readings will be given at the home of Mrs. James B. Waller, 200 East Superior street.

The Kemper Girls' alumni will give a luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club tomorrow.

"JOHNNY" HAND 77 YEARS OLD.

Veteran Musician Follows Custom of Years and Celebrates Birthday by Entertaining Relatives.

"Johnny" Hand refuses to be Oslerized. Yesterday he reached the seventy-seventh milepost of his existence, and, following a custom of years, he entertained in honor of the event at his residence, 497 Webster avenue.

Although most of the guests were drawn from the family circle, congratulatory messages and telegrams and flowers and gifts showered in upon the veteran musician. In the fifty-five years he has spent in Chicago he has played for the weddings, the fetes, the coming out parties and the dances for most of the city's socially elect, and it is the pride of the old days of "Johnny" Hand that generations come and generations go, but "Johnny" Hand goes right on playing for each one in its passing. During the past summer two engagements brought the old musician great pleasure—the wedding of Miss Pauline Kohlsaat and Potter Palmer Jr. in July, and the birthday dance of little Lolita Armour in September.

"Why," he says, "I played at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Palmer and at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Kohlsaat. I played at the coming out party of Miss Kohlsaat, who is now Mrs. Palmer, and now at his wedding. I played at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Armour, and now I am playing for the dances of little Lolita. I shall live to play for her coming out and, maybe, her wedding. Who knows?"

One of the entertainment details which has been a part of every birthday anniversary is the program of violin music which Mr. Hand has played for his guests, and this was not omitted last night.

Name Library Board Secretary.

H. G. Wilson was elected secretary of the Chicago public library board last night, to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of William B. Wickersham, who had held the position for thirty-six years. Mr. Wilson has been an employé of the library board for twenty-one years, much of the time as assistant secretary.

IN THE BOUDOIR

To Improve the Neck.

So many are the necks that have suffered from the wearing of the modish tight collars that every one is wondering what to do to restore the neck to its normal condition, as well as improve its appearance.

The pores of the neck and chest are often coarse and open, the skin becomes red and discolored, and ugly pimples appear. Although many women will doubtless think to the contrary, this condition is due to lack of cleanliness. It is a fact that the skin of the neck, chest, and throat will show neglect sooner than any other part of the body, consequently the woman who realizes the value of snowy shoulders and neck of delicate and fine texture will give them special attention. Aside from the daily warm bath, which every woman beautiful must take in order to be beautiful, the neck and shoulders should be carefully and thoroughly washed with warm water and soap or bran every night when the face is given its scrub. To massage one's own neck, place the fingers of one hand opposite those of the other, so that they will meet in the middle when spread out and then in a movement, in which the finger tips describe small circles, go over the entire surface front and back.

Cold Water for the Eyes.

It is refreshing for the eyes to bathe them either in hot or cold water. Take a piece of absorbent cotton and cut and round it into a little pad to fit the eyes. Dip the pads into ice water and lay them on the eyes until they become warm and then dip them again. This is especially grateful to the eyes, after one has been riding in the wind or dust and cinders.

IN THE SEWING ROOM

Economies for Home Sewer.

Never throw away a scrap of lace, large or small, real or imitation, even if it be badly soiled, for it easily can be washed and every scrap is worth saving even if it is only long enough to trim a collar, add to a stock, or finish the end of a tie, and you know a piece of lace seven or eight inches long may be seamed at the two ends and then be gathered tightly on the selvedge to make a dainty medallion to insert into a jabot or any other little thing.

Save all pieces of velvet unless they are hopelessly soiled and worn. Brush them carefully and roll on a cylinder of cardboard and put away for future use. They are sure to come in handy at some time for trimming a collar, piping a waist, or even adding a wee perky bow to the yoke of a waist.

The same treatment should be given ribbons and scraps of silks and satin. If carefully put away they will be ready for refreshing a waist or gown without any cleaning or preparation. Even allowing for the pieces which may be used, it will not take long before enough pieces have been saved to make a handsome silk patchwork quilt such as "grandmother" used to make or to have some of those stunning silk portieres made which blend so well with the colors of almost any room.

IN THE NURSERY

For Restless Child.

When a boy or girl is restless, cannot sit still or teases for something to do, it is possitive cruelty to insist upon quiet for fear of punishment. Every child that is healthy to a normal degree craves exercise. When a child is hungry we feed him and give him water when he is thirsty. If we respect these cravings of a child, why should we not give him employment when he has nothing to do and craves exercise? Romp with him for half an hour or take him for a walk or run and then he will be content to settle down to quieter games.

Don't have so many breakable ornaments about the house that the child is afraid to move and becomes nervous and cross from want of exercise. The child's health and well-being are more valuable than even the most costly bric-a-brac. If it is a rainy day provide some fascinating game or occupation. There is nothing which children love to do more than color pictures.

Give a child several old magazines, a box of water colors, and several paint brushes and he will be happy and contented for an hour or more.

TESTED RECIPES

Cabbage Croquettes.

Boil a head of cabbage in salted water for one hour. Have the butcher chop one pound round steak and one-half pound pork meat together. Into the meat put one egg, one onion chopped fine and scalded, one-half teaspoonful sugar, three-quarters cup milk, and a large handful of breadcrumbs; salt and pepper to taste. Mix thoroughly and form into egg shape croquettes. Around each meat ball roll a large leaf or two small leaves of the boiled cabbage and fasten with a toothpick. Place in roasting pan with a little water and roast for one hour. Turn when brown and baste occasionally.

Canapes.

Cut slices of wheat bread into squares, diamonds, or circular forms of about three inches in diameter. Mix two teaspoonfuls of grated cheese with one of butter; add a pinch of salt and a dash of red pepper. Chop olives or pickles, and make a narrow border around the spread side of the bread. Place a small piece of sweet red pepper in center. A pretty effect is obtained by using the olives that are stuffed with red for the border.

Brown Gravy.

To make a pint of good browning for gravy put into a can lid one tablespoon of sugar and one tablespoon of water. Put on stove and boil until real black. While still boiling put it (can lid and all) into a jar and pour a pint of boiling water on it. One good tablespoon of this fluid will brown a pan of gravy, without affecting the taste.

MRS. GEORGE SMITH.

In the DINING ROOM

Well Set Table.

Every well kept table has a centerpiece nowadays. Of course, the ideal way is to have fresh cut flowers constantly on the table, but, except in summer, this is impossible for the majority of people, and even then it requires more time renewing them and caring for them than the average busy housewife can spare. A centerpiece one must have, however, and the woman who realizes the importance of a daintily and attractively set table will set about to get the prettiest substitute for cut flowers that she can. Dainty little china fern dishes can be bought for a small sum, and if the housewife will buy one of these, fill it with rich, black earth, and a dainty little wood fern, she will find that it will be fresh and green all winter with but little care. If the fern dish is placed on a table mirror in the center of the table the reflection of the fern will give the effect of a larger centerpiece than there really is. Even the most particular and exacting of people could find no fresher and daintier centerpiece than this bit of transplanted woodland.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE

Preventing Flow of Blood.

In cases where a wound has been inflicted which bleeds continuously tea dust will be found excellent to stop the flow of blood. Cover the wound thickly with the tea dust and bind a piece of cotton over it to keep it in place. Brown sugar is said by many persons to be excellent for stopping the flow of blood. When the blood has ceased to flow apply laudanum to the wound.

To Clean Wall Paper.

The first thing to do in cleaning wall paper is to brush the walls thoroughly by means of a duster tied firmly over a broom. Substitute clean dusters frequently until all the dust has been removed.

Then cut a stale loaf of bread in four pieces and with this lightly wipe the walls, holding the bread by the crust. Begin at the top and rub down—never upwards or across.

FINDS AUDIENCE ILL DRESSED

Prof. Edmund Buckley Startles the Chicago Culture Club.

CALLS NEW STYLES FRIGHTS.

Nevertheless He Says Chicago Women Lead as to Clothes.

It is a breach of hospitality to accept an invitation to address an assemblage of stylishly attired women and then point out that not one of the women present is correctly dressed Prof. Edmund Buckley of the University of Chicago must answer to this charge.

At any rate many members of the Chicago Culture club, whose favorite gowns were denounced as "frights," think that Prof. Buckley is a mean, mean man. While he didn't tell the club members bluntly that they lacked taste in the selection of their gowns, he described some which were not six feet distant from him and in the direct line of his vision and set forth that they were "furies."

Aiming an accusing eye at a bevy of young women who wore fluffy white dresses of lace and embroidery the speaker declared that a woman who walked down the street in a white dress looked as big as a wagon load of coal. Then, as if this were not enough, he scanned a row of costumes composed of white waists and black skirts and classified them as "impossible."

Women Discuss Prof. Buckley.

On the conclusion of the address the women gathered about the parlors of the West Side Masonic temple, where the meeting was held, in a somewhat stunned state of mind. Before Prof. Buckley had set his seal of condemnation upon the white dress somebody had told Mrs. F. G. Culver that the white lace creation which she wore "was a dream."

"Suppose I'll have to throw it away now," Mrs. Culver sighed at the close of the meeting. "I couldn't afford to wear a white dress after that remark, could I?"

The sympathetic listener admitted that it hardly would be possible, though it seemed a shame.

Mrs. Frank L. Hubbard, wearing a neat brown checked suit which had come in for its share of the general denunciation, stepped over to a corner where Mrs. Edgar T. Hall, wearer of a lavender gown which would have been admired before Prof. Buckley's address, was standing.

"Misery loves company. Let's decide that Prof. Buckley doesn't know what real art in dress is," suggested Mrs. Hubbard.

"Agreed," said Mrs. Hall.

Other Women Behind Chicago's.

But Prof. Buckley had many nice things to tell the clubwomen, anyway. He said that he had seen the women of every great city of Europe and that those of Chicago were away ahead of them in dress. The east side of State street, he said, with its beautiful women and attractive gowns and hats, was the most inspiring sight one could look upon.

"The full length mirror is a boon to mankind," he added. "What woman wishes merely to see her head and shoulders? The costume should be viewed as a harmonious whole, not in parts."

Then he leveled a body blow at the new "no-hip" gowns which were given by the dressmakers' convention as being the proper thing.

"The ideal woman's figure should be an oval," said he. "The head, comparatively narrow, then the broader shoulders and then the hips, which should be broader than the shoulders. The figure then should narrow down to the feet."

This is a great number; bulging out with human interest; intensely entertaining from cover to cover. The American Magazine has been climbing steadily. In quality it is now at the top and in circulation it is about three rungs from the top with both hands on the top rung. This November number should "boost" the circulation at least one rung. It looks that way this week.

Maroons and Gophers Work for Big Game. Baseball Gossip. Turf.

GOPHER VS. MAROON CONTEST OF WEEK.

Defeat on Saturday Means Elimination from Claims for the Title.

ELEVENS HARD AT WORK.

Stagg Seeks to Bolster Weak Line, While Williams Labors with New Offense.

BY WALTER H. ECKERSALL.

The Chicago and Minnesota football teams are working hard this week in preparing for their great battle on Saturday on Marshall field. Since the restoration of athletic relations between these two institutions in 1906 each has won a game. Minnesota came down to Chicago in 1906 and wrested the western championship from the Maroons and last year the Maroons returned the compliment at Minneapolis.

The winner of Saturday's contest will meet Wisconsin later in the season for the western title. The Badgers is the only western team which has not had its goal line crossed. Both Chicago and Minnesota have been scored on by supposedly inferior teams.

If the present weather conditions continue Minnesota, with its advantage in weight, should rule favorite, as Chicago's plays will be next to useless on a wet field. Its speed also would be hindered and the game would revert to old style tactics.

Line Claims Stagg's Time.

This week Stagg will devote a great deal of attention to his line. If the forwards can be bolstered up to successfully withstand the onslaughts of the Gophers Chicago should win, but if the line weakens Minnesota will stand a mighty good chance of taking away another victory.

If Minnesota gets the ball inside Chicago's forty yard line a score is likely to result, as the heavy Gopher line should outplay its opponents in this distance. The northerners always have a powerful, concentrated attack, and it will take the best devised defense at Stagg's command to stop these plays.

Minnesota's line will be stronger than Chicago's, as it has the weight and aggressiveness, and many of the players are experienced. The Maroon ends will be stronger and the two halves should outclass their opponents. Piankers is a better fullback than any of the Midway candidates. Steffen should outkick Atkinson. The former has the experience and knows what to expect from the Gophers, having played against them for two years.

Maroons Play New Game.

Chicago will excel at the new game and Minnesota at the old style. Stagg has few plays of the old régime and has built his formations to suit his material. He has players who can handle the forward pass with the accuracy of a ball player throwing a baseball. The basketball ability of Page and Schomer, the ends, has stood them in good stead since they began to play football, as both are reasonably sure in catching the passes.

The game should be a great battle between these modern rivals, and those who attend it will see a contest that will compare favorably with other championship games. Both teams have been especially prepared for this issue, and nothing will be conceded. As the followers of other western coaches figure this contest the hardest on the schedule and a victory for either may mean the championship.

It is hardly likely that the Minnesota coach has shown his hand in the games already played. It is almost certain that the Gophers are better with the forward pass than reports have them. They have showed they are a strong defensive team, and it will take a mighty good offense to cross their goal line.

Steffen Excels in Punting.

Chicago is a little better fortified in the kicking department. Schommer will be a dangerous man inside the forty yard line, as he has been extremely accurate in his attempts this year and with Steffen to do the punting Chicago will have an advantage which might go a long way in deciding the game.

While the Minnesota game will attract a share of the interest in western football, other games will be played which also are important. The Nebraska-Iowa game should be close. The Cornhuskers will be a worthy foe for the Hawkeyes because of their showing against Minnesota, holding the Gophers to a tie game. The early claims of the great strength of Iowa have not materialized and Coach Catlin will have to instill more fight into his team to be successful in this game. Against Missouri, which defeated Iowa a week ago, the Hawkeyes played ragged football.

Illinois will play its first conference game at home with Indiana. The Hoosiers have been beaten by Chicago and Wisconsin this year and must win from Illinois to make a creditable showing. The downstaters have shown improvement since the Chicago game and by playing the same article of football against Indiana as they did against Chicago should win. Reports have it that Sheldon has improved his team since the Wisconsin defeat and will put a better team in the field at Urbana.

Task Set for Michigan.

Michigan will meet Vanderbilt at Ann Arbor in what should be a hotly contested football battle. On the two previous meetings of these rivals the Michigan has won through the ability of its kickers. In 1906 when these elevens first met Johnny Garrells decided the issue by booting the ball over the goal when all other means failed. Last year at Nashville Ocky Graham came to the rescue with two well placed field goals and brought victory back to Ann Arbor. This year Allerdice has been doing the bulk of the scoring by the air line route and undoubtedly will make several attempts in this game. All alone he decided the issue at Columbus last Saturday by making a field goal and a touchdown.

Wisconsin is liable to meet a tartar in Marquette, the team which held Illinois to a tie score early in the season. The Badgers if they escape with a whole hide will journey to Minneapolis to give the Gophers battle on the following Saturday, and the importance of this battle can better be discerned after the game between Chicago and Minnesota.

Marquette in Limelight.

The Badgers will have to play football all the time to win, as Juneau's team is not a weak aggregation by any means, and is well versed in all departments of the game. This will be a hard contest one week before the Minnesota game, and the Badgers will be lucky to have their team come through in good shape.

Followers of football have not finished talking of the shooting of Northwestern last Saturday. Nothing but praise was heard for the Purple in football circles yesterday.

PLAN TO LESSEN INJURIES.

Captains and Managers of High School Teams Instructed to Warn Players Against "Piling On."

F. A. Houghton, chairman of the Cook county high school football board of control, called a meeting of the board yesterday for the express purpose of lessening injuries in high school contests.

Instructions were given the captains and managers of the various teams to warn their players against "piling on" and using their hands in the interference. Houghton claims these are the causes of so many injuries this year and is of the opinion that if the players bear these points in mind fewer damages will result.

The officials will be notified to penalize every infraction of the rules and the board with the cooperation of officials and players expects to lessen the accidents.

It was pointed out there is no need of "piling on" if the officials strictly will enforce the rules, which state that the ball is dead the moment its forward progress is stopped and when any part of the player's body carrying the ball touches the ground with the exception of his hands and feet. Use of the hands in the interference also is a violation of the rules. The penalty for an infraction of either rule is fifteen yards to the offended team. Strict officials can eradicate these troubles, and the board as far as possible will endeavor to get competent men.

Another purpose of the meeting was to stop certain teams from withdrawing from the league and this was accomplished, as all agreed to finish the season.

Another point discussed was lack of funds to defray the expenses of the games. In the games already played some of the teams have not made expenses and consequently have run into debt. Houghton urged the managers to get their tickets out for the games early in the week instead of selling them at the gate, as has been the case with most of the managers. The chairman was of the opinion that expenses can be made in this manner, as many students will purchase tickets even if they do not attend the games.

Marlo Beats Deshler.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Although no decision was permitted in the ten round bout between Dave Deshler of Cambridge and Jack Marlo of New York, Marlo clearly had the best of it. Deshler started in strong, but Marlo went after him in the eighth round and he was dazed and almost out at the end of the tenth.

Rain and Injuries Put Crimp in Chances of Maroons.

FORWARD PASS GONE ASTRAY

Backs and Ends Unable to Handle Slippery Ball; Freshmen Score.

If Coach A. Alonzo Stagg was yearning to test his football team under wet weather conditions, he secured his wish yesterday. He also drew a good line on what his open-work plays will look like against Minnesota on Saturday in case of continued showers as he watched his "delicate" warriors splash and fumble on the muddy practice field.

The rain put the whole team in an awful funk, and the result was as depressing a session as the director has staged this year. The varsity team beat the freshmen 11 to 5 in a half hour scrimmage, but allowed the first year aspirants to plow up the line and thwart much of the foxiness Stagg has been trying to teach his men.

Stagg had no choice as to whether the back field was worse than the line or vice versa. The backs and ends foozled every forward pass they tried with only one exception. Steffen, Crowley, and Rogers in the back field as well as Schommer and Page found the pigskin too slippery to handle and consequently they gave a wretched exhibition of the new plays.

Worthwine at Full Back.

Worthwine finally was given a clear and undisputed title to all the rights and privileges of the full back position. Schott was unable to lift his left leg more than a foot from the ground when Stagg locked him over, and as a result the regular full back probably will be on the side lines the entire game. Worthwine will start in his place, understudied by Falk, who will have to jump out of the line if Worthwine should be incapacitated.

The line made a weak showing against the freshmen, who succeeded in pushing their elders up and down the field on numerous rushes. The light forwards proved themselves unable to stand up to scratch in the mud, and Stagg had a bad half hour observing the imitation "stone wall" in its efforts to make good against the husky "fresh" eleven.

Falk was played at right tackle, Kelley being shoved over to right guard in the signal drill. Kelley had to leave the field in the middle of the session because of a badly strained shoulder and a bruised nerve in his neck. He was given heroic treatment in the hope of bringing him round today in good shape, but the hospital experts fear he may be out of it entirely unless he improves today.

Stagg in a Quandary.

The left side of the line is still in an unsettled state, as Stagg has yet to pick the man for left guard. Elliott was used there in the scrimmage and seems to be the logical candidate for the place. Meigs and Hirschl were tried and one of them stands a good chance of playing in the Gopher game.

"In addition to this rain the linemen are not doing as well as I expected," said Stagg as he emerged wet and muddy from the submarine practice. "I had hoped to develop the 'rules' to a point of efficiency before the Minnesota game, but it looks like a hopeless task. Left guard will have to be filled from the ranks of the substitutes, none of whom are really prepared for it. I don't believe the 'subs' will be right for a couple of weeks yet.

"I have had more word from Minneapolis concerning Minnesota's strength. I understand the backs are all 'at' men—faster than last year. That looks like trouble from them as well as from the heavy line."

"SCOOP" ARTISTS TAKE PART IN ANNUAL GOLF TOURNAMENT

Howard Briceland Captures Chatfield-Taylor Trophy for Newspaper Men at Onwentsia—Fullerton Third.

Howard M. Briceland of "The Chicago Tribune" yesterday won the sixth annual competition for the H. C. Chatfield-Taylor trophy emblematic of the championship of the Chicago newspaper profession.

Sunday's rain left the Onwentsia course in fine condition, and the play of the scribes was above the average. Briceland won with a score of 105—8—93. R. F. Wyrick of the Associated Press finishing second with 110—8—102 and Eddie Fullerton of "The Chicago Tribune" third with 106—3—103. J. F. Brady was fourth with 185—30—103, J. Solgeld of the Chicago Examiner fifth with 128—20—100, and J. G. Davis sixth with 116—3—103.

Word was received in Chicago yesterday that Arthur Copp, former Chicago city champion, and once winner of the Chicago newspaper championship, had won the state championship of Utah by beating F. E. McGurrin 2 up in the thirty-six hole final of the Salt Lake Country club.

The failure of three Onwentsia members to remain for dinner Saturday night made them ineligible to prizes in the last event of the autumn roundup and settled all bets of the clan. E. U. Kimbark, who was tied with W. A. Alexander in the eighteen hole medal handicap, was absent from the feast, and the latter got the prize. Alexander was tied with Bland Ballard in the morning match against par, but as he could not take two prizes Ballard got that one. J. V. Farwell went home to dine and the prize in the afternoon handicap reverted to W. Vernon Booth. Booth was tied with Taylor in the afternoon handicap against par, and so that prize had to go to Taylor. D. R. Forgan, Thomas Taylor, Jr., and Clyde V. Carr tied at 73 in the choice score event. Forgan went home. Taylor had won another prize, so Carr got it.

The Beverly Country club has come to the rescue of the Western Professional Golfers' association, and largely through the efforts of George O'Neil the annual championship will be held there today.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY HEK.

AFTER HUGHES—"WHAT!"

Fair and softly here. As goes New York so goes the country on the racing lay. Mr. Hughes has passed himself up to the state on his record. The Personal Liberty league has assailed him on that record and tells us there is a glowing chance to beat him.

With what?

The Personal Liberty league seems to be waging a campaign of revenge with little chance of getting anything for itself.

The Personal Liberty league tells us that the effacement of Mr. Hughes is absolutely necessary, but it offers nothing in exchange for him that promises anything better or looks even likely.

The defeat of Mr. Hughes necessarily means the victory of Lewis Stuyvesant Astor Chanler, game bird, rich card, good fellow, for there is nothing else running that looks like a look-in.

How about Lewis Stuyvesant Astor Chanler?

There was a time when Lewis Stuyvesant and the rest of it could have risen superior to Mr. Hughes on the point at issue with the Personal Liberty league. A statesman of the old régime could have put the eternal kibosh on the Hart-Agnew bill by swinging the deciding vote, a privilege which comes to a lieutenant governor once in a century.

What did he do—this Mr. Chanler, who is expected through the defeat of Mr. Hughes to enhance the value of the Personal Liberty thing?

He swung with the "personal conscience" and enabled Mr. Hughes to put it over.

Politics is a funny thing, but the only lesson that comes home to the ingenue is that when a person does something he should be expected to repeat under similar circumstances.

The transfer of Riley to the Kentucky Breeding bureau is said to mark the passing of Edward Corrigan as a breeder of thoroughbreds. Riley is a son of Longfellow, dam Geneva, by War Dance, and he typified the old master's ideas along breeding lines. "Longfellow and War Dance" was the favorite with this old warhorse, who would rather talk pedigrees than start a fight, and that is saying a lot. Mr. Corrigan as a breeder never went in strongly for scientific theories. He had stubborn faith in Longfellow and War Dance and he made all the scientific breeders respect him for it. If ever the thoroughbred comes back to his own he will talk of Freeland, Modesty, Pearl Jennings, Lizzie Dwyer and Riley.

In football an even score constitutes a win.

Just about now over at some they are taking us severely to task for the rules we have laid down governing the races for the much mooted America's cup. It is averred that they preclude the possibility of an English yacht winning the trophy. O, very well. We have simply been trimming our sails to suit Sir Thomas Lipton, who is somewhat on the Bryan lay, inasmuch as he can get more glory out of losing than winning.

Everything was going smoothly in the boxing way in New York until the promoters got to cracking it too raw. 'Twas ever thus.

Our English commissioner informs us that there was a notable assemblage at Newmarket on the day Lady de Bathe's Yentol won the Cesarewitch, when the fair owner [better known to you, perhaps, as Mrs. Langtry] closed in on some twenty thousand quid. Among those present was Mrs. Albert Petre, who is always keenly interested in horses. She with Mrs. Ansell was in the paddock. Her dress, however, was of coarse mauve shantung and her cafe au lait hat had heliotrope ostrich feathers.

What do they teach the red brother at Carlisle besides football?

We regret to note that the management of the Vanderbilt cup race has made the annual mess of it.

Owing to the inclemency of the weather in this season made and provided Minor Heir did not put any records on the blink out on the west side yesterday.

Dipping again into politics it seems that one who is on the Personal Liberty lay is not taking much of a chance, no matter how he votes in the county affair. Both live candidates have subscribed to our platforms: "Give a gentleman what he wants."

There is little wonder that the former heavyweight champions should be jealous of Tommy Burns. The privilege of driving such hard bargains was not vouchsafed them.

The story that Johnny Evers will assume the management of the Cardinals next year is going galloping through the headlines of the western papers with the sympathetic and authoritative contradiction foundering hopelessly in the rear.

Our pet little picture maker and our pet little yachting expert are now administering it to Broadway or having it administered to them.

President S. E. Loveless has donated a prize for the best choice score at nine holes and there will be four other cash prizes. Play will be at thirty-six holes.

A number of players practiced over the course yesterday and made fair scores in the rain. Among those who will compete are National Champion Fred McLeod of Midlothian, Western Champion Willie Anderson of Onwentsia, Willie Maxwell of Onwentsia; George O'Neil, Beverly; Harry Turple, Edgewater, Stewart Gardner, Exmoor; J. Croke, Grand Rapids; Walter and G. Fovargue, Skokie; C. W. H. Way, Joe Mitchell, Art Boggs, Cleveland; Otto Hackbarth, St. Louis; R. White, Ravisloe; Harry Collis, Homewood; James Foulis, Calumet; David Foulis, Chicago; A. Nayler, La Grange; David McIntosh, Westward Ho; James Simpson, Riverside.

Yachtsmen to Hold Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Yacht Racing Union of the Great Lakes will be held at the Auditorium Annex, Chicago, next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. This union is composed of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, which includes nine clubs on Lake Michigan; the Interlake Yachting association, which consists of fourteen clubs on Lakes Huron, St. Clair, and Erie, and the Lake Yacht Racing association, which is composed of the seven Canadian and American clubs on Lake Ontario.

MINNESOTA WORKS IN RAIN

Heavy Field on Saturday Would Be to Gophers' Liking.

PRACTICE ON FORWARD PASS

Eleven Will Leave for Chicago Thursday with Rooters Following.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Two more days of hard scrimmage play, then light work, and the Gophers must be ready to meet the veteran Chicago team in the big game of the year.

Rain every day for a week has greatly interfered with the practice on Northrop field. A heavy blanket of hay has covered the gridiron much of the time, but this was not sufficient to absorb the heavy downfall of rain and the field has been muddy each day. Much of the practice has been held in the rain.

Minnesota followers are trying to comfort themselves, however, by the thought that in case of rain Saturday Dr. Williams' men will be at their best.

Drill on Forward Pass.

After the scrimmage today the first team spent nearly an hour in the big gymnasium running through the new formations. Coach Williams was not satisfied with the work and play after play had to be repeated. The forward pass is causing the coaches much anxiety. As yet no man has shown any degree of precision in hurling the ball and the ends are clumsy in getting under it.

Radsmaker and Pettijohn are the logical ends because of their speed and strength upon defense, but as forward pass artists they are far from satisfactory. Radamaker has been kept from much of the scrimmage play because of a bad wrench to his shoulder. It is probable that he will be able to start in the Chicago game, although he may give way to Grimes in the second half. The charging machine is used daily in an effort to strengthen the Gopher attack. The men keep together in good shape and on line bucks and plays off tackle make consistent gains through the scrubs.

Team in Chicago on Friday.

In punting McGovern is improving, but is still a little slow in starting, but the ends follow his punts in good form and generally nail their man in his tracks. As a goal kicker McGovern is a failure and there is no man on the team who can with any degree of certainty execute a field goal even from the 20 yard line.

The team leaves for Chicago Thursday night and will have light signal practice in Chicago on Friday. The party will number over forty and will stop at the Chicago Beach hotel.

A block of tickets was put on sale today and the demand was brisk. From present indications a merry following of Maroon and Gold rooters will be on hand to encourage Coach Williams' men.

PLAY IN RAIN AT EVANSTON.

Northwestern Football Men Practice on Wet Field—Players Stiff from Beloit Game.

The Northwestern university football squad practiced last night in a drizzling rain. The men were stiff from their game with Beloit on Saturday, but all showed up for practice except Jacobson. His absence was not explained.

Manley, who had two teeth broken and received a severe kick in the nose, has a sore face, but he was working last evening. August, captain and full back, has a sore shoulder, but the place where it was feared he would receive serious injury, his ankle, escaped unharmed.

No scrimmage was held, the time being spent in punting and running signals. Director Gillesby and Coaches Connor and Johnson refused to say anything about the prospects of the Purdue game on Nov. 7. Gillesby admitted that he expects a hard, close fight.

The men will be given a couple of days to wear off their soreness and tomorrow they will line up for scrimmage with the Evanston academy. Williams, who was notified last Friday that the law school rules forbade his playing in the Saturday game, has a petition before the faculty that will be acted on Nov. 3. In the meantime he is keeping in condition.

FIGHTS ARE HELD IN NEW YORK.

Roman A. C. Pulls Off Six Bouts, Otto Outpointing Erne in Windup—Police Stop One Show.

New York, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The Roman A. C. held its weekly show tonight, and six bouts scheduled were contested without police interference. Two other clubs, the Manhattan in Harlem and the Bedford in Brooklyn, did not attempt to hold their scheduled fights, and at Bay Ridge A. C. the police stopped the bouts. In the star bout, at the Roman, "Young" Otto outpointed "Young" Erne of Philadelphia. Otto opened a gash over Erne's eye in the fourth round, and in the last round he landed several stiff punches. Erne did not appear to be fighting at his best.

Sullivan Knocks Out Crawford.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—There was no question about the decisiveness of Tommy Sullivan's victory over Tommy Crawford, the Frisco fighter, at the West End A. C. tonight. The ex-Lawrence [Mass.] boy, who claims Philadelphia as his home, laid Crawford cold in the fifth round of what was scheduled to be the usual six round engagement.

Dick Nelson Beats Gannon.

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Dick Nelson of New York had a shade the best of a six round bout with Mickey Gannon in Turner hall here tonight. The Copenhagen man, however, had to go all the way to keep out of the way of the heavy hitting Pennsylvania man. In hitting and getting away, the Dane showed wonderful cleverness.

CHANCE TO BOLT CHICAGO WEATHER

Peerless Leader Decides to Spend the Winter in California.

SCHULTE HAS AN OFFER!

St. Louis Young Woman Willing to Become Mrs. Frank; News from the Woods.

Manager Frank Chance of the Cubs will spend the winter in California. The Peerless Leader yesterday announced that he would take his departure on Saturday and that he will not return to Chicago until next spring. It was thought that Chance might spend the winter in Chicago, but he declared yesterday that the cold weather was too strenuous for him.

Frank Schulte, who has the distinction of being the only bachelor Cub (Evers is to be married on Jan. 2) is still in Chicago, but will leave probably on Thursday or Friday for his home in the east. Schulte is not to remain a bachelor long, if the fair sex can help it. The crack outfielder has received a letter from a young women in St. Louis, who announced her willingness to aid Schulte to become a benedict. But Schulte has not decided yet.

Several of the world's champion Cubs will leave on a hunting expedition tomorrow, the party including Pitcher Orval Overall, Pitcher "Chick" Fraser, and Secretary Charles Williams. The Nimrods are going to Lakewood, Wis., having heard that the shooting was good in that section of the state. They will remain in the woods for ten days.

Fraser Would a Farmer Be.

Fraser said yesterday that the Idaho farm project is a go and that Lundgren also had decided to purchase a place in the far western state. "Lundy," according to Fraser, has positively decided to sell out his farm at Marengo, Ill. Members of the White Sox who have been barnstorming in this neck of the woods since the close of the season left for their homes last night, while others will depart today. Pitcher Doc White, Frank Smith, Nick Altrock, and Billy Purtell were among those leaving. White goes to Washington to look after his sporting goods emporium. Smith to Pittsburg to juggle a few pianos during the winter season, and Altrock to Cincinnati. Jakey Ata will go to New Orleans tonight.

Word was received yesterday that President Comiskey's house boat White Sox was not badly damaged when it sunk in the Mississippi river near Burlington, Ia., on Saturday. Manager Joe Cantillon of the Washington club, a member of the cruising party, telegraphed that the boat would be afloat tomorrow and that all hands would continue the trip to Tennessee to the hunting camp there.

Jim Delehanty, the Washington player who came into the public eye quite prominently the last season through President Johnson barring him from the Cleveland grounds, was in the city a couple of hours yesterday. Delehanty has signed as a member of the team which is to be taken to Japan to play this winter, and left last night for San Francisco to join his teammates. Davy Jones of the Detroit club also is here, but will leave today for his home in Michigan.

Hunters Back from Woods.

Robert McRoy, secretary of the American league, returned yesterday from the Wisconsin woods, where he has been gunning and fishing with President Ban Johnson of the league, President Johnson of the American league, and a party of nimrods. Among others who returned were Secretary John E. Bruce of the national commission, Jesse C. Matteson, P. F. McCarthy, John Burns, Ruth Burns, William Muller, and others.

Comiskey and Johnson will remain another week cementing that old bond of friendship which was interrupted for several years. According to the returning members of the party the two founders of the American league are constantly in each other's presence and on one occasion sat up all night recounting the early difficulties of their organization, and then started out at 5 o'clock in the morning with two guides and a boat to seek a deer shot the day before.

Game has been scarce, but by the time the pilgrims return there will be marvelous tales of big kill—that is if precedent counts for anything. Fish stories also should be good, for, according to one version of the party, Johnson had caught a twenty-five pound "muskie." How much it will weigh by the time of their return can only be conjectured.

REDS START ON CUBAN TRIP.

Thirteen Members of Cincinnati Team Leave to Play Series of Games Against Island Leagues.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 26.—Thirteen members of the Cincinnati baseball club left here today for Cuba, where they will play the leading clubs of the Cuban league. The expedition is in charge of Frank C. Bancroft, business manager of the Cincinnati club. The following players are in the party: McLean, Pearce, Spade, Dubuc, Campbell, Hoblitzel, Huggins, Lobert, Hulswitt, Mitchell, and Kane.

Support for George McGurn.

George McGurn, president of the Chicago Football league and candidate on the democratic ticket for member of the board of assessors of Cook county, was indorsed last night by members of the football league, which held a meeting at 10 and 12 Clark street. Resolutions were adopted to support the candidacy of McGurn.

GAMES IN BOWLING LEAGUES.

Glenwoods Average 976 and Twice Defeat the Century Five in the Chicago Tournament.

Three consistent games in the Chicago Bowling league last night gave the Glenwoods an average of 976 and the series from the Centurys, the former national champions getting one out of three. Meyers led with 216 1-3. Preussman notching 206 2-3. In the other series the Torettis won the add from the Halls, averaging 954 1-3.

The Donohues and Woodlawns had a close struggle in the Lincoln league, the former side averaging 968 and the latter 946 2-3. Collier again starred with an average of 226 1-3, Brown getting 218 2-3. Scores:

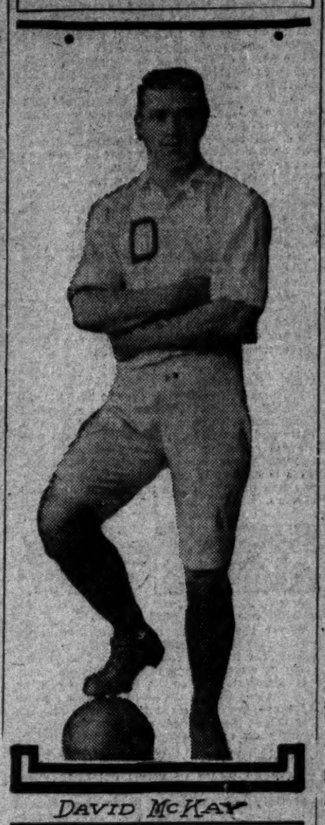
Soccer Star Who Will Play Here.



DAVID McKAY

David McKay, who has located in Chicago, is expected to prove a valuable addition to the local soccer colony. He has played in Denver for three years and previous to that was a member of the famous Bolton Wanderers of the English football league. He also played with two of the first league Scottish teams, Dundee and Aberdeen. Denver critics rate him as the best forward in America.

GOSSIP OF THE PUGILISTS.

Champion Billy Papke Departs for the Coast to Prepare for Turkey Day Battle Against Ketchel.

With Champion Billy Papke's departure yesterday for the Pacific coast, where he will begin hard training for his fight with Stanley Ketchel on Thanksgiving day, the attention of the fight following public again will switch from the east, where Packey McFarland just now is the whole show, to the other side of the continent to watch developments in the coming middleweight championship battle which from present indications will cause as much interest as the other bouts between the "Thunderbolt" and his rival from Grand Rapids.

The loser of the fight will have no excuses to make. Ketchel has been hard at work in the coast hills for some time past and has passed up entirely the dissipation for which he blamed his downfall in the last bout. If he has not already undermined his constitution past the mending he should be in as perfect condition as possible when he meets his Kewanee opponent and nothing will serve to palliate defeat.

As for Papke, he, too, will be in his best form, in fact, he says he has had poor condition to offer as an explanation for his showing in any of the battles in which he has taken part. He is not one to let overconfidence interfere with his training and Ketchel will meet the same opponent physically, but a much better one scientifically, than he went up against before.

Provided Ketchel wins from Papke it is quite probable that a match will be arranged between Stanley and Sam Langford, the negro fighter, who has been endeavoring for some time to get on with either of the top notchers in the middleweight division. Ketchel's manager, Joe O'Connor, has stated that in case his man wins, Langford will be the next opponent of Stanley.

Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, and Jim Barry, the Chicago heavyweight, will meet in Los Angeles on Nov. 6. Barry is the favorite at 10 to 8, but there is little betting on the event.

Ad Wolgast, the little Milwaukee fighter, is having a difficult time of it out in Los Angeles and is sadly in need of a manager, guide, and friends. He has been endeavoring to run his own affairs for some time past and is meeting with experience a la Packey McFarland when the Chicago lightweight cut loose from his mentor, Harry Gilmore. All arrangements were made for a twenty round bout for Ad with Abe Attel in the other corner, when the Milwaukee lad cut in and insisted that the bout must be for twenty-five rounds. Nothing the boxing magnates of the coast could advise served to change Ad's opinions and the match has fallen through, for the present at least.

Jim Jeffries thinks that Rudy Unholz can whip Bat Nelson in a finish fight. Jim, however, got his reputation by fighting rather than as a picker of winners.

There are a number of bush fights going on these days about Chicago. The latest was on Sunday, when Billy Heller, a stockyards heavy, knocked out George Debray in three rounds before a few score fight famished fans who had the tip and followed the lead to a spot where the bruisers were unmolested. The men fought on the slippery turf and Heller had the best of the battle all the way.

Kentucky Racing Commission Files Answer to Latonia Jockey Club.

TESTS LEGALITY OF BODY

Outcome of Suit Will Have Important Bearing on Future of Blue Grass Sport.

Latonia, Ky., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—The fight between the Kentucky racing commission and the Latonia Jockey club is now fairly in the courts for settlement.

The racing commission at a meeting today made it a legal issue by filing a formal answer to the injunction suit instituted against it by the club last week. While the purport of the suit is to prevent the commission from interfering with bookmaking at the track its trial will in reality resolve into a test of the validity of the law creating the commission. The case will be argued later in the week.

The Kenton county grand jury, in session at Independence, is investigating the betting and track and it is expected it will return indictments against the managers in a day or two. If the indictments are found they probably will be held in abeyance, pending the outcome of the injunction suit before Judge Harbeson.

RACING MEN SEE A LOOPHOLE.

Defect Is Discovered in Locke Anti-Racing Law and Test Will Be Made in Court.

New Orlans, La., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—What is regarded as a vulnerable spot in the Locke Anti-racing law has been discovered and a test of the measure is to be made in the court, according to announcement of those in charge of the local club.

The alleged defect upon which the race track people hang hopes is said to be a missing word in the enumeration of those forbidden to encourage, promote, aid or assist" bookmaking. The clause forbids any person from taking part in bookmaking as an "agent, owner, officer or employe."

The race track promoters believe that the omission of the word "lessee" will give them a loophole.

Racetrack Men Are Let Go.

New York, Oct. 26.—Sol Lichtenstein, Orlando A. Jones, and five other lesser known frequenters of the race tracks were discharged from custody and the charges of violating the Agnew-Hart anti-gambling laws were dismissed today by Magistrate Geismar of Brooklyn. The magistrate said the distinguishing feature of bookmaking or having a stand, posting odds, exchange of money, and making records in such a way as to conduct a public gambling business. The accused, he said, walked about talking to people to obtain bets. They also bet with the owners of certain stands as bookbackers. This, the magistrate said, was not bookmaking.

Springfield, O., Oct. 26.—[Special.]—A left swing to the jaw followed by two right short arm uppercuts made Jack Morgan of Indianapolis the winner in his bout with "Kid" Lee of Baltimore here tonight in the ninth round. Lee made an attempt to get up, and he was sick at his stomach for some minutes. In the early rounds Lee had an advantage at in-fighting, but he was no match for Morgan at long range.

STOCKS FIRM FROM TAFT HOPE

Pre-Election Business Dull but Prices Are Steady.

COPPER METAL IS UP AGAIN.

Net Increase Over September, 1907, in Atchison Earnings.

[NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—[Special.]—Business in today's stock market was kept within narrow bounds by the approach of election day, but the confidence the financial community has in the result was reflected in the steadiness of prices. A matter contributing to this firmness of securities was the practical unanimity with which all forecasts of the presidential vote conceded to Mr. Taft a safe majority in the electoral college.

It was felt that such estimates were much more trustworthy this year than in many previous contests, for the reason that there has been less bitter partisanship to color the returns.

Price of Copper Metal Up Again.

However strong as is its hope, the disposition of Wall street is nevertheless to go slowly in taking on commitments in the stock market, and unless something of a radical nature occurs to change this, markets during the remainder of the week probably will strongly resemble today's.

There was another advance in the price of copper metal on the local metal exchange, making the third move of this kind within as many business days, and the earnings statement of the Atchison for September showed a decrease of only $170,000 in gross returns as compared with September of last year and an increase in net of $451,000.

An interesting report was that the United States Rubber company directors, owing to the exceptionally favorable position of the money market, were considering a plan for caring for the company's outstanding obligations through an issue of securities bearing a lower rate of interest. The company's credit is excellent and such an operation undoubtedly will prove feasible. The proposal illustrates the much better conditions that surround industrial financing as compared with those existing a year ago and even two years ago.

Money Rates About the Same.

Local banks began the week with a small loss to the subtreasury on routine transactions, but there is no expectation in banking circles that any demand for funds by the interior will spring up to cause a substantial cash loss by the week's close. The season for the movement to the interior is too nearly closed.

Money rates practically were unchanged here and at European centers, only trifling differences were reported. The Bank of France again secured practically all the gold reaching the London market from South Africa during the day. The German bank in its weekly statement reported substantial decreases in loans and notes, and an increase of nearly $10,000,000 in cash holdings.

Money on call—Steady; 1¼@1¾ per cent; ruling rate, 1¾ per cent; closing bid, 1¼ per cent; offered at 1¾ per cent. Time loans—Quiet and steady; 60 days, 2½@3 per cent, and 90 days, 3@3½ per cent; six months, 3¼@3¾ per cent. Close: Prime mercantile paper, 4@4½ per cent. Sterling exchange—Steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 4.8475@4.8485 for 60 day bills and at 4.8635 for demand. Commercial bills, 4.84@4.84½. Bar silver, 47¾. Mexican dollars, 45. Government bonds—Steady; railroad bonds, irregular.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Oct. 26.—Money was dearer and in increased demand on the market today. Discounts were firm, and the bulk of the $4,500,000 in gold available was secured by the continent, principally France.

On the stock exchange the commencement of the settlement and the uncertainty of the Balkan situation checked the expansion of business, speculative as well as investment, and prices drooped for lack of support. Consols were ⅛ down and foreigners were irregular in sympathy with Paris.

Americans were quietly steady in the forenoon, covering operations keeping values above parity. Later New York bid up Union Pacific and a few other favorites and the market finished firm, but dull.

LOWER TARIFF AID TO CAN

Reduction in Iron Duty Would Better Company's Position.

ATCHISON ROAD ECONOMIZES.

Boxboard Preferred the Most Active Issue on Local Exchange.

Talk of the reduction in the tariff on pig iron and iron and steel products suggests the position of the American Can company in relation thereto. As the Can company is not a manufacturer of plate, but buys its raw material, it seems reasonable to assume that any reduction on iron and steel products must mean lower cost of raw material for the American Can company. Eventually this should improve the position of the company and lead to further strength in the stock.

So far as the market for the shares is concerned, it may be expected that any reduction in tariff schedules as a whole will lead to some disturbance in securing markets. But after the tariff question shall have been settled, and if the price of raw materials used by the Can company shall have been reduced, then the company should reap benefit, instead of the contrary, from tariff legislation.

Chicagoans are holders of a great many shares of the Can company. As to the future, they may take into consideration the fact that the company is well managed, that it has practically reached the point where it is not necessary to borrow to any great extent at the banks, that with the prospect of tariff revision the position of the company will be improved, and that within the next two years the company should be in the best position since the time of its organization.

Merger Denver and Rio Grande Lines.

The merger of all the lines of the Denver and Rio Grande railroad has been completed and a mortgage for $150,000,000 filed. This secures an issue of bonds for a like amount. Of the sum $90,000,000 will be used for refunding outstanding indebtedness, $25,000,000 will be used in the construction of the Western Pacific railroad, and the remainder will be employed in the extension of old lines and the construction of new ones.

Stock Pledged to Reorganization.

While no deposits of United Boxboard and Paper stock were made yesterday at the depositary, the Western Trust and Savings bank, considerable amounts of the shares have been pledged under the reorganization plans. It is yet too early to forecast the probable outcome of the reorganization. Some interests in the company favor a larger assessment. But in view of the considerable losses suffered by the stockholders, $7.00 a share for the preferred and $1.40 for the common seem sufficiently large, in view of the price of the stock. Such assessments, if acquiesced in by all the shareholders, would liquidate the floating debt of the company and give it a working capital of over $1,000,000. Then, with prudent management, it would seem that the company should be able to work along cautiously into a better financial position.

Precarious Business.

Any one who is familiar with the course of the strawboard, boxboard, and paper business knows that no money has been made since the early days of American Strawboard company. The profits then shown were the result of a sudden boost in prices, due to the formation of the trust. After a few years competition sprang up, profits were reduced, and the original Strawboard company management was ousted. Since that time it has been a matter of formation of pools and selling agencies.

There was the Standard Strawboard company, which failed; the Manufacturers' Paper company, which failed; the Park's pooling arrangement, which failed; the United Boxboard and Paper company, which failed. Now it is proposed to cut in two the stock of the United Boxboard and Paper company to wipe out a fictitious surplus, to cut the plant account in two, and start over with a less inflated capital.

Experience has shown that, as a rule, the strawboard and paper business is most successfully conducted by individual plants in territory where raw material is naturally abundant. But when a trust is formed, the decrepit and ill placed mills go in along with the good ones, and the high prices following immediately after the trust formation only excite new competition.

Atchison Cuts Expenses.

The report of the Atchison railway for September shows a deep cut in operating expenses and a good exhibit so far as gross earnings are concerned. The decrease in the latter item, compared with last year, was but $170,440. Operating expenses, however, were reduced $687,976. This left an increase in net for the month of $517,535.

The feature of the report is necessarily the reduction of the operating ratio. The statement follows:

		Decrease.

Cotton Oil Dividends.

Influential directors of the American Cotton Oil company are quoted as saying there is no truth in the report that the board is in favor of suspending dividends upon the company's stocks at the meeting to be held next week. While the business of the company has not been nearly so good as last year, it does not mean total abandonment of dividends, but in all likelihood a reduction of the same.

SLEEPY DAY IN WHEAT PIT

Prices Move Sluggishly, Traders Showing Waiting Spirit.

DULLNESS EXTENDS TO CORN.

December Price Firm on Fears of Delayed Moving of New Grain.

Featured mainly by lack of activity, yesterday's wheat market moved within a range of a shade more than ½c, winding up ⅛@¼c firmer for December, 1-16c better for May, and unchanged for July. Not in many weeks has trade been so slim and pit interest so mild and ladylike, business at times being virtually at a standstill. There was the same old nonsense of opinion as to what the market should do, but operators in general seemed to be in a waiting mood, so deeply in it, in fact, that they were content to hold their trading at a minimum. Bears said the bulls were waiting for receipts southwest and northwest to decrease to the long expected proportions, and the bulls said the bears feared to wield their hammers because of the situation in the Argentine. The public, as for a long time past, merely sat on the fence with hands on its pocketbook.

Liverpool Firm at the Start.

Steadiness marked the opening, the market deriving benefit from the relatively firm start at Liverpool, which was affected by lighter world's exports than expected and more frost reports from the Argentine republic. Before the session had run its course, however, the English market developed easiness, closing unchanged to ½d lower. Final quotations elsewhere abroad showed unchanged at Paris and Antwerp, ¼c lower at Berlin, and ⅝c weaker at Budapest.

Exports Are Under Expectations.

The total shipments last week were 10,976,000 bu, compared to 11,712,000 bu the preceding week, and 10,240,000 bu the corresponding period last year. Russian and Danubian contributions to the total fell 1,200,000 bu under those of the week before and aggregated only 100,000 bu more than the small showing of a year ago. Supplies on ocean passage—33,736,000 bu, against 31,536,000 bu a year ago—showed 740,000 bu less than the previous week's "floater." The Liverpool market slightly reflected a bullish German report on the wheat and rye situation in the kaiser's realm.

Receipts Big Despite Rough Weather.

Notwithstanding the unsettled weather northwest and southwest, receipts at the principal points of both sections were liberal. Duluth and Minneapolis together had 1,062 cars, against 764 cars a year ago, Winnipeg looming up with 918 cars, compared to 755 cars last year. Arrivals at Kansas City and St. Louis aggregated 369,000 bu, compared to 376,000 bu the similar day in 1907. Primary receipts totaled 1,340,000 bu, against 1,232,000 bu a year ago. Clearances at the seaboard, wheat and flour, were generous at 626,000 bu, but exporters in general noted little in the way of new business with the foreigners.

Heavy Increase in the Visible.

As expected, the visible supply showing indicated another big increase in domestic and Canadian supplies—8,137,000 bu, against a decrease of 362,000 bu the same time last year. The total now in sight at home and in the commion is 45,632,000 bu, compared to 42,250,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply statement was responsible for enough general selling to take the starch out of values, but the dips witnessed sufficient support to cause a recovery. There was little in the way of change in the general domestic cash situation, but Duluth and some of the southwestern points sent word that export bids were nearer to a working basis. Minneapolis said that deliveries in the northwest were virtually nil, that roads were impassable, and that there would not be much moving until a freeze came along to improve the country highways. Saturday's flour sales there were said to have reached a handsome total, millers continuing their quest for hard winter in Nebraska and elsewhere in the southwest.

More Frost for the Argentine.

Rosario cabled that all of the northern part of the Argentine was visited by a hard frost Saturday night, but that it was impossible at this time to determine the extent of damage. Uncertainty as to the true state of affairs in the southern republic unquestionably had more to do with the backwardness of traders in the pit than any other factor. Bulls seem sure that frost has worked big damage to the crop there, but the bears appear equally certain that final results will show but little real injury to the grain. In the meantime the cables are of the pro and con variety, being too indefinite in character to influence the trade much either way.

Corn Market Shows Narrowness.

As in the case of wheat, the corn market displayed marked lassitude, values keeping within narrow bounds and traders holding close to shore. The December was relatively firmer than the more distant futures, closing unchanged, whereas May and July wound up 1-16c and ⅛c easier, respectively. December shorts covered freely early in the day on the fear that rough weather over the greater part of the belt would interfere with grading and hauling. The distant months were hard pressed by influential professional speculators, but trade at the finish was light.

Declines in Cash Maize.

Cash corn ruled ½@⅝c lower, the better grades being relatively the strongest, with only moderate business done at the declines. Illinois and Missouri points sent in unfavorable husking reports, results being poorer than the farmers a short time ago had expected. It was estimated that late corn in the northern part of this state had suffered fully 25 per cent damage as a result of recent frosts, but it was claimed that husking showed good quality both early and late. Farmers in that section are said to be firm in the belief that better prices will be offered them in the near future, and are not selling freely at prevailing bids. Local receipts were 96 cars, including 33 of contract grade, against 307 received a year ago, the estimate for today being 145 cars. Primary arrivals totaled 319,000 bu, compared to 737,000 bu last year. Last week's world's exports totaled 2,405,000 bu, against 3,673,000 bu a year ago, and supplies on ocean passage showed a decrease of 102,000 bu. The visible supply statement represented a decrease of 641,000 bu, compared to a falling off of 309,000 bu a year ago. Seaboard clearances were 71,000 bu, with a few boatloads representing new business with the foreigners.

Oats Market Shows Little Change.

The oats market, both speculative and cash, was painfully dull the greater part of the session, and values in the pit hugged the Saturday closing level. Finals showed ¼c firmer for December, 1-16c better for May, and ¼c stronger for July. Prices for the cash article were steady to about ⅛c easier. Local receipts were 227 cars, including 20 of contract grade, against 192 expected, and 438 received a year ago, the estimate for today being 216 cars. Primary arrivals aggregated 729,000 bu, compared to 1,084,000 bu last year. The visible supply statement showed an increase of 753,000 bu, compared to a gain of 608,000 bu the corresponding time in 1907.

Cash Rye Is Weak.

Increasing receipts had a depressing effect on cash rye. No. 2 sold free on board at 74@75c; No. 3, 70c; and No. 4, 68@69c. December was offered at 73½c and May sold at 79c, closing at that price asked. Receipts were 21 cars.

Barley prices were without quotable change. Malting was quoted 53@61c; mixing, 52@54c; and screenings, 40@57c. Receipts were 65 cars.

Flaxseed was 1½c higher. No. 1 northwestern closed at $1.20½; No. 1 from the northwest, $1.23½; and No. 1 southwestern, $1.16½. Receipts, none.

Timothy seed was quiet and unchanged. March closed at $3.80 bid and $4.00 asked. Country lots, $2.40@3.50. Cloverseed steady at $8.50 for October and $6.00@8.00 for cash lots.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—All traders were greatly surprised at the small receipts of live stock, runs being anywhere from 10,000 to 16,000 lighter than had been expected. In spite of the reduced arrivals of cattle buyers showed no precipitation in filling orders, and the trade in general was disappointing. Offerings in the native steer division included several loads of good to choice heavy beeves and prime yearlings, but the demand for such stock was not so urgent, and prices did not show more than 10c gain, although a few instances of 15c advance were noted. A load of 2,200 pounds at $5.50@6.00 went to best advantage, the sharply reduced receipts of range cattle accelerating the buying of this grade of natives, and values held largely 15c higher. Native butcher stock trade had a good tone early, and as many sales were made as were in front a gain of 10@15c. As the session lengthened, however, the market grew weaker and at the close all of the advance had been ceded back. Calves sold strong to a shade higher in spite of plain quality, while bulls were practically unchanged. Hogs sold at a gain of 10@15c, with most of the heavy offerings showing the full 15c advance. Packers were greatly disappointed at the receipts and went after the offerings in a hurry, paying the advance without hesitation and closing the market in prime condition, with all the good hogs closely sold. Live mutton prices made an upward jump of 25@40c. It was just as easy to sell stock as it was difficult to secure reasonable bids a week ago, and a satisfactory clearance was made in good time. Best range lambs sold up to $6.00, against $5.40 on closing days last week.

CATTLE.

Receipts of 18,000, included 1,500 western range cattle and compared with total arrivals of 34,534 a week ago. Local packers and shippers, after filling a few urgent orders early in the day at an advance of 10@15c in prices, declared they were not in need of voluminous supplies and held back in an effort to force a reaction in values. Exporters were more active buyers than on any previous day in several weeks, and paid 10@15c and in a few instances 25c higher for steers which just suited their fancy, foreigners appearing to take the stock they wanted, however, and salesmen were forced to look to the packers and shippers to clean up offerings, accepting their reduced bids until at the close most of the early advance had been lost. In all other branches of the beeve trade it was practically the same active buying and higher values at the start, and slow trading and all appreciation in prices ceded back at the close. Best steers on the market sold at $7.40, there being a total lack of extremely high selections, $7.00 being the top price comparing with an extreme figure of $7.60 a week ago. Other loads of choice heavy beeves and prime yearlings sold at $7.00@7.35, while the bulk of the choice offerings cleared at from $6.20@6.90, with throwouts from the market at $5.00@6.00, and exporters paying up to $6.50 for strictly desirable export steers. Western range steers were of fair to good quality and sold up to $5.60. Native heifers made $4.00@4.75 for good to choice heavy grades, while few cows sold at more than $4.60. Bulk of cows and heifers made $3.45@3.90. Calves sold up to $7.75@8.00. Quotations:

Cattle at six western markets, 41,000, against 58,700 a week ago, 53,300 a year ago, and 67,000 two years ago. Total for 1908 to date, 6,697,000, against 7,671,000 the same period in 1907.

HOGS.

After the liberal receipts of hogs Saturday most traders looked for arrivals of around 40,000, and they were greatly surprised when the run was posted at about 24,000. Shipping orders were light, but all the packers had liberal orders to fill and they did not lose any time getting after all the strong weight hogs included in the run, paying 10@25c advance for all the offerings they could secure. Light hogs did not meet with much demand early, but when packers had absorbed the offerings of heavy hogs they turned their attention to the lighter weights and cleaned up everything in sight at the advance. Shippers paid up to $6.10 for strong weight butcher hogs, this price comparing with an extreme top of $5.90 Saturday. Most of the heavy shipping hogs, however, sold at from $5.90@6.05. Packers bought strong weight packing hogs at from $5.70@5.85, taking the mixed grades at from $5.50@5.70. Prime light hogs sold at from $5.40@6.65, with numerous lots of light mixed offerings at from $5.00@5.25. Lightweight pigs were in active demand at from $4.25@4.50, but the heavy pigs were neglected and had to sell at from $4.00@4.55. The market top hogs closed in good condition, with all the desirable offerings closely sold and only odd lots of inferior light mixed hogs left in the pens. Quotations:

SHEEP.

Receipts were pinced at only 12,000, the smallest Monday supply received here in many weeks. Prices advaced 25@40c from the outset and buyers took the offerings without hesitation, picking up thin half fed offerings on which they refused bids last week. Good live stock lambs sold at $6.00, against $5.60 on closing days last week, while other loads of prime western rangers cleared at from $5.90@6.00, with throwouts from the market toppers at $5.50. Feeding lambs met with a brisk demand from country shippers, but offerings of prime feeders were limited and prices showed little change, most lots clearing at from $5.15@ 5.25. Sheep sold strong to 25@40c advanced, the late last week. Other loads of prime wethers sold at $5.80@5.85, with top of good killers at from $5.40 @5.65. Offerings of western sheep were limited and most rangers made the full 40c advance. Western range yearlings and wethers mixed sold up to $4.40@4.75, while prime native yearling wethers topped at $4.85, and choice yearlings made $5.00@5.15. There was a scarcity of strictly prime native ewes and best on the market sold at $4.25, showing a rise of 25c, while other lots of fair to good killers cleared at from $3.85@4.00. A clearance of all the offerings was accomplished at an early hour, as all packers needed stock, and as soon as they realized that supplies were going to run short of expectations they made a scramble for the offerings, seldom leaving a load until a transaction had been made. Quotations:

Receipts for Oct. 27 were estimated as 8,000 cattle, 18,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against actual arrivals of 7,109 cattle, 6,605 hogs, and 11,794 sheep for Tuesday, Oct. 29, 1907.

STOCKYARD GOSSIP.

Rain and snow storms in the west were responsible for the disappointing receipts of live stock here and are expected to restrict the marketward movement of stock for the remainder of this week. One shipper from Greenfield, Ia., said that they had had six to eight inches of snow and a great deal of rain around his county and that some of the roads were so bad that he did not believe they would be passable before the end of the week. A local commission man said his house had expected thirty loads of western cattle which had not arrived, owing to storms interfering with traffic. Other houses had similar advices and it was the sentiment of the trade that supplies of all stock would be much smaller this week.

"Although I believe that the storms have much to do with the lighter receipts of hogs," said J. B. ("Jimmy") Cahill, hog salesman for Rappal Bros., "unsatisfactory prices will be the principal factor in cutting down the number of hogs received from Wisconsin Tuesday. I know several shippers from there who lost a great deal of money last week because they could not get the swine cheap enough in the country and these fellows will not be represented this week, nor until prices here advance, or hogs can be had in the country at lower figures."

The Farmers and Drovers' Journal's British cablegram quoted American beves on the Liverpool and London markets ⅛c per lb lower than on last Wednesday, sales being at 11¾@12¼c per lb, against 11¾c per lb at Liverpool last Wednesday and 13½@13¾c per lb at both markets a week ago. This decline had no effect on local exporters' operations and they bought more cattle here than on several days past. Armour & Co. alone taking more than thirty loads of export steers.

Average price of hogs at $5.71 showed an advance of 24c over Saturday's average and stood 30c higher than a week ago, and highest since Oct. 15. Average weight of hogs at Chicago last week, 204 lbs, was lightest since March, 1904, and 4 lbs lighter than a week ago, comparing with 228 lbs a year ago and 231 lbs two years ago.

"Packers' buyers bought sheep and lambs of plain quality and paid $1.00 more than could have been secured for them any day last week," said a prominent salesman. "In fact, some of the offerings sold on first rounds were of a grade which it was almost impossible to get bids on last week."

There were twenty-four loads of western lambs sold at $6.00, the top of the market, while only fifty-five head of natives reached $5.90, the extreme top for this class of stock. Prime yearlings, weighing an average of 91 lbs, sold at $5.00, while native yearling wethers sold up to $4.85.

Armour & Co. had about 1,200 hogs in direct from the St. Paul market, and bought 5,000 here, making the total purchases for the day 6,200 or more than twice as many secured by Swift & Co., who had 3,000 and stood second in the list. Schwarzchild & Sulzberger bought 2,500 hogs, while the Anglo-American Provision company and Hammond together had 3,600. Local packers were more liberal than usual, taking 1,500 hogs.

ON THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Higher prices at the yards, much lighter hog receipts here and at other western packing centers than expected, the poor quality of swine received here last week, and apparent unwillingness on the part of farmers to accept the discounts on "unfinished" animals that packers are forced to pay are the factors which underlay market strength in the provision market. Final prices, a little under the session's top, represented net gains of 7½@27½c for pork, 7½@15c for lard, and 10@15c for ribs. Local hog receipts were 20,000 or 16,000 under expectations, and the total western run—59,100—while 25,000 over that of the "panic" week last year, fell 13,900 under those of the preceding Monday. The average weight of hogs received here last week—204 lbs—was the lightest since March, 1904. Provision exports last week were 1,520 bbls of pork, 10,604,000 lbs of lard, and 16,266 boxes of bacon, compared to 3,700 bbls, 6,468,000 lbs and 18,482 boxes respectively, the like period last year. The local hog estimate for today was 18,000.

BUSINESS CHANCES.

$285,000 FOR $100.

We own a coal mine located in the West. A mine, not a prospect. We have spent $70,000 to make this a mine. Over 1,200 feet of tunnels through bituminous coal. Cooking coal. Market for ten times possible output. Two railroads and Missouri River at mine. The mine is ready for production, only need tipple, washer, and railroad spur. To get money for this we will sell a limited amount of stock. Investments of $20 up accepted. We will furnish best of bank references as to the standing of every officer. This is a high grade investment that should appeal to the most conservative. Safety with immense profits; $100 invested in Crow Nest Coal Co.'s stock some years ago is today worth $285,000. For particulars address WESTERN COAL AND COKE COMPANY, N. Y. Life Bldg., Minneapolis, Minn.

New York, Oct. 27.—[Special.]—the popular thing in New York is on pluralities above and below th Most people have settled down to chusion that Taft will carry the st large majority and that Hughes safely over the fence and will hav heavier margin than was anticipa be possible when the campaign op

The democrats claim pluralities bia, Chemung, Greene, Delaware, Madison, Orange, Putnam, Ulster, W ter, and Wyoming counties, but th not so strong for Hughes in the las two it is doubtful if Chanler ha hare plurality in more than two counties.

They frequently, if not always, ha the democratic state ticket, but vote Bryan twice. These democrats, i will not under any circumstances the democratic standard bearer t The great majority of them will Taft for president.

They belong to that class of ind voters who have learned to scra ballots successfully. According to estimates, fully 50 per cent of the democrats will vote for Taft and Chanler. They did not vote for H cause his nomination was in every regular from the democratic standp

Chanler, however, has the adva only of extreme regularity, but been nominated by a convention there was entire harmony, at least ly. Bryan and Murphy, for a wo not fight, and as there were no c dals connected with the conventio line democrats have accepted Cha regular democratic nominee and w him accordingly.
